FOUR NEW DEAL MOVES SEEN AS INFLATION TREND

Senators O. K. More Dollar Rigging.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—Developments today indicated that the Roosevelt administration rapidly is piecing together a new program of "planned economy" by which it hopes to regain the political ground it has lost through the failure of its earlier recovery schemes.

John E. Miller. [Acme Photo.]

Events on several fronts showed the administration forces fighting to retain their present powers over the country's economic life and at the same time seeking new grants which would greatly enlarge those powers.

Four Developments of Day.

Four developments during the day were seen by observers as holding particular significance. They were:

1. The administration succeeded in dislodging from a senate banking and currency subcommittee the bill which would extend for two years the President's dictatorial monetary powers. The favorable report on the bill was made possible when Senator John E. Miller [D., Ark.] switched his position after talking to the President.

2. Jerome Frank, newly elected chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, appeared before another senate banking and currency subcommittee to urge immediate passage of the Mead bill which would empower the Reconstruction Finance corporation to insure private bank loans to small business.

3. Ernest G. Draper, a member of the federal reserve board, appeared before the same subcommittee to ask legislation giving the reserve banks greater leeway in meeting the credit requirements of small business men. This, he said, would supplement the aid which the RFC would extend to small business under the Mead bill.

4. Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, the President's closest adviser, told his press conference that private capital is unable to promote economic recovery. The only alternative, he said, is that government should provide funds for industry.

Plan Inflationary Program.

Observers saw in the day's developments the shaping up of an inflationary program by which the administration will make another effort to turn back the depression and restore at least a semblance of recovery before the country goes to the polls next year.

A preview of the methods by which this objective will be sought recently was given by A. A. Berle, assistant secretary of state, in his testimony before the monopoly committee. Berle outlined a revolutionary plan for the ultimate socialization of the machinery for financing industry. The program, he admitted, eventually would result as well in the socialization of all the country's basic industries.

Today's testimony of Frank and Draper showed that the administration would use the powers provided in the Mead bill as a stop gap expedient to accomplish in so far as possible the first objective of the Berle plan. Frank admitted that the Mead bill should be regarded only as a temporary palliative. He suggested the need for passage at the next session of legislation creating a system of capital credit banks.

Recalls Douglas Scheme.

Frank recalled that William O. Douglas, former SEC chairman and now a justice of the Supreme court, advocated such a system.

Frank told the committee that government insurance of loans to small business would tend to offset the rapid increase "in the rapid concentration of business and industry." He said that some giant corporations probably should be broken up. "But," he added, "the wholesale pulverization of all large corporations would not be wise or socially desirable."

In contrast to small business, he said, some of the big corporations

HEIRESS' HEAD CRUSHED WITH CLAW HAMMER

Slain When Ready to Go to Church.

A well to do spinster was found strangled and hammered to death late last night in her first floor apartment at 3248 Franklin boulevard, where she lived alone with two dogs.

She was Miss Rose Neary, about 51 years old, heiress to an estate estimated at $140,000. She was well known as a philanthropist in church and neighborhood charities.

The murder was discovered shortly before 11 p. m. Miss Neary had been dead at least four hours. She lay face downward on a costly oriental rug in the living room near the front window and close to the hallway entrance.

Head Bashed In with Hammer.

A towel covered her head, the back of which had been bashed in with what police believe was a claw hammer. A length of radio cord was wound around and almost imbedded in her throat. The cord had been snipped from a small radio in the kitchen. A pair of scissors evidently used to cut it was found near by. The scissors are to be examined for finger prints.

Miss Neary was dressed in street clothes with her hat on and an umbrella over one wrist when she was struck down. A further touch of mystery was added when a crumpled piece of paper, bearing the telephone number of a woman friend and written in Miss Neary's handwriting, was found in the victim's clenched left hand.

Austin police said Miss Neary knew that phone number by heart. The written notation, they said, may have been written for the benefit of some one who was with her—that some one presumably being the slayer.

Struck While Nearing Door.

Miss Neary was struck with the hammer as she walked toward the front hallway, near where the telephone stands. The murderer came up from behind. He may have been with her and preparing to depart when he struck, or he may have been a total stranger, perhaps a burglar, in hiding when he acted. Supporting this possibility is the fact that a wrist watch and a purse Miss Neary was known to possess were missing.

The murder of Miss Nearly was discovered through her failure to appear at the 75th anniversary jubilee of the Washington Boulevard temple of the B'nai Abraham Zion congregation, 23 North Karlov avenue, of which she was a stanch member. Miss Neary was half Jewish and half Irish. Her mother, Mrs. Clara Neary, died in February, 1938. Her first husband was a Mr. Neary, father of the slain woman. Her second was Andrew O'Rourke, who died five years ago. He was a foreman for the Crane company and left an estate of more than $100,000.

Friends Become Worried.

Miss Neary was co-chairman of the jubilee celebration and chairman of the refreshments committee. When she failed to show up last night many of the congregation members became worried. Their worry had been shared earlier by Paul Ferrell, who lives above Miss Neary's apartment and who bought the building from her parents eleven years ago.

Mr. Ferrell, a teacher in Crane Technical High school, first became alarmed. He noticed at 9:30 that Miss Neary's apartment was dark. She usually kept lights burning when she was out. He called the synagogue. Later Milton Cohen, 3722 Pine Grove avenue, a tailor, and Charles T. Kramer, 5338 Washington boulevard, a lawyer, left the jubilee gathering and accompanied Mr. Ferrell into the Neary apartment and found her dead.

Few Clews Discovered.

Police were virtually without clews. They said they wished to speak with Fred Hayward, 40, an assistant foreman at the Crane company and an old family friend, to see if he could advise them as to Miss Neary's background. Neighbors told police Miss Neary had been expecting some advice from him on financial matters.

Another friend, Edward Donovan, 4522 North Wolcott avenue, a street car conductor, came forward during the night. He said he had been chauffeur for Miss Neary two days monthly for which he received $7 each day. He is married. His wife, he said, did not know of this employment. He last saw Miss Neary, he said, Thursday night. Sergts. Francis Donohue and Ollie Karwoski of the coroner's office said they are looking into reports Donovan was made beneficiary in an insurance policy for $1,000 taken out in Miss Neary's name.

THE KEYS TO OUR PRISONS

Slot Machine Heat to Stay, Says Cassidy

The heat is on to stay.

Attorney General John E. Cassidy's law enforcement conference yesterday ended with assurances that slot machines no longer will be tolerated in Cook county.

Cassidy was backed up by Arthur S. Smith, chairman of the Illinois Liquor Control board, and Walter Williams, chief of the state highway police. Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, and Chief Lester Laird of the Cook county highway police participated in the conference and pledged their cooperation.

The five agreed that from now on the display of a slot machine on the premises of a tavern or a roadhouse will mean the revocation of the place's liquor license.

Gentlemen's Agreement Ended.

And there was significance in Cassidy's statement that henceforth Chief Williams will act "jointly and independently" in the campaign against the one armed bandits. In the past state police have been restrained by a sort of gentlemen's agreement not to antagonize the sherifs of the 102 counties of Illinois by sleuthing for slot machines.

With possible arrest by Williams, prosecution by Cassidy, and license revocation by Smith, it was believed that no liquor retailers would take a chance of permitting slot machines on their premises.

"This was a friendly conference," said Cassidy at the close of the meeting, which was in his offices at 160 North La Salle street. "We are a unit in our determination to eliminate slot machines permanently.

Aid to Appear Before Board.

"The state liquor control commission has jurisdiction over licenses of all retailers of liquor, and it is these dealers who have been permitting slot machines to operate. Their licenses are renewable July 1.

"I am going to assign an assistant attorney general to appear before the liquor control board in every case involving a slot machine violation. Mr. Crowley, in behalf of State's Attorney Courtney, has agreed to prosecute in court whenever an arrest is made. Chief Laird, in behalf of Sherif O'Brien, has agreed to cooperate.

"I will have investigators of my own at work. The liquor control commission has investigators in the field. Added to the combined efforts of the state and county police, this will keep us informed whenever a slot machine appears in any public place. Action will follow."

Cassidy and Crowley united in saying that the city of Chicago has not been a slot machine offender.

Cassidy explained his action in Cook county by saying he had been receiving reports that the suburban territory was resounding to the whir of slot machines.

DOG WITH A PERFECT SCHOOL ATTENDANCE RECORD HAS HIS DAY

St. Joseph, Mo., June 2.—(AP)—Skippy Monte and Bob Pendleton's dog was awarded an official perfect attendance certificate during graduation exercises at Eugene Field grade school. He hadn't missed a school day in three years, even attending when his young masters were at home. Monte and Bob brought a dog food sandwich in their lunch every day.

Independent Auto Workers Vote 98 Per Cent for AFL

Milwaukee, Wis., June 2.—[Special.]—George B. Kiebler, regional director of the Independent United Automobile Workers' union said today the 10,000 members in this district have voted to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor. Kiebler said 98 per cent of the district which embraces Wisconsin, Illinois and Minnesota voted to unite with the A. F. of L. The independent union, headed by Homer Martin, withdrew from the U. A. W., affiliated with the rival Congress of Industrial Organizations.

King Carol Puts Gypsy Newsboys Into Uniforms

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 2.—(AP)—Bucharest's tattered gypsy newsboys, long one of the colorful sights of the Rumanian capital, were put into uniform today by King Carol's government. A police decree ordered linen uniforms and caps for the newsboys and also ordered them to wear shoes.

K. C. Police Director Gives SquadCar a Ticket and Fine

Kansas City, Mo., June 2.—(AP)—Police Director William M. Boyle means business in the safety campaign. Today he ordered a police safety car tagged for illegal parking and told the car's occupants, Cecil Gardner and Charles Shaw, to pay the $3.50 penalty by tomorrow or "don't show up for work."

Sweet Adeline! CloseHarmony Has a Revival

Tulsa, Okla., June 2.—(AP)—The harmony was terrific as delegates thawed their pipes today at the first annual convention of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

And that sentimental tune, "I Had a Dream, Dear," quivered under the initial tonsil twanging of the first 50 or so delegates to arrive. They hit it low and dreamy, high and sweet, fast and swingy, trying to live up to the name and purpose of their organization.

Wives Notably Absent.

The never to be forgotten "Sweet Adeline" and "Honey" also came in for a thorough vocal mauling, with the "Kentucky" group closing strong.

The convention was notable for the absence of wives, whose place the delegates contended, remembering an old one, was in the home.

J. Hobart Holmes of East Chicago, Ind., Harry E. Carey of Greenville, Ill., and Ed Reid and Bill Shuler of Arkansas City, Kas., hove into town, clasped each other firmly around the neck and unloosed their quartet, warbling where they left off 15 years ago near the other Arkansas City, which is in Arkansas instead of Kansas.

Cops Uncork Harmony.

The barber shop bards wore tags identifying them as tenor, lead, baritone, or bass.

The Society for the Preservation of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America was organized here two years ago by Mr. Cash, who is an oil company executive. The original group obtained a state charter and now has chapters in Kansas City, Mo.; Hollywood, Cal.; Havana, Cuba, Toronto, Canada, and about a dozen smaller places.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—When next Thursday comes around and King George and Queen Elizabeth of England attend a garden party at the British embassy they will be able to greet all the United States senators and their wives.

Mrs. John N. Garner. [Copyright Harris & Ewing.]

They'll all be there. They all have invitations. Some of them received the coveted cards only today. That's not quite all the story. Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, and Lady Lindsay added a number of representatives to the guest list. The congressmen in luck were mentioning the bids beamingly tonight.

Saves Their Social Prestige.

The extension of the list to take in the senators and other importants was regarded as a social triumph for Mrs. John N. Garner, wife of the Vice President. She and Lady Lindsay are on the best of terms, and she is said to have tactfully urged that the prestige of all the senate ladies, who yield to none in Washington society, be saved.

Originally the guest list for the party was limited to 1,300. Congressional leaders were invited sparingly—members of the foreign relations committees of the two houses, the majority and minority leaders, and chairmen of the standing committees, all with their wives.

Now the total will be much larger. Perhaps the embassy has seen the dark clouds of anti-British sentiment that were blown up by the uninvited senators and their ladies. The British diplomats could hardly be unaware of them.

Senators' Lives Mournful.

It wasn't only "Miz Ettie," as Mrs. Garner is known to Cactus Jack's constituents in Texas, who called attention to the seriousness of the situation. Some of Sir Ronald's old friends in the senate asked him to confer on arrangements for the royal reception at Capitol hill. When they got hold of him they let him know that life was mighty mournful for the statesmen who hadn't been asked—and whose wives were pestering them about it.

Sir Ronald was sympathetic, according to report. But he didn't guarantee anything. He couldn't even allow all the wives of the congressmen and senators to meet their majesties at the reception in the capitol—there wasn't time. The best guess is that he began to realize how awkward it might be to offend senators after Mrs. Garner's advice reached him through Lady Lindsay.

Anyhow, the announcement was made officially today:

"The garden party guest list has been extended to cover all members of the senate and their wives." The roster of the fortunate representatives was withheld. It was indicated the list of these would not be made public until just before the party starts; maybe not at all. Such a list might be construed by the left out contingent as an additional slight.

The congressmen's wives will get something of a break in the seating arrangements for the capitol reception. The choicest places on the stand to be placed in front of the capitol steps have been reserved for them and for the newspaper reporters assigned to the press galleries. Scotland Yard is said to have approved this, preferring women to men in the seats closest to the king and queen.

Inquiry failed to disclose whether the royal visitors will be served domestic or imported wines at the White House. Mrs. Roosevelt said that the President would decide. Mr. Roosevelt said he hadn't given the matter any thought and his press secretary, Steve Early, said there would be no announcement about wines.

RENEW RESCUE WORK; CHANCES FOR 90 ARE SLIM

Tide Sweeps Craft Completely Under.

BIRKENHEAD, England, June 3 [Saturday].—(AP)—Despite abandonment of hope by the builders of the submarine Thetis, the British admiralty announced today that divers reported faint tappings on the hull of the vessel in which ninety men are trapped. The tappings were heard at 2 a. m. [8 p. m. Chicago daylight time, Friday], the admiralty said.

As a consequence of these faint signs of life, the admiralty directed a vast array of rescue ships to push forward their operations throughout the night in an attempt to raise the stern of the craft "when slack water provides the next opportunity." Low tide was not expected until 6 a. m. [midnight Friday, Chicago time].

Believe Air Supply Exhausted.

Only a short time before the admiralty announcement was made Sydney Woodward, secretary of the Cammell Laird shipyard, which built the Thetis, had given up for dead the men aboard the ill fated craft.

"I am sorry," Woodward said brokenly to a crowd dotted with wives and relatives of the seamen and civilian occupants of the vessel, "but there is no hope for the men remaining in the submarine."

This announcement was made near the end of the 36 hours which it was estimated would exhaust the air supply in the Thetis. The vessel went down at 1:40 p. m. [7:40 a. m. Chicago daylight time] Thursday in Liverpool bay on the edge of the Irish sea. The 36 hours passed at 1:40 a. m. today [7:40 p. m. Chicago time Friday.] Twenty minutes later the tappings were heard.

Rescue Workers Abandon Hope.

Woodward's announcement that hope had been abandoned had been supported by a naval officer who arrived in Liverpool from the scene of the disaster early this morning. He said that salvage work had been halted until dawn and that hope had been given up by the rescue workers at the scene.

Another evidence that hope had been abandoned was given in the dismissal of ambulance workers held in readiness here and the turning out of the pier lights.

Four of the 94 men who were aboard the craft when it went into a test dive Thursday and failed to reappear escaped from the submarine. These four were saved through the use of the Davis lung apparatus, a device which carried them to the surface through an escape hatch with oxygen masks strapped to their faces.

Three others were said by a lifeboat crew to have perished in an attempt to follow the four to the surface.

Disaster a Mystery.

While there was no official explanation of the accident, these were the salient facts of the disaster and attempts to effect a rescue:

Search for the new vessel was started three hours after it submerged in a test dive preparatory to being turned over to the British admiralty;

At 8:20 a. m. Friday [2:20 a. m. Chicago time] the Thetis was discovered by the destroyer Brazen. A 265 foot vessel, the Thetis lay in 130 feet of water with 18 feet of the tail above water at a 45 degree angle;

The tail disappeared with a strong tide at dusk, Friday, and failed to reappear.

Up until late yesterday afternoon the admiralty had expressed confidence that the men would be rescued. Before the stern went out of sight there had been attempts to cut holes to let out stale air and admit a fresh air supply to the entombed men. A hawser had been reported attached to the submarine in an effort to lift it up further. It snapped under the strain.

Admiralty Loses Hope.

Announcement of the Cammell Laird official that hope for the men had been given up carried a step further a previous statement of the admiralty before midnight that hope was greatly diminished.

These announcements had no effect on the frantic yet apparently futile rescue operations being pressed forward by a huge force of naval vessels.

Members of a North Wales lifeboat crew which visited the chill, searchlighted scene returned with the story that three occupants of the Thetis had perished in attempting to follow to the surface the only four survivors.

Their narrative suggested that others died desperately in trying to save themselves with the Davis lung apparatus.

Never before, said the lifeboat men, had they seen such a heart-rending drama.

"We have never felt so helpless," said one who often had participated in rescues in turbulent seas.

"We were there for more than four and a half hours, and waited patiently, hoping some more would be able to get away from her," said Robin Williams, coxswain of the lifeboat.

Entire Craft Sinks.

"She did not reappear at low tide. The strong tide had dislodged her from the mud bank in which she apparently stuck nose down, and the tide hitting against the stern pushed her down to the bed of the sea."

"There were rescue vessels of all kinds around, divers and admirals. As time went on the chances of rescue became more and more slender. We could do nothing, of course, and when we came away no more had left the submarine."

The four survivors—Capt. H. P. K. Oram, commander of the 5th submarine flotilla; Lieut. H. G. Woods, Chief Stoker W. C. Arnold, and F. Shaw, an employé of the builders — were closely guarded. There was not the slightest official light on what they told when they were picked up by the destroyer Brazen.

All that was permitted to seep from the official wall of secrecy was that the quartet had said their companions expected to follow them upward in the escape apparatus. One authority said:

"It is obvious now that the fore part of the submarine was flooded, and the fact that no further members of the crew were rescued by the Davis escape apparatus suggests to experts that the water is now in the chamber below the aft escape hatch [from which the four had escaped]

Avenue of Escape Closed.

"It was certain, after the rescue of the four men, that they were using the aft hatch. From the admiralty statement it appears that no other members of the crew could reach the chamber beneath it to be released to the surface."

The London Daily Mail said that lifeboat men returning from the scene said the provisional theory for the failure of more men to escape was:

That one of the civilian experts on board the Thetis, in attempting to escape with a member of the crew by the Davis escape hatch, failed to carry out the necessary procedure. The hatch thus became jammed and closed the final avenue of escape.

Britain does not have large scale undersea rescue apparatus such as the American navy used successfully last week in rescuing thirty-three men from the sunken submarine Squalus off Portsmouth, N. H. An admiralty officer said the British navy had no rescue chamber like the American navy's diving bell.

JILTED SUITOR SHOOTS WOMAN, THEN KILLS SELF

Mrs. Mary Panozzo, owner of a tavern at 1548 North Wells street, was shot in the right shoulder by her suitor, Peter Mannino, yesterday when she refused his offer of marriage. Mannino then committed suicide by shooting himself in the right temple. The shooting occurred in the Panozzo tavern.

Mrs. Panozzo told Sergt. Ollie Karwoski, investigator for the coroner's office, that Mannino had been courting her for several months. Yesterday when she refused to agree to marry him he drew the revolver, she said, and asserted: "Then you'll never marry any one else."

Mrs. Panozzo is 42 years old and a widow. Mannino was 26 years old. He said he lived at 1435 Fletcher street.

SWEDEN DROPS BILL TO FORTIFY AALAND ISLANDS

[Copyright, 1938, by the New York Times.]

STOCKHOLM, June 2.—The foreign affairs committee of parliament was informed today by the government that the bill for coöperation with Finland in fortifying the Aaland islands would be withdrawn tomorrow. Parliament will adjourn about June 10, but it may be summoned for an extraordinary session if action on the Aaland question is required. After Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov of Russia protested Wednesday against the Swedish-Finnish plan, many former adherents in parliament became hesitant and urged further negotiations.

BRITISH BATTLE ARABS AS TERROR GRIPS HOLY LAND

7 Killed in Clash; 6 Die in Bomb Blast.

JERUSALEM, June 2.—(AP)—British troops were reported tonight to be fighting a major engagement in the Kalkaliya hills with an Arab band as a new wave of bloodshed swept the Holy Land.

The Arab band during the day wiped out a road patrol of four British soldiers and three Jewish policemen, thirty-five miles northwest of Jerusalem. They seized a machine gun and other arms.

In addition six Arabs were killed, including a native policeman, when a time bomb exploded in a market place near the Jaffa gate. The bomb burst amid shopping crowds. A score of Arabs were wounded so seriously they were taken to hospitals.

Tension Grows.

Terror gripped the Holy Land in the wake of the outburst. Tension grew hourly as police and military authorities strove to retain order by swift punitive measures and with ceaseless patrols in all sections of Jerusalem.

After the blast at the Jaffa gate, Arabs stoned Jewish trafic in the Arab-Jewish quarter and then authorities suspended three Arab urban bus lines. Seven Jewish bus lines already had been suspended.

Guards Doubled.

Guards about all public buildings were doubled and public services were watched carefully.

The Jerusalem community council issued a manifesto to Jews proclaiming regret and horror over the death of innocent persons in Jerusalem and demanding restraint of all Jews in their battle against the new British policy for an independent Palestine state with the Jews in a minority.

MRS. MAY AYER INDICTED BY U. S. AS A SMUGGLER

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—Mrs. May Hancock Ayer, socially prominent widow of Dr. James C. Ayer, was indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of smuggling, importing goods without declaring them and facilitating the transportation and concealment of smuggled finery.

The indictments were based on evidence obtained May 5 in a raid by customs officers on Mrs. Ayer's $333-a-month apartment in East Fifty-second street. The raid was said to have been made on information from one of Mrs. Ayer's closest friends. The officers seized jewelry and clothing valued at approximately $26,000.

The six counts in the indictment deal with two trips from Europe—one on Aug. 30, 1937, and the other on Sept. 28, 1938. The maximum penalty, if Mrs. Ayer should be convicted on all counts, is twelve years imprisonment and a fine of $30,000.

KING AND QUEEN VISIT EDMONTON, ARCTIC GATEWAY

EDMONTON, Alberta, June 2.—(AP)—King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth came back to the prairies and the crowds today from the mountains where they had one of the happiest days of their lives.

The royal visitors arrived in Edmonton, gateway to the Arctic, late in the afternoon from Jasper National park, refreshed and rested by their twenty-four hour stop there. They were greeted with a tremendous ovation.

Only six hours were allotted for the Edmonton visit, but authorities crowded something into every minute.

At the conclusion of a ride through the city the king and queen went to the provincial capitol for ceremonial addresses, then another drive and back to town for an official dinner before leaving late tonight for Saskatoon.

GERMAN LINER LEAVES HAVANA WITH 907 JEWS

But Some Retain Hope of Finding New Homes.

HAVANA, Cuba, June 2.—(AP)—A desperate boatload of 907 German Jewish refugees sailed out of Havana harbor today, heartened somewhat by a shipboard rumor that they might yet find new homes in the western world after being denied entry into Cuba.

Hamburg, Germany, their starting point, was the destination of the German liner St. Louis, whose departure marked another unsuccessful attempt by German Jews to settle in this hemisphere.

But to avoid collective suicide attempts, word was spread on board that the American government had authorized their landing in New York if continuing efforts for their entry into Cuba failed.

Bad News Kept a Secret.

Kept from them, was the news from Washington that government officials there said no arrangements had been made for them to land in New York or any other American port.

[An Associated Press dispatch from Miami, Fla., last night said the St. Louis was not proceeding to Hamburg, but was anchored approximately twelve miles off Havana. The decision to anchor the liner was attributed to appeals from interested groups in the United States, who are hopeful that the refugees may yet be landed at Havana or at some other port on the Atlantic coast.]

In Germany, relatives here said, the refugees must start life over again from scratch. At best, they said, this meant work as laborers; for some possibly concentration camps.

There was a flurry of excitement among the passengers when six of their number were permitted to land, leading to the belief that the Cuban government had lifted its ban against all of them.

Mexico Turns Back 104.

MEXICO CITY, June 2.—(AP)—The immigration department today said entry permits had been denied 104 Jewish refugees from Europe who had arrived at Vera Cruz yesterday after being refused permission to land in Cuba.

HUGE ITALIAN FORCE IN SEIZED ALBANIA STIRS FRANCE'S FEARS

ROME, June 2.—(AP)—French concern over maintenance of a large Italian army of occupation in Albania was reported today in usually reliable sources. Andre Francois-Poncet, French ambassador to Rome, was reported to have raised the question of whether there was a continued need for an Italian army in Albania in a talk Tuesday with the Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano.

The French envoy's call at the foreign ministry was followed by a statement in the Fascist periodical "Gerarchia" that the troops would prevent Greece from lining up with other powers against Germany and Italy.

Ciano was reported to have explained that the stay of the troops in Albania was a precautionary measure to avert possible trouble from Albanian dissidents. Shortly after the occupation of Albania, Italy announced officially that 30,000 troops had been sent there. Unconfirmed estimates that the troops had reached a total of 60,000 have circulated abroad.

HOW PICTURES OF SUB REACHED U. S. NEWSPAPERS

New York, June 2.—(AP)—Airplanes, land wires and undersea cables were used by the Associated Press today to get pictures of the partly submerged submarine Thetis and speed them to member newspapers in the United States.

Air views showing the stern of the vessel sticking above the surface were obtained after an extensive search of the Liverpool bay area where the Thetis went down. The pictures were flown to Liverpool thirty miles away and wired to London 200 miles distant. They then were transmitted to this country via cables and dispatched over the A. P. Wirephoto network.

Urges Soviet to Accept British Plan.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 2.—Efforts by President Roosevelt to accelerate satisfactory conclusion of a French-British-Russian military alliance to stop Reichsfuehrer Hitler are reported from continental sources and appear to be supported by information in the hands of London diplomats today.

They said it was indicated that American Ambassador William C. Bullitt, in Paris, is acting as Mr. Roosevelt's go-between with the soviet government to try to put over the pact with the French and British. Negotiations now are deadlocked because of mutual mistrust between the British and soviet governments.

Wants Reds to Accept.

Reports which gain a measure of confirmation here said the Washington, D. C., administration, already neck deep in European entanglements, now is lending its good offices to the British and French to try to get the Russians to accept the Anglo-French formula for a military alliance to encircle the axis powers.

Ambassador Bullitt was reported holding long telephone conversations with Moscow since Premier Vyacheslav Molotov's speech on Wednesday rejecting the British pact proposals as inadequate.

Continental reports say Maxim Litvinov, former soviet foreign minister, will be sent to the United States on a special mission. Tonight's latest London rumors are that Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, would go to Moscow to see if personal contacts would remove the present suspicions.

Entanglements Increase.

The upshot appears to be, from diplomatic information here, that American entanglements in purely European power politics are increasing.

Informed circles here connected the reported intervention by President Roosevelt in the pact negotiations with intimations that the British will make further extensive concessions to the Russian viewpoint.

Soviet Awaits New Offer.

MOSCOW, June 2.—(AP)—Soviet Russia looked to Great Britain and France tonight to submit new proposals after replying to the latest British suggestions for a three power mutual assistance pact.

Observers here saw indications in Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov's speech last Wednesday and subsequent editorials in the soviet press to support a belief that Moscow would be willing to join the British-French front if the three power collaboration were extended to include the far east and Russia's Baltic neighbors.

MOVE TO PLUG LEGAL LOOPHOLE FOR 943 FELONS

Decision Now Up to State Supreme Court.

Steps to plug a legal loophole that might bring about the release of 943 convicts from Illinois prisons were being considered last night by legislative leaders and state law department officials.

Judge McKinley.

They were concerned by a ruling in a test case made yesterday by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the Cook county Criminal court. If the ruling is upheld by the Supreme court, 943 convicts would be entitled to freedom.

Judge McKinley said he was fully aware of the grave implications of his decision. He instructed attorneys to make all possible speed in bringing the case before the Supreme court, which reconvenes Tuesday. In the meantime, he issued orders that would prevent the release of any convict pending the Supreme court's decision.

Attorney General Studies Ruling.

A. L. Bowen, director of the state department of public welfare and head of the state prison system, said he would await advice from Attorney General John E. Cassidy before asking corrective legislation. The attorney general said he was studying Judge McKinley's decision.

The case involves only one convict, a man in Pontiac prison, but 942 others, in Joliet, Pontiac, and Menard prisons, have precisely the same basis for seeking freedom. All of them were sentenced to terms in Pontiac reformatory prior to 1933. In that year the legislature revamped the state prison system, changing the name of Pontiac reformatory to Pontiac penitentiary.

Therefore, attorneys contended, Pontiac reformatory no longer exists, and all such convicts are being held in violation of the law. Judge McKinley upheld this contention in his ruling yesterday. He cited a report prepared for him by Attorney Walter Bachrach, appointed as a friend of the court to investigate the case.

"The Supreme court has expressly held that penitentiary detention on a reformatory sentence is an invasion of the defendant's constitutional rights," the report said.

Three Sentenced for Robbery.

The case before Judge McKinley involved a writ of habeas corpus filed in behalf of Allan Goldstein, who was sentenced to Pontiac for robbery in 1929. His co-defendants were Lawrence Ogden and Raymond Scott, who received similar terms.

Six months after the three men were taken to the reformatory they were involved in the murder of Dr. George W. Thilo. They were returned to Cook county, found guilty of murder, and sentenced to fourteen years in Joliet prison. When the three completed the murder sentences they were held for their robbery terms.

By that time the legislature had reclassified the prisons, with the intention of improving administration, and had abolished the name Pontiac reformatory. Attorneys for Scott, who was being held in Joliet prison, were first to see the legal loophole. Last fall they obtained from Judge McKinley an order for his release. The judge then ruled that the robbery sentence could not be served at a different prison without an order from the trial judge. Scott then was transferred to Pontiac.

The attorney general's office carried this case to the Supreme court, which declined to expunge Judge McKinley's ruling. The high court's decision, however, failed to make clear its views on the validity of the prison reclassification act and the whole problem of 943 convicts.

Judge McKinley then ordered Attorney Bachrach to make a study of the Scott and related cases, and he directed that all the issues be placed in the record for a thorough examination by the Supreme court.

Assistant Attorney General A. B. Dennis told Judge McKinley he disagreed with the Bachrach interpretation of the Supreme court ruling in the Scott case.

"Pardon" for 943 Men.

"If what your honor says is true," he said, "then the legislature has done indirectly what it cannot do directly—it has in effect pardoned 943 men. If it has, then the prison reclassification act is unconstitutional."

Judge McKinley said that also is a matter for the high court to decide.

"If there is any confusion or chaos created by the act of 1933, that was brought about by the legislature, not the courts," he asserted. "The courts ought not cure legislative defects by misinterpreting the law."

Attorneys said it was not clear what would happen if the entire act were declared unconstitutional. Presumably, they said, Pontiac would again become a reformatory, providing a place for the 943 men who might otherwise be released. This would bring a jam in the prison machinery unless corrective action were taken by the legislature.

Baby to Europe Alone

Leo Schmitz with Miss Marjorie McGuire, airline stewardess, before starting flight to New York.

Leo Schmitz, one year old, was lifted aboard a plane at Chicago airport yesterday bound for his grandparents' home in Cologne, Germany. He is traveling alone. His father, Kenneth Schmitz, 1808 North Wells street, an engineer, made some last minute changes on his small son's clothing, and explained that his wife died several months ago and he had no way to care for the baby. From Chicago to New York the baby was in the care of Miss Marjorie McGuire, stewardess of the American Airlines. The baby will sail from New York tonight aboard the Europa, in charge of the regular nurses on the boat.

DRAINAGE CANAL ODOR BLAMED ON LAKE FLOW CUT

River Also Is Sluggish Because of Reduction.

The sluggish condition in the Chicago river and the drainage canal is an evident effect of the reduction of Lake Michigan water diversion to 1,500 cubic feet a second, Ross A. Woodhull, president of the sanitary district, asserted yesterday. An independent survey also disclosed there is little or no current along much of the canal and there is a strong, obnoxious odor from heavy sewage, particularly around Joliet and Lockport.

"The water is so laden with muck near Joliet," said one observer "that you could throw a stone in and there wouldn't be a splash."

In 1930 the United States Supreme court decreed that on Jan. 1, 1939, the flow of water from Lake Michigan into the river must be limited to 1,500 cubic feet a second. The water diversion had been 6,800 cubic feet a second in 1930 and was 5,000 cubic feet just before the high court order became effective this year.

Levels Rise Despite Diversion.

The reduction was ordered on the contention of several lake states and Canada that the diversion was lowering lake levels. At one time after the Supreme court ruling, however, lake levels rose in spite of the diversion.

Reduction of the flow necessitated the construction of a vast artificial sewage system, costing $177,000,000, to take over the sewage disposal work done for generations by the river. The sanitary district has a petition pending in the Supreme court asking an increase in the present low diversion from the lake.

"There were unforeseen delays in completing the sewag- system," said Woodhull, "and the southwest side treatment plant at Stickney will not be in full operation for about three more months. When that plant is working at capacity there should be little or no heavy sewage in the canal.

Navigation Bar Told.

"Some of the delays were caused by rejection and readvertisment for bids on construction work, and others were caused by strikes. But even with the southwest side plant in operation it does not appear that the present diversion of lake water will be sufficient for navigation."

Woodhull said there have been complaints from the Izaak Walton league that the stagnant water is destroying plant and vegetable life along the river and the canal.

In Joliet the condition of the water is as much a topic of conversation as is the weather. The obnoxious odor from the water is noticeable at times throughout that city.

Stagnant Pools Numerous.

Mayor Frank Brodnicki of Justice Park, one of the towns on the canal, said large, stagnant pools frequently can be seen in the waterway there and that sometimes a sewage odor is noticeable. In Lyons, too, the odor at times is pungent.

Employés in Chicago industrial establishments along the canal, such as the Commonwealth Edison company plant at 3501 Crawford avenue, also commented on the dead appearance of the water and the stench since the lake flow was reduced.

Along the north branch of the river there is hardly a ripple in some stretches of water.

"There isn't much odor here," said an official of one company on the north branch, "but the water doesn't seem to be moving."

Tax Clerks Start Tallying 175,000 Mail Payments

Clerks in County Treasurer John Toman's office yesterday began to tabulate a pile of 175,000 tax payments received in the mails this week. Toman said it will be more than a week before totals of all payments, by mail and in person, through the June 1 penalty date will be available. Mail receipts tabulated yesterday totaled $5,144,573. Collections this year are the best in ten years.

310,000 BRITISH YOUTH REGISTER TODAY FOR ARMY

Compulsory Training Plan Goes Into Effect.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 2.—Great Britain's conscript army will begin to take shape tomorrow with the registration of every 21 year old man in the country.

Some 40,000 to 50,000 of them will be called up for their six month period of military service on July 1, when they will receive orders to report to their units a fortnight later. Additional groups of about 50,000 will be called up at intervals of two months.

It is estimated that 310,000 men will be registered tomorrow, of whom some 200,000 will find their way into uniform this year. The remaining 110,000 will be conscientious objectors, physically unfit, or in exempt occupations.

Call Oldest Men First.

Medical examinations of the conscripts are to begin June 8.

It is planned to call up the oldest men first and the youngest last. The conscripts will be paid 37 cents a day. Their wives will receive $4.25 a week, on the condition that the men turn over an additional 82 cents a week from their pay.

The admiralty, meanwhile, will increase the preparedness of the fleet by calling up the following:

Half the Royal Fleet Reserve, Class D [immediate class] for three months from June 15, and the second half of this class in the middle of September for a similar period.

About 750 pensioners for three months from June 15, followed by 750 more in the middle of September. Pensioners who have most recently left the service will be called up.

Call Volunteer Reserve Men.

About 50 wireless and signal seamen and petty officers of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve and the Royal Naval Volunteer Wireless Reserve for three months from June 15 and a similar number for the following three months.

About 300 men of the Royal Naval Reserve Patrol Service for three months from June 15 and a like number for the subsequent three months.

The necessary number of retired and reserve naval officers, to work with the non-commisisoned men listed above, will be called for six months on June 15.

It also is planned to call up a number of ant.-aircraft units. The first group of territorial army anti-aircraft units will be ordered to report on June 11 and the first territorial anti-aircraft reservists on June 15.

Recruit Territorial Force.

It is hoped that by the time the first militiamen are in training, the territorial army field force will have been recruited to its new strength of 340,000 men. During April about 24,000 men enlisted in the territorials every week and in May enlistments rose to 36,000 in the first week. In the middle of May it was estimated that about 90,000 men were still needed to reach the 340,000 level.

SLOVENES WRECK HOMES OF NAZIS IN JUGO-SLAVIA

NAGYKANIZSA, Hungary, June 2.—(AP)—Acts of violence involving Slovenes and Germans in northern Jugo-Slavia were described today in reports filtering into Hungary through heavy censorship at the very moment Regent Prince Paul of Jugo-Slavia was being fêted in Berlin by Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

These reports told of the wrecking of homes of Nazi Germans by Slovene nationalists at Konjice and Maribor. They asserted clashes had occurred in many localities along Jugo-Slavia's frontier with Greater Germany in a region which belonged to the Austro-Hungarian empire before the world war.

At Konjice, stores and the home of the local Nazi leader were reported to have been sacked by Slovene nationalists. Similar action was said to have been taken in Maribor against the home of Dr. Karl Kieser, head of the Nazi movement there.

Slovene nationalist leaders were said to have asserted publicly that the anger of their followers had been fanned by what they called "the pro-Nazi foreign policy" of the Jugo-Slav government.

HITLER PURGES 30 HIGH IN ARMY, PAPER REPORTS

LONDON, June 2.—According to the Yorkshire Post, Adolf Hitler has retired more than thirty officers who held leading places in the German forces. They were retired, the paper said, because of their opposition to a policy that might involve Germany in a war on two fronts.

This purge, following that of February, 1938, prior to Hitler's invasion of Austria, now involves, the Yorkshire Post says, Maj. Gen. Fritz Loeb, who is largely responsible for the military organization of industry under the four year plan; Gen. Stuelpnagel, one of the highest officers in the German air force; Gen. Quade, commandant of the air force college; Gen. Liebmann, commandant of the war academy, and Gen. Geyer, commander in chief of the fifth army corps.

"If last year's precedent is any guide," the Yorkshire Post says, "there seems to have been a sharp tussle between political and military leaders of the reich, ending once again in victory for the former."

HITLER DISPLAYS MILITARY MIGHT TO SERB PRINCE

30,000 Soldiers Parade for Regent.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 2.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler smiled grimly and his royal visitors, Regent Prince Paul of Jugo-Slavia and his wife, Princess Olga, caught their breath today when 28 of Germany's fastest and newest Messerschmitt pursuit planes dived at terrific speed only 300 feet overhead. The pursuit planes roared under a group of bombers and then upward to take their flight positions between two squadrons that had zoomed past the reviewing stands a few seconds earlier.

Prince Paul.

The air show, at which 30 squadrons of various types of planes participated, initiated a military parade which Hitler staged for the Jugo-Slav rulers, who are here for a five day state visit. About 30,000 men goosestepped, rode or drove past Hitler and his royal guests.

The principal new features of the parade were three medium sized tanks shown for the first time in public. These tanks mount a 77 millimeter gun, a 37 millimeter gun in a revolving turret, and three machine guns.

Displays More Tanks.

Compared to Hitler's birthday parade six weeks ago, the number of medium sized tanks on display had increased. There also were a great number of light tanks mounted on trucks in today's parade. Each truck pulled a second light tank mounted on an undercarriage.

This method of transporting light tanks at a comparatively high speed seems to have proved useful, since in the birthday parade only a few tanks were displayed on trucks.

About 60 per cent of the troops participating in today's parade were motorized.

While the endless columns of trucks carrying infantrymen seemed to tire the public, the motorized heavy artillery evoked loud cheers. Compared to previous military shows, the number of 210 millimeter long range guns has greatly increased. A great number of 88 millimeter anti-aircraft guns were on display. They were loudly cheered by the public, which has now been told that this gun played an important part in winning the Spanish civil war for Gen. Francisco Franco.

Cavalry on Bicycles.

Cavalry regiments, partly on horseback and partly equipped with bicycles, also were accorded cheers—especially the fighters who goosestepped in the best Prussian tradition, pushing their bicycles beside them.

Prince Paul is scheduled to have long conferences with Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Hitler's right hand man, on the possibility of further developing German-Jugo-Slav economic coöperation. A delegation of German economic experts under Dr. Claudius, of the foreign office, is scheduled to go to Jugo-Slavia soon to help further these plans.

PONTIFF CALLS EFFORT TOWARD PEACE HELPFUL

VATICAN CITY, June 2.—(AP)—Pope Pius XII. told his cardinals today his intervention in Europe's dissensions had brought assurances from leading statesmen that they were resolved to keep the peace. The occasion for the pope's speech was his 63d saint's day, which is observed generally in Latin countries in place of birthdays and on which the cardinals had come to pay homage to the pontiff.

Pope Pius said the sympathetic response of European government to his efforts on behalf of the "peace which is so much desired by the people" left the way open for his continued work to avoid war.

The pope's activities in behalf of peace are regarded in some Vatican quarters as increasing the likelihood of the United States establishing diplomatic representation at the Holy See.

QUIZ JOBLESS CHAUFFEUR ON WOUND.

Charles Douglas, 43 years old, 4054 Broadway, an unemployed chauffeur, was held for questioning yesterday about a thigh wound which police thought might have been caused by a bullet. Douglas said he had fallen against a drinking glass. Bridewell physicians said the wound probably was not made by a bullet.

BOARD MANAGER DENIES SCHOOL SUPPLY CHARGES

Purchases Made by Bids, Is Reply to Teacher.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

Howard P. Savage, business manager for the Chicago board of education, last night denied charges that politically controled and "dnmmy" companies were overcharging the board for school supplies.

The charges were made yesterday in affidavits by Raymond F. Kraft, Winnetka public school music teacher, who has done graduate study in the public school business management, and by two unnamed school principals.

The affidavits, containing charges involving nine companies with which the school board has done business, were made public by O. C. Taubeneck, executive secretary of the Chicago Principals' club. Taubeneck is acting as Kraft's attorney. Kraft lives in Evanston.

All Get Chance, Says Savage.

"I wouldn't know about 'dummy' companies," Savage said. "All I know is that they supply us with the quality of goods we want at the lowest price possible.

"We have done business with some houses for many years and with some for perhaps only a few months. But all have an opportunity to bid. Where a bid is given to a higher bidder it is because the lower ones failed to meet our specifications in quality or some other thing.

"Even on purchases below $300, which are approved by the board after they are made, there are at least three bids sought on each one. This applies to anything from 10 cents to $300.

"As far as the charges that some of the things we bought on bids were purchased cheaper at retail, I can only say that in an institution such as ours, where we buy perhaps 12,000 different articles and make 100,000 requisitions yearly, any one might find a bargain or two."

Affidavits Name Companies.

Kraft's affidavits named the following companies:

Midwest Equipment company, 1906 Wabash avenue, whose officers, the affidavit alleged, are the same as the L. Fish Furniture company at the same address.

Crown Office Supply company, 322 Washington street, headed by Reuben Arvey, a brother of Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th]. [Reuben Arvey last night said he has been in the office supply business since 1912 and that the Crown company was organized in 1927. He said he had sold supplies to the school board—at prices no higher than to any other of his 3,000 or 4,000 accounts—for the last ten years.]

Apex Plumbing and Supply company, 209 East Superior street, whose head is Jack Solomon, brother of Harry Solomon, a member of the school board. [Harry Solomon said his brother had been in business since 1923, had sold to the board since the late '20s, and that he (Harry) had been a board member only since 1933.]

Grading Company Named.

Standard Grading and Construction company, 5702 Wentworth avenue. Kraft's affidavit said that the head of this company is John P. Moriarity, a cousin of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney.

Goldie Linen and Supply company, and Goldie Supply and Equipment company, 14 West Lake street.

Casey Electric Service company, 124 Lake street.

The Advance-Calking Co., Inc., 19 [illegible]th La Salle street.

Beutel Sales company, 2121 Cornelia [illegible]enue.

The affidavits said that many of [illegible]ese concerns either share offices [illegible]h other firms or have almost no [illegible]ice staff or equipment. The affidavits also stated that on several occasions retail prices on articles were lower than the price the school board paid through one or another of these firms.

Charges to Be Studied.

Two officials of the Beutel company were brought before the grand jury recently in an inquiry into sales to the school board. State's Attorney Courtney said yesterday that his office was using the affidavits prepared by Kraft and that two more assistants, Thomas Bugan and William Crawford, would be assigned next week to aid the investigation of the charges concerning the school board purchases. The inquiry has been in charge of Assistant State's Attorney Francis McCurrie.

Mayor Kelly said yesterday that reports of the charges had been given to him by certain members of his advisory schools committee. He said the members had promised to bring in more information but had not yet done so.

Dr. Frank Freeman, head of the phychology department at the University of Chicago, a member of the schools committee, last night said:

"It looks to me like serious evidence. I think our group should be concerned with it and that we have a responsibility to do something about it."

Backs Manager's Statement.

James B. McCahey, president of the school board, is in the east. Irwin N. Walker, vice president, backed Savage's statement.

"To my knowledge bids are awarded properly," Walker said. "But if any citizen has evidence to the contrary I'd advise him to bring it to me and I'll be glad to follow it through."

Kraft, who has spent the last three months investigating the school board purchases, said he alone had financed his inquiry and that he had spent only $50 or $75 on it, although he had devoted many hours to the study. He said he became interested in the situation while doing graduate work at Northwestern university.

Sues for Divorce

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. FRANCES LOWDEN DRAKE.

Mrs. Frances Lowden Drake, daughter of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, filed suit yesterday in the Circuit court at Waukegan asking a divorce from John B. Drake Jr. She charged desertion. Drake is connected with the family long identified with the Drake hotel. He is living in New York.

In her petition, drawn by Attorney Brode B. Davis, Mrs. Drake stated that she had lived in Lake Forest for five years. She and Drake were married in February, 1925, and according to the bill lived together until June 1, 1938. They have three children, John B. Drake IV., 13 years old; Barbara Lowden Drake, 10, and George M. Pullman Drake, 7. Mrs. Drake asked custody of Barbara, with the provision that she may spend two weeks a year with her father. She also asked control of the boys, with Drake allowed to have them for half of their school vacations and recesses.

Attorney J. H. Oppenheim filed an answer for Drake which formally denied the desertion charge. It was indicated the petition would not be contested.

Mrs. Christy Brown Gets Divorce; Charges Cruelty

Mrs. La Strella Vincent Brown was granted a divorce in Reno, Nev., yesterday from Christy Brown, 2228 Beechwood avenue, Wilmette, on ground of cruelty. They were married May 1, 1912, and have one grown son. Alimony of $125 a month was awarded.

8,000 Young Stalwarts Parade Their Might.

Eight thousand young men, earnest and manly, paraded down Michigan avenue yesterday noon before the admiring eyes of other thousands of friends and relatives. R. O. T. C. units from 27 high schools marched, each with its color guard and band, its cadets wearing trim olive drab uniforms with blue lapels, gold buttons, and red braid.

Young arms swung to the sounding brass and the crash of the cymbal. Young backs arched to the bark of the drum. White gloved hands snapped to a salute, with "eyes right," as the soldiers marched smartly past the reviewing stand.

On the festooned platform stood Col. Virgil L. Peterson, chief of staff of the Sixth Corps area; Col. William F. Morrison, professor of military science and tactics for the public high schol units; Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, and other army officers and officials.

100,000 View Parade.

The demonstration, biggest R. O. T. C. event in the United States, is sponsored each year by the board of education and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. More than 100,000 persons watched and cheered the procession yesterday, which was favored with sunshine between fast scudding rain clouds.

The program began at 11:30 in front of the Grant park bandshell, where sets of colors were presented by Col. Peterson to the Tilden Technical High school and Crane Technical High school units. These two units were designated first and second best trained outfits in the city after a three weeks' federal inspection. The American flags, rippling in their gold-fringed silken glory, were donated as in former years by THE TRIBUNE. School flags, also given by THE TRIBUNE, will be presented to the two units next week.

Colonel Petersen, who addressed the crowd of youthful soldiers and their girl admirers extending from the bandshell nearly to the Field Museum, said: "General Ford, commanding general of the Sixth Corps area, would have had much pleasure in being here. He wanted me to express his regret that it was not possible."

In tribute to the assembled regiments drawn up before him on their great day of the year, he declared: "You know as well as I that you are the outstanding R. O. T. C. unit in the United States. . . . This devotion to our country is a most reassuring sign."

The Schurz High school R. O. T. C. band played the national anthem. Then the Tilden and Crane units moved first to Columbus drive where the parade was to start. The young officers shouted their commands in realistic imitation of regular army officers.

First in the procession marched Cadet Colonel Daniel Workman of Roosevelt High school. On March 11 this 17 year old soldier had been picked for promotion to his high rank when he received the highest grade in an intense oral and written examination given to a number of candidates for the cadet corps staff.

Tilden, Crane Lead Parade.

The first two units in the parade were the crack Tilden and Crane regiments, the former holding the amazing record of having been declared best trained units in Chicago three times in the last four years. The Tildenites competed with twenty-six other high schools.

The large brass bands with each regiment were conspicuous in their polished performance. Several of the bands were led by male drum majors.

The Crane Technical High school, which has no girl students, had Miss Mildred Douglas for its drum major.

Other girl drum majors who jauntily twirled their batons and swaggered included the blonde twin Handy sisters who, with one other girl, led the Schurz unit, and Helen Frost, with the Senn unit.

The St. Mel High school R. O. T. C. unit of 750 youths, separate from the Chicago unit, withdrew from the parade late yesterday morning, the faculty fearing a downpour.

Three gold and two silver medals donated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will be presented to cadets in the Evanston Township High school R. O. T. C. unit tonight at the annual military banquet.

Gold awards will go to Jack Karstrom, Mitchell Rieger, and Malcolm Brown, and silver awards to Frank Mickelsen and William Ensign, freshmen.

A HATCHET MAN KILLS WIDOW, 76, AND HAS COFFEE

Waukesha, Wis., June 2.—[Special.]—Edward Abel, an ex-convict, confessed tonight, following his capture in a wood near here, that he killed Mrs. Olive Le Roy, 76 years old. He said he beat her to death with a hatchet when he found her this morning in the apartment of his estranged wife, Mrs. Margaret Abel.

Abel said he blamed the elderly woman for his separation from his wife a year ago. Mrs. Le Roy, a widow who lived in Milwaukee, had moved into the apartment last night to live with Mrs. Abel, a WPA seamstress.

The prisoner said he went to his wife's apartment to order Mrs. Le Roy away. She locked the door but he kicked it down and hit her with the blunt side of a hatchet, he said. Then he scrubbed the floor, changed his clothes, made a pot of coffee, and drank it, and fled. Abel, 40 years old, served a prison term for burglary.

PARENTS OF BOY, 9, HUNTED.

Chicago avenue police yesterday sought the family of Robert Roth, 9 years old, who became separated from his older brother, Virgil, in a movie Thursday night.

Produced by the Tribune 1000 miles away from the disaster, these picture diagrams were reprinted by newspapers throughout the United States.

"SUB" DISASTER DIAGRAMS.

Chicago, May 25.—It was a great privilege to inform the executive committee today of the outstanding cooperation of THE TRIBUNE in its speedy delivery of the two submarine diagrams that so well fitted into the news picture report from Portsmouth, N. H.

It provided also an opportunity to compliment again the efficiency and preparedness of THE TRIBUNE'S art staff and its excellent morgue, both of which undoubtedly contributed to the quick availability of these drawings. While we were glad to credit THE TRIBUNE in the cut lines when the sketches were transmitted, please know that our appreciation extends beyond anything we could put in print.

The pictures were shown to the committee members, and I am sure you can take their congratulatory comment as expressive of that of every Associated Press member subscribing to the Wirephoto and News Photo service. Just as an example of the comment from various parts of the country, I quote part of a telegram from Neil Swanson, acting managing editor of the Baltimore Sun:

Asst. Sec., The Associated Press.

The letter at the left from Lloyd Stratton, assistant secretary of the Associated Press, is reprinted from "The Voice of the People" in the Tribune of May 27.

THE above picture diagrams appeared in the Chicago Tribune of Wednesday, May 24, which carried the news of the sinking of the submarine Squalus with 59 men on board.

They illustrated the details of the craft and made plain the operation of the navy's new diving bell, which was to be used for the first time in a submarine rescue.

These diagrams were rushed to completion by the Tribune editorial art staff from information supplied by the Chicago Tribune Press Service, the editorial and reference departments of the Tribune, and the Associated Press.

Because of the accuracy with which these pictures, made 1,000 miles from the scene of the disaster, illustrated the chief news interest of the hour, the Associated Press requested permission to wirephoto them to subscribing newspapers throughout the country.

As a result, one or more of the Tribune's diagrams were used by the New York News, the Philadelphia Public Ledger, the Philadelphia Bulletin, the Baltimore Sun, the Los Angeles Times, the Detroit News, the Denver Post, the Atlanta Journal, the Cleveland News, the Des Moines Register and Tribune, the Houston Chronicle, the Washington Star, the Boston Post, the Minneapolis Tribune and more than 300 other newspapers throughout America.

The most graphic account of the disaster to be printed anywhere was the Tribune's exclusive telephone interview with Lieut. John C. Nichols, first officer to be brought ashore. It was the featured story on May 25 in the newspapers which subscribe to the Chicago Tribune Press Service. In addition, the Tribune's account of the diving bell's operation gave readers the best understanding of the navy's new submarine rescue technique available anywhere.

The Tribune is able to provide this kind of superior coverage of the news because it is equipped to do so. The Tribune spares no expense in order to give full effect to its policy of printing the best newspaper in the world.

When you read the Tribune, you get comprehensive coverage of every significant happening at home and abroad—complete with photos, diagrams, charts—everything that will help to give you a better understanding of what has happened—as it happens.

LIST CHURCHMEN AS VICTIMS OF $250,000 FRAUD

Father and Son Accused of Real Estate Swindle.

A real estate swindle by which the father and brother of a Presbyterian minister are alleged to have defrauded 100 other Presbyterian clergymen of more than $250,000 was disclosed in Federal court yesterday. Indictments charging Charles P. Campbell, veteran south side real estate man, and his son, Marshall, with using the mails to defraud and with violation of the securities act were returned before Judge James H. Wilkerson.

The indictment charges that in addition to victimizing Presbyterian ministers, the Campbells swindled widows of clergymen and laymen. Investments with the Campbell realty firm and their various subsidiary companies ranged from $200 to $5,000 and covered the last eight years.

Prospects Are Circularized.

As outlined in the indictments and by W. McNeil Kennedy, local Securities and Exchange commission administrator, the scheme was carried out as follows:

In 1930, the Campbells, with offices at 2000 West 95th street, began sending out letters, circulars, and pamphlets to clergymen and others in Indiana, Pennsylvania, New York, and Ohio.

In many of the letters, the elder Campbell, who is 71 years old, referred to his prominence in Presbyterian church circles in Chicago and also mentioned the fact that another son, Theodore, was a Presbyterian minister in Troy, N. Y.

Each of the letters and circulars told of profits to be gained by investing in real estate handled by the Campbell firm. Investors were promised returns of 15 to 60 per cent. To handle the investments, according to the indictments, the Campbells organized the first of eight subsidiary companies—the Oakleigh Woods Real Estate Improvement corporation.

Stock Sold from 1931 to 1933.

Stock was sold in this organization from 1931 to 1933. When the corporation was unable to meet its debts, the indictments charge, other trusts and syndicates were formed in the years 1934-'37, and proceeds from additional investments were used to cover up earlier losses.

Among the other companies was the Northwest Syndicate, reputedly organized to invest $97,000 in property near Devon and Cicero avenues. Investigation revealed, according to Kennedy, that the Campbells had no interest in the property. Similar fraud, it is charged, was accomplished through another company known as the "Gold Syndicate."

Attorney Charles Hummer, speaking for the Campbells, said they would surrender today. "Nothing has been done with any intention of violating the law," he said, "and no one has been harmed. We believe that the investors in the Campbell company are amply secured and that none of them will suffer a loss."

HUMANE SOCIETY ASSAILS IRENE'S HAVEN FOR DOGS

Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin's animal refuge in Deerfield, Orphans of the Storm, was charged yesterday with encouraging the indiscriminate seizure of dogs throughout the city, whether on the streets or on their owners' property.

The charge was contained in a report by the Illinois Humane society on an investigation ordered by Judge Oscar B. Caplan into a quarrel between Robert Lawrence, owner of a dog kennel at 8401 South Western avenue, and Mrs. Lyall Gallagher, 7631 Bennett avenue. Lawrence and Mrs. Gallagher, an investigator for the Illinois Citizens' Animal Welfare league, were in Women's court on cross complaints of disorderly conduct.

The league, with offices at 189 Madison street, is sponsored by Mrs. McLaughlin, the report declared. Judge Caplan freed both defendants with the admonition to avoid each other in the future.

Indiana Road Official Hangs Himself in Barn

HUSBAND SLAIN; WIDOW AND HER FRIEND ACCUSED

Warants Also Issued for Two Others in Killing.

Pontiac, Mich., June 2.—[Special.]—A widow and her friend were held without bail tonight on charges of first degree murder in the slaying of the woman's husband, Henry S. Becker, a week ago in what had appeared to be a holdup. Earlier in the day murder warants also were issued for two unidentified men believed to be the actual slayers.

The woman is Mrs. Juliette Becker, 38 years old. She had been married twenty years to Becker, who was 63, and lived with him in Oak Park, a Detroit suburb. Becker owned a tool and die shop in nearby Berkley, and Mrs. Becker operated a dress shop in Detroit.

Both Placed in Jail.

Accused with the woman is Ernest Hawkins, 40 years old, superintendent of Becker's factory. He is married but was reported to have consulted an attorney recently about obtaining a divorce.

Following their arraignment, at which June 10 was set for their examination, they were taken to the Oakland county jail here.

Becker was shot to death in the back yard of his home last Friday night. His wife said that just before he died he said something about two men trying to rob him. Mrs. Becker and a neighbor boy said they saw two men running from the scene.

Both Protest Innocence.

Hawkins, whose home is in Detroit, had been held for questioning since Wednesday. Mrs. Becker was taken into custody at noon today in her Oak Park home.

Both prisoners denied complicity in the slaying. Mrs. Becker charged authorities were persecuting her and Hawkins despite their innocence and meanwhile were letting the real slayers escape.

Charles L. Wilson, Oakland county prosecutor, said Hawkins admitted he and Mrs. Becker had a joint bank account. Wilson also said there were discrepancies in the stories told by Hawkins and Mrs. Becker.

INDIANA POLICE SLAYER DIES IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Orelle Easton, 26 years old, went to his death this morning in the electric chair in the Indiana state prison at Michigan City. He was convicted of slaying W. Raymond Dixon, an Indiana state highway patrolman, last June 26 near La Porte, Ind.

Easton, who was taken from his cell at 2:01 a. m. [Chicago daylight time], walked firmly the dozen steps to the execution chamber. The current was turned on at 2:03 a. m. and he was pronounced dead four minutes later.

Dixon was slain when he attempted to question Easton and his brother, Clarence, 27, in a car on the highway. Clarence Easton was shot to death the next day in a gun fight with a posse.

Hunt for More Bodies as Elevator Fire Smolders

Fire which destroyed five grain elevators at 102d street and the Calumet river on May 11 was still smoldering in several places yesterday. Search was continued for the bodies of five of the nine victims of the blaze. Three bodies have been recovered from the debris and one victim died in a hospital.

Marshall Field & Company

Presents here each day observations intended to be of value to those it seeks to serve.

THE MAN AND THE OCCASION

By CALEB

EIGHTEEN Ninety-One is a year that only the minority of our readers will recall with any vividness. History has flown fast, far and furiously since those relatively uneventful times. The Columbian Exposition was still a mildly agitated idea in a few progressive Chicagoans' minds. The city's population hovered a bit above two millions; P. T. Barnum, the master showman, died in that year; McKinley had been elected governor of Ohio; Thomas Edison had applied for his patent on the first motion picture camera; and the first Empire State Express ran from New York to Buffalo in the then sensational time of 8 hours and 42 minutes.

By that date, Marshall Field had been in Chicago thirty-five years, and it is an arresting coincidence, according to a Harper's Weekly writer of those days, Amos W. Wright, that the Field business was credited with a thirty-five-millions volume . . . due, in our journalist's dignified phrasing, to the fact that "His success did not come from the absence of competitors. They were numerous enough, but in him the man and the occasion notably met." The occasion in question being, that when Marshall Field, at twenty-one, migrated from Pittsfield, in his native Massachusetts, to Chicago—"With a water barrier stretching three hundred miles to the north against the continuity of east and west railroads, the young city held the key to the land transportation of merchandise to a vast area of more or less fertile and life-sustaining territory . . . with a productive population that seemed to advance with each decennial census by gigantic leaps."

At thirty, Marshall Field had become a partner with Potter Palmer and L. Z. Leiter, and at forty-six established Marshall Field & Company. When, ten years later, the Harper's Weekly article was written, he was still, therefore, in his prime—and is described as "Slightly above the medium height, somewhat spare in figure, and has a refined and intelligent countenance. His hair and mustache are white, and his appearance is decidedly prepossessing."

In spite of being set down nearly a half-century ago, however, the tribute paid Mr. Field as merchant is one we would find no occasion to alter today. "Those who," it runs, "waiving the matter of possible difference in energy and brains, seek in Mr. Field's career for the rules of success . . . will find them simple, and on the lines of well-tried and old-time maxims. . . . There must be no misrepresentation of goods, and promises must be faithfully kept." Nothing, in our opinion, could be added to this estimate of 1891 that would better define one of our major business policies in 1939.

ARMY AIR CORPS TO TRAIN 23,644 AS TECHNICIANS

Enlistments Will Begin on July 1.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—Secretary of War Harry Woodring today notified the youth of the nation that 23,644 young men will have an opportunity to procure a well balanced technical education in the operation, repair, and maintenance of modern aircraft and accessories.

On July 1 recruiting of the enlisted men authorized under the 300 million dollar army air expansion program will begin and that number is the air corps quota. The army will not accept applicants for enlistment all at once, but will take 1,200 men each in July, August, September; 1,500 each in January and February, and 3,211 men in March, April, May, and June.

Seek New Officers, Too.

The army already has a drive under way to get 2,000 commissioned flyers in the coming fiscal year. Five boards of army officers are touring all colleges and universities to sell the air corps to young men. It is the hope of the war department that four thousand will be enrolled in the army training course and that about half of these will graduate and receive commissions.

Of the 23,644 enlisted men to be added to the air corps, the army plans to train 17,149 as specialists in technical subjects relating to the maintenance and operation of aircraft and accessories. The remaining 6,495 will be used to fill existing vacancies in the air corps in the United States and its possessions.

Those who enlist will be sent to selected civilian schools, to Chanute field at Rantoul, Ill., or Lowry field at Denver, Colo.

Must Enlist for 3 Years.

In order to secure the training, young men will have to enlist in the army, Secretary Woodring said. The term of enlistment is three years. Those desirous of enlisting should apply to the nearest recruiting office.

Suitably qualified men, citizens of the United States, between the ages of 18 and 35 are eligible, but applicants under 21 must have the written consent of their parents or a guardian.

Upon completion of the course of technical training air corps enlisted men will be eligible for promotion in the army. If the enlisted man does not care to remain in the army, he can be discharged at the end of his three year enlistment and return to civil life as a competent technician in chosen line of work, the secretary said.

Chicago had its first glimpse yesterday of the new hose made from coal. The hose were displayed in preview on the shapely legs of Miss Naomi Anderson, who is to provide the esthetic touch to the exhibits at the American Retail Coal association's fifth annual convention and fuel exposition, opening today in the Hotel Sherman.

The stockings will have a legitimate place among exhibits, being made of a coal product—Nylon. Nylon was developed in the E. I. du Pont de Nemour & Co. laboratories by the late Dr. Wallace H. Carothers. An $8,000,000 plant is under construction for its manufacture.

A thread of the new product may be drawn to less than half the thickness of fine sewing thread [No. 60], and finer than the silkworm's. It has greater elasticity than silk and far greater durability, the scientists claim. Within a year, it is predicted, Nylon stockings will be on the market at the price of good silk stockings, and eventually they will sell for 25 cents.

BYRD SUPPORTS U. S. EXPEDITION TO ANTARCTICA

Washington, D. C., June 2.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, who has flown over both poles, told a house appropriations subcommittee today that a government expedition should be sent to the Antarctic continent early next fall to protect this nation's rights.

President Roosevelt asked congress last week to appropriate $340,000 for an expedition, to be made under the supervision of Dr. Ernest H. Gruening, director of the interior department's territorial division.

Byrd was accompanied to the hearing by Dr. Gruening and Richard B. Black, a member of Byrd's 1933-35 expedition. Although the admiral testified at a closed session, information sources said he told Chairman Woodrum [D., Va.] of the subcommittee that the United States should act quickly to protect its mineral rights in the antarctic. He suggested also that the continent some day might prove to be of strategic naval importance, particularly in connection with the operation of commercial and naval aircraft in the southern Pacific.

Predict Naming of Bowers as Ambassador to Chile

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—The nomination of Claude G. Bowers, former ambassador to Spain, to be ambassador to Chile is expected to be sent to the senate soon by President Roosevelt. Word was received here today that he was acceptable to the Santiago government. His selection for the post has been indicated since Norman Armour was transferred from Chile to Argentina as ambassador. He has been succeeded as ambassador to Spain by Alexander W. Weddell.

Objects to a Kiss

MRS. VIRGINIA THOMPSON.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan granted a divorce yesterday to Mrs. Virginia Thompson, 26 years old, 2648 North Mozart street, from Alexander, 28, a salesman. She charged cruelty. Questioned by her attorney, Norman Becker, Mrs. Thompson testified that on one ocasion when she objected to her husband kissing her while riding with friends in a car, he struck her. The Thompsons were married in 1934 in Waukegan and separated last Oct. 15.

U. S. NAVY LETS SHIP CONTRACTS FOR 350 MILLION

Biggest Award Made in Peace Time.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—The navy department today announced contract awards for 24 men of war to cost 350 million dollars, the largest single award in the peace time history of the nation.

The awards to private shipyards and allocations to navy yards are for the construction of a total of 159,800 tons, including two 45,000 ton battleships. Included in the awards was $5,430,576 for the propelling machinery for six submarines.

The contracts, based on proposals for shipbuilding companies and estimates from navy yards, were signed by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison.

The two 45,000 ton battleships will cost $80,000,000 each, including complete armor and armament, it is unofficially estimated. One battleship will be constructed at the New York navy yard and the other at the Philadelphia navy yard.

Submarines Included.

The private awards were made for four destroyers of 1,630 tons displacement each, to cost more than $4,000,000 each. The Electric Boat company, Groton, Conn., with individual bids of $2,937,000 received awards for three submarines having displacement of 1,475 tons each.

Four light cruisers of 6,000 tons displacement were awarded at a contract price of $12,226,000 each. Identical bids were submitted by the Bethlehem Steel company and the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company. The navy also awarded the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company a contract for a 20,000 ton Hornet aircraft carrier. The price for the carrier was listed at $31,800,000.

All prices are subject to adjustments for costs of labor and material, the navy department announcement said.

Navy Yards Get Jobs.

Besides the two battleships, to be among the largest in the world, federal navy yards will construct four 1,630 ton displacement destroyers, three 1,475 ton submarines, one 700 ton submarine and two 1,650 ton small seaplane tenders. These ships will be constructed in the navy yards at Boston, Mass.; Charleston, S. C.; Portsmouth, N. H.; Mare Island, Cal., and Bremerton, Wash.

The bidding and awards did not include two 8,000 ton cruisers and one small repair ship. Contracts for these are expected later.

KIWANIS GROUP TO PRESENT FLAG RITE TOMORROW

A flag raising ceremony to celebrate a new forty-foot flag pole will be conducted tomorrow by the Austin Kiwanis club at the club's cabin south of La Grange on Willow Springs road. Troop 375 of the Boy Scouts will be in charge and will give demonstrations of woodcraft. Other troops which will take part include Girl Scouts of Troop 197 and boy members of the Austin Y. M. C. A. Dr. Erdman Smith of the First Baptist church of Austin will speak, as will Douglas Monahan, assistant boys' secretary of the Austin "Y." The club has invited all interested in youth betterment and especiall all Boy and Girl Scouts of Austin to be present.

A Young Man's Portrait Drawn by Dos Passos

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Adventures of a Young Man," by John Dos Passos. [Harcourt-Brace, $2.50.] Published Thursday.

Discarding the innovations of flashback and newsreel comment in novel technique which marked him as one of the truly creative literary artists of our generation, John Dos Passos tells in "The Adventures of a Young Man" a straightaway chronological narrative of the boyhood and young manhood of Glenn Spotswood. It is to be the first [Mr. Dos Passos says] of a series of contemporary portraits.

John Dos Passos.

"Adventures of a Young Man" lacks the vividness, the contemporaneousness, the excitement of John Dos Passos' previous novels [among them those unforgettable three which made up "U. S. A."—"The 42nd Parallel," "1919," and "The Big Money"—and his "Manhattan Transfer," a-beat with the contemporary pulse]. It is definitly not its author's masterpiece, but John Dos Passos' second best is so much better than most authors' tops that "Adventures of a Young Man" still ranks high in the year's fiction.

One reason why it will unquestionably find a large audience is that it is obviously and drivingly honest. Its hero is the son of a university professor who lost his post in 1918 because he believed, and said so, that America should not go to war to make the world safe for democracy. A social conscience and the willingness to die as well as live for his convictions is in Glenn Spotswood's blood and bones.

"Adventures of a Young Man" is the record of the life and death, both spiritually and physically, of an intellectual Red. It might almost be called an anti-communist manifesto, for it dramatizes the eventual disillusionment of one young man to whom communism was a religion. Indeed, the book sounds almost as if Mr. Dos Passos had written it to declare his own emergence from an ideological spell.

Japanese War Diary

"Wheat and Soldiers," by Corporal Ashihei Hino, translated by Baroness Shidzue Ishimoto. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.] Published Monday.

This is the first book to reach America from fighting Japan. It is a war diary of a Japanese soldier, and chronicles with extreme simplicity one man's actions and thoughts as he approached battle and as he fought. The most remarkable thing about the chronicle itself is its simple and touching honesty.

The world war produced many diaries of greater intensity, greater depth, and greater emotion. But there may be something tremendously important about the fact that this record, so simple and factual that any one could feel its sincerity, has had a phenomenal sale in Japan—nearly half a million copies in only a few months after its publication there.

There is no questioning in the book of the soldier's duty to his country, but there is, on the other hand, no jingoism, no glorifying of death on the battlefield. And some of the moments in it are unforgettable for the soldier's realization of war's tragedy.

For instance, when a group of Chinese are captured, the author says: "Their close resemblance to us Japanese became apparent to me. I had a twinge of sadness and bewilderment when I noticed this. They are almost like our own people, yet we regarded them as the enemy."

Again, after a particularly costly battle, the author writes: "I was filled with anger at the sight of life being destroyed so carelessly. So much noble effort goes into the development of a single human life. . . . Every man here was some one's son. Many were husbands and fathers. Every one was a valuable member of my country. They had, folded away in their hearts, the longing for home, and were merely waiting for the day of the return. But one chance shell ends forever the possibility of that return.'

Air Power's Influence

"Bombs Bursting in Air," by George Fielding Eliot. [Reynal & Hitchcock, $1.75.] Published Thursday.

The author of "The Ramparts We Watch" has here written a primer of international relations dealing with the influence of air power. He uses words and statistics of one syllable. He pares argument down to its skeletal bones. He simplifies all the things that have been said and printed about the place that air power has come to occupy in international relations.

Some of the material of this book may surprise some readers, but most of those interested enough in the subject to read it at all will find nothing startling or revolutionary, merely a logical and sensible piecing together of data with a few simple deductions.

One of the principal conclusions of Maj. Eliot is that in Europe Germany has used air power for "international blackmail" and succeeded chiefly because a tremendous amount of physical and psychological damage could be done through bombing, even if eventual conquest is not absolutely assured by Germany's air force.

Rome's New Deal of 2,000 Years Ago Offers an Object Lesson to America

"The New Deal in Old Rome," by H. J. Haskell. [Knopf, $2.50.]

The Roosevelt New Deal is dealt off one of the oldest packs in history; the Romans marked the cards centuries ago with warnings of the dire results to be expected from the dole, price tinkering, and reckless spending. The Romans had a Resettlement administration two millenniums ago; they had a Public Works administration, a Home Owners' Loan corporation, and an Agricultural Adjustment administration; they destroyed the crops to cut production, and they devalued their currency.

All these significant facts have been unearthed by H. J. Haskell, who is editor of the Kansas City Star. He describes business cycles similar to the experience of the world today: boom years, with easy money, followed by panics and wild government spending and inflation. The result every one knows. Rome, greatest power of the ancient world, fell.

What are the lessons of its fall? "The history of the dole," Mr. Haskell writes, "carries a warning. . . . Under the Republic it was so handled as to build up a powerful and unmanageable pressure group. . . . People were schooled to expect something for nothing. Emergencies that would not have dismayed the men of the Republic were too much for the men of the late Empire, undermined by relief.

"The most disastrous policy, in its immediate effects, was extravagant spending by the government. . . . Gradually the soldiers and civil servants became dominating pressure groups. . . . Strangling taxation weakened the middle class. . . . Disintegration followed the stifling of initiative. . . . It required a century or more for the destructive forces in Rome to work out their effects. The modern tempo is faster."

"The underlying economic trouble of the Roman system was its failure to provide opportunities for the people to find work through which they might maintain decent minimum standards of living," Mr. Haskell concludes. Pioneers, aristocrats, trust busters, demagogs, Cæsars, and dictators tried their New Deals; they tried the very measures that are confusing business and threatening freedom today. Some worked as desperate remedies, most failed; then the barbarians solved all the problems by destroying Rome. Mr. Haskell's book is a thoughtful and prophetic reading of history. R. P. MacF.

Strange and Lovely Tale

"Peter the Wild Boy," by C. M. Tennant. [Harpers, $2.50.]

This strange, lovely tale is based on the legend of Peter, the wild boy found in 1725 in the forests of Hamelin. Succored by bears, able to speak only in guttural sound or birdlike chirp, he was captured by German hunters when a boy of 12. Hands and feet bound, one leg shattered by his captor's bullet, he was brought into the realm of men as a show piece and a curiosity.

From this point on, the tale partially abandons fact and moves into beautiful, moving fiction, somewhat akin to W. H. Hudson's "Green Mansions." Peter goes to England as a royal charge, but court life is far more palling to him than a cage to a a wild finch, and he is sent to a family in Hertfordshire. There, on a quiet farm, he regains some measure of happiness, and through his ways, as gentle as those of a baby fawn, gradually changes the life of a family.

In an era of turbulent literature this is a rare and beautiful little story, as restful and yet as deeply exciting as the depths of the forest. M. W.

Story for Teen Age Boys

"Boys' Club," by Max Siegel. [Houghton Mifflin, $2.]

This pleasant and exciting book was written for teen age boys by Max Siegel, a Chicago bookseller. "Boys' Club" brings together a refreshing assortment of city lads who want something better than the comradery of the poolhall and do something about it. They get permission to use an old house in return for cleaning it up and proceed to make it a desired gathering place for all the boys in the neighborhood.

Inevitably the son of the local politician, following in his father's footsteps, tries to muscle control from the originators of the club, and almost succeeds. He contrives to hang a robbery on the president of the club and almost gets away with it. The closing chapter is devoted to the expulsion trial of the politician's son, which follows court procedure admirably and adds another reason why readers should find the book absorbing evening entertainment. P. W.

Swiftly Paced Thriller

"Cancelled in Red," by Hugh Pentecost. [Dodd-Mead, $2.] Published Thursday. The $1,000 Red Badge prize mystery.

For a week-end thriller here is a swiftly paced mystery with a background of that gentle hobby of stamp collecting. But there's nothing gentle about the business as practiced by the racketeers who carry on their wily wrongs in these pages. Stolen stamps and stolen fortunes are synonymous.

Tricks and treachery tread the pages. Murder stalks and strikes. The reader's spine does an occasional shiver, but he fascinatedly sleuths with the sleuths, and he is delighted to find that nice Larry Storm, stamp dealer, is an alive and well but not wholly free man as the book ends. Stamp collectors will run to the nearest bookshop for "Cancelled in Red," but you needn't be a philatelist to find it an intriguing mystery.

Poland Next? a Handbook on Her Problems

BY CARL WIEGMAN.

"Poland: Key to Europe," by Raymond Leslie Buell. [Knopf, $3.]

Czecho-Slovakia put all her eggs in the basket of the western European powers, and they were all smashed at Munich. Poland, which prides herself on having a realistic foreign policy, has her eggs in several baskets, and keeps moving them around from time to time. Whether she can save herself by this policy is the main question discussed in "Poland: Key to Europe," by Raymond Leslie Buell, president of the Foreign Policy association.

Poland, Mr. Buell says, must look forward sooner or later to a German offensive to recover at least Upper Silesia, the Corridor, and Danzig. The Poles cannot expect to win a localized war against Germany, he believes, but if they can resist the Nazi forces for a month or so, it is probable they would receive aid at least from Russia and Rumania.

Writing before Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's statement on March 31, promising to help defend Polish independence, Mr. Buell recalls the Franco-British sacrifice of the Czech forts and twenty army divisions at Munich, and then remarks: "France and Britain cannot equally afford to throw away Poland's thirty-five divisions."

Mr. Buell reviews Poland's history, political and economic systems, the problems of the Ukrainian and German minorities, and the Jewish question. His book shows again how ridiculous are the attempts of American interventionists to simplify Europe's quarrels into such categories as fascism vs. democracy, aggressor vs. nonaggressor, or big vs. little dog.

Czecho-Slovakia's Passing

"We Shall Live Again," by Maurice Hindus. [Doubleday-Doran, $3.]

During the Sudeten crisis last September Maurice Hindus broadcast daily from Czecho-Slovakia to the United States. We heard him say: "All is quiet tonight in Prague."

Now, in his book on the dead republic, Mr. Hindus tells what was really happening around him while he broadcast his censored words: A maddened, frustrated people milling through the streets, waiting and hoping for the words of permission to fight; unbelieving to the end that their friends would desert them.

Mr. Hindus went to Czecho-Slovakia in the spring of 1938. He visited cities and villages, went to wine feasts, to wedding festivals and funerals. With an original prejudice in favor of both the Slavs and the institution of democracy, he could find few flaws in the experiment being carried out in the synthetic republic. He returned to Prague confident that, left to itself, Czecho-Slovakia might yet reconcile divergent groups.

But before he could write his account of the success of the experiment, September changed his story into an obituary.

DEMOCRATS ACT TO AMEND STATE CONSTITUTION

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 2.—[Special.]—Three resolutions contemplating changes or complete revision of the Illinois constitution were presented to the house today.

Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago, the Democratic floor leader, introduced the resolutions at Gov. Horner's request, he said. A Democratic caucus next week will determine which shall be pushed.

Income Tax May Lie Ahead.

The resolutions provide:

1. For a constitutional convention completely to revise the basic law of the state.

2. For the so-called gateway amendment, which would permit submission of three amendments to the constitution to the voters in the same election. Only one proposal is permitted at present.

3. For amendment of article nine, the revenue section of the constitution. This would permit imposition of a state income tax.

All of the resolutions were referred to the executive committee.

Parties Draft Programs.

Both Republicans and Democrats have drafted their programs for the remainder of the session.

The G. O. P. program calls for passage of a flat $30 a month minimum old age pension and increase of the workmen's compensation from 50 to 66⅔ per cent of the weekly wage.

Republicans are expected to approve the $72,000,000 two year relief appropriation, but will oppose the contemplated new relief set-up under which all agencies would be consolidated.

Democrats' Plans Formed.

The Democratic program includes one of the Adamowski resolutions, calls for passage of the relief appropriation and the Chicago park district pegged levy bills, seeks a state school distributive fund appropriation of $29,400,000, backs relief organization, seeks to extend the 3 cent sales tax for two years, and demands a balanced budget.

The house today killed a new plan for electing judges of Chicago's Municipal court. This would have let a judge run against his record. If he did not win, a successor would have been appointed.

IS TAVERN TIME DAYLIGHT TIME? HODES TO RULE

Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel, was asked yesterday for an official opinion on the validity of daylight saving time in setting the closing hour for taverns. The request was made by a subcommittee of the city council's license committee, which is studying proposed changes in the closing regulations.

The subcommittee members were in general favorable to a proposal that the closing hours be 2 a. m. on weekdays and 3 a. m. on Sundays. When it was pointed out that some tavernkeepers argued that the present law, setting 1 a. m. weekdays and 2 a. m. Sundays as door shutting times, meant central standard time, the committeemen demanded expert advice.

Hodes is expected to report by Monday. The subcommittee will make its recommendations to the full license committee on Tuesday and it is expected the council will act Wednesday. Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] is leading the fight to give the taverns longer hours. Saloon owners have been protesting since Commissioner Allman ordered strict enforcement of the closing hours several weeks ago.

INQUIRY NAMED TO INVESTIGATE WATER DISTRICT

Springfield, Ill., June 2.—[Special.]—Speaker Cross of the house today appointed Representative Leo D. Crowley [R., Peoria] chairman of a committee to investigate construction of the Brookfield-North Riverside water works district, particularly details of the contract for its construction. The house approved the inquiry after a subcommittee had recommended it.

Three representatives sponsored the investigation. They are Emmett McGrath [D., Brookfield], John O. Hruby [D., Chicago], whose district includes the territory, and Arnold L. Lund [R., Riverside].

Chairman Crowley said that the committee would subpena officials of the water works district to appear in the county building in Chicago at 10 a. m., June 10. The other members of the committee are William Vicars [D., Pontiac], Reed F. Cutler [R., Lewistown], James P. Boyle [D., Chicago], and Peter C. Granata [R., Chicago].

GUNMAN CLERK TO BE TRIED FOR SLAYING JUNE 26

Judge Robert J. Dunne in Criminal court yesterday set June 26 for the murder trial of Anton Papas, 55 years old, quick triggered fruit store clerk and special policeman who shot and killed a young woman last Tuesday. Miss Muriel Campbell, 18 years old, 1228 Maple avenue, Berwyn, was killed by Papas as she fled from the fruit store at 5624 North avenue after she and a companion had broken a watermelon. Judge Dunne yesterday refused to allow Papas' release on bail. Assistant State's Attorney Richard Devine said the jury to try Papas would be qualified to inflict the death penalty.

The School Children's Aid society treasury was $2,885.16 richer yesterday after Miss Helen Howe, director of music of the board of education, gave Mrs. George McCorkle, president of the society, a check for that amount. The money represented receipts from the public school music festival held in the International amphitheater. The society's funds are used to buy clothing for children who otherwise would be unable to attend school.

NEW ZOO BABY CLIMBS CRAG AT AGE OF 2 HOURS

Aoudads are wild sheep whose native habitat is Africa. But it doesn't take one of the species long to become accustomed to his surroundings.

For example, there's Junior. He was born yesterday on the monkey island at the Brookfield zoo, with fifty baboons looking on. [The simians share the island with the aoudads.]

Junior blinked his eyes. Then he stretched a few times. He looked at the baboons. He took a meal. He took a short nap. Then, about two hours after birth, he went on a short jaunt which included a little rock climbing. Even the baboons admired his agility.

FOUND HANGED IN BASEMENT.

Otto Eilering, 52 years old, an unemployed machinist, was found hanged yesterday in the basement of his home at 3810 North Oakley avenue.

TRIPLE TROUBLES TRIP HUGO AFTER A BUND MEETING

Troubles piled up yesterday for Hugo R. Opitz, 71 years old, 1916 Cleveland avenue, who sometimes calls himself Col. Benjamin G. Blackney. The principal trouble resulted from a charge that he illegally wore the uniform of an army officer at a German-American bund meeting in Milwaukee, Wis.

Optiz was arraigned during the day before Judge Francis Borrelli on a charge of menacing a newspaper photographer with a gun. He was placed on probation for one year. Next, police arrested him at the request of Milwaukee police who said they had been seeking him since 1916 on a charge of defrauding a Milwaukee hotel of $74.

Then federal agents stepped in and took him into custody on a charge of illegally wearing an army officer's uniform. It was charged that he wore a colonel's uniform, with sidearms, at a bund meeting last Saturday. Optiz pleaded not guilty before Commissioner E. K. Walker and his case was continued to June 6. He said he is a retired army lieutenant, a war veteran, and that he uses his mother's maiden name of Blackney at times.

Wife Sees Husband, Two Sons, and Another Drown

St. Cloud, Minn., June 2.—(AP)—While his wife looked on helpless, Norris Moore was drowned in the Mississippi river today in a futile effort to save his two sons and a third boy. The sons were Le Roy, 17 years old, and Wayne, 12, and the other boy was Ralph Wruck. The tragedy occurred at a school picnic.

THE ROYAL AND THE ROOSEVELT TOURS.

If Mr. Roosevelt sees the prospect of getting congress off his hands before summer he will wait until after adjournment to make his cross-country trip to the west coast. If the congressmen decide that they will sit on the international situation as long as possible he will take his eye off them long enough to do his touring and make his projected public appearances while congress is still in session. Apparently he wants his progress through the country to follow closely in time on the royal pilgrimage across the continent above the border and into our own eastern seaboard.

The results of the royal Canadian trip seem to have met expectations. Curious but respectful Americans have poured over the border and the Canadians themselves have demonstrated a great loyalty to the common bond of empire. It was a reasonable expectation that they would, on the occasion of the first visit of a British king and queen to the dominion. The pro-royal regions of our eastern seaboard may be expected to do their part as handsomely as the Canadians have done. They may even outdo their northern neighbors.

It is true that already the pending royal visit has developed some of the consequences so often observed in the American political system. Favors in the form of much sought invitations are like political appointments. They insure the loyalty of the recipients but have an offset in the disappointment and gloom of the persons left by the wayside. Nevertheless, the sponsors of the ceremonies believe that the profit will exceed the loss and that the Anglo-American alliance will be tightened up by the sentiments prompted by the royal visit. The intention was to make it easier for Mr. Roosevelt and his ambassadors to France and Great Britain to swing America into the orbit of British and French imperialism.

When the king and queen have departed Mr. Roosevelt will start out to cover territory not included in the royal tour and thus supplement the work of the king's visit by softening up the people of the American hinterlands where normal Atlantic seaboard loyalties and enthusiasms do not prevail. If the program could work out as it is designed, the United States might be led into the diplomatic and military vassalage desired by the promoters of the alliance which puts America's frontier in France or somewhere in Africa.

THE LIFTING POWER.

The dynamic force of national economy as Dr. Alvin Hansen of Harvard described it to Senator O'Mahoney's temporary national economic committee in what's called the monopoly inquiry is the gross capital outlay. The gross capital outlay will lift income and accelerate expenditures for the things people consume. It will produce employment. It will make goods, satisfy people's needs, and bring prosperity from around the corner.

Dr. Hansen of Harvard was introduced to the committee by the SEC, which is running the show. Gross capital outlay is the capital spent in replacements of existing plant and in expansion and new building. It is spent in new housing and new offices, in new factories, new equipment, new machines, new instruments of production, and in the replacement of outworn establishment.

Dr. Hansen used the estimates of Dr. Kuznets of the National Bureau of Economic Research to show that in the good seven years, 1923-1929, a gross capital outlay averaging annually 18.3 billions produced an average annual income of 71 billions. The high was a capital outlay of 20 billion and a national income of 80 billion. That was the peak of the new era, the time when experts said culture had reached the golden age. There would be no more want. Poverty had been conquered. No more downturns—the cycle had been broken.

This optimism was misguided. Within a year the joyous were silly. It happened again just as it had happened before. Still, in every other halt in the outlay of capital for production there had been a recovery. There had been a comeback. And the comeback has gone to higher standards.

Great capital outlays are for the future. They are dictated by confidence. They will not be made if the government creates uncertainty and too many risks for investment. Money will not take chances without fair hope of profit. The capital outlays which should raise the national income, create employment, make goods, and restore prosperity are withheld in sterile pools because the Roosevelt administration has, for its own purposes, created the intimidating circumstances which keep Dr. Hansen's lifting power from lifting. Investment does not go into plant and expansion when a government, threatening savings with loss and expropriation, demands venture without profit and the taking of risks without gain.

The lifting power has been stopped by the acts of federal administration for its own political purposes, one of which is government financing of plant as proposed by Dr. Hansen and other New Deal economists.

POLITICS SHIELDING CRIME.

Paroles are a valuable and vicious form of political patronage. They have been so used in Illinois for decades. The scandals of their misuse have hit both Republican and Democratic administrations. That misuse will continue so long as a politically appointed and politically dominated pardon board retains its present broad and unwise powers.

While those powers exist politicians allied with the underworld will always be found ready to make improper use of them. They will be ready to resist every effort to limit them in the public interest, as they were ready when the passage of the Ward-Schnackenberg bill was held up Thursday by the lack of a single vote.

It should be added quickly that many of the members of the house who failed to support the bill are not of this class. They have refused, out of regard for both their own reputations and the public welfare, to have anything to do with the parole racket. A number of them have refused to support the reform bill because of honest convictions. It is unfortunate that those convictions should throw them in company with others whose motive is to maintain the alliance between crime and politics by defending the improper powers now vested in a political parole board.

The Ward-Schnackenberg bill gives trial judges the power to fix a maximum and a minimum sentence for a convicted felon, within the limits fixed by the existing indeterminate sentence act. As that act now stands the parole board can and has released vicious criminals possessing political backing after they have spent a year in prison. It can and has allowed first offenders lacking political connections to remain in prison until they have served the maximum fixed by law.

In the light of this experience what remains of the argument advanced against the bill that it will result in judges throughout the state fixing different penalties for the same crime? The parole board now does just that, with the added drawback that its decisions are frequently influenced by politics.

In fixing sentence under the proposed act the trial judge will have fresh in his mind the evidence in the case. He will have available to him the previous record of the offender. He can obtain every bit of evidence that might later influence an impartial decision by the parole board, except the conduct of the offender in prison. Experience has shown that that is not to be given much weight. The experienced criminal, the man most dangerous to have at large, is the one who will behave himself best in prison in the hope of an early release.

Nor, as has been argued, will the passage of the bill destroy the parole system. The supervision of convicts after release has proved its value where it has been honestly and efficiently administered. Imposition of a minimum and maximum sentence will still make possible releases upon parole.

Every argument against the bill can be answered except the one that it will destroy paroles as material for political patronage. The bill is designed to destroy such patronage, and that is why it is so vigorously opposed in some quarters.

SLUMS AND GOVERNMENT COSTS.

The city council housing committee has suggested that a WPA survey determine the cost of city services to rundown and slum areas, to be compared with taxes those areas pay for such services.

Without waiting for such a survey, it is easy to tell the aldermen not only what it will show but what use will be made of it. It will show that blighted areas do not pay for the governmental services they receive. It will be used as propaganda for public housing projects which, if current experience is a guide, will be so expensive that present residents of blighted areas will be unable to live in them. It will also serve to back demands that tax exemptions form a further subsidy to the relatively well-to-do persons who can pay the housing project rents.

Figures obtained in surveys of this type in other cities have been largely worthless because they were based on a series of statistical fallacies. As an example, cost of fire protection is computed by multiplying the number of fire department runs in a given area by the so-called average cost of such a run, obtained by dividing the total fire runs made during a year by the cost of the fire department. By this brand of logic we should fire Commissioner Corrigan if he cut in half the number of fires, on the ground that he had thereby doubled the cost of answering a single alarm.

Such surveys ignore the fact that even prosperous residential districts rarely pay in taxes for what they receive in governmental services. If they did no taxes would be levied on factories and business districts.

In other words, property does not pay taxes. It is the people who own and use it who pay. It is not because they live in poor dwellings that slum residents are unable to pay their share, so-called, of taxes. It is because they earn low wages, which, of course, is also the reason they live in the slums. The only way to raise their tax contributions and get them out of the slums is to give them more work at better wages. Putting up housing projects in which they cannot afford to live only makes their lot worse because these housing projects sap the earnings of productive enterprise that otherwise would be used to make work and raise wages.

Editorial of the Day

SUCCESS STORY.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

Death came Monday to a Grand Rapids citizen to whom the handicaps of life meant little. Left crippled as an infant and fatherless at the age of 16, he nevertheless carved out a career which stood as an inspiration to all those about him. This man was Henry Smith, dean of the horticulturists of Kent county.

Despite the obstacles in his path he became nationally prominent as one who made the earth bloom. He pioneered the establishment of this county as one of the rich fruit producing centers of the state. He developed one of the oldest floral firms of the city. The respect he won from his colleagues in his profession was marked only recently by his citation in the state "horticultural hall of fame."

To those who like to say that the world is against them this life has provided an answer. And it is an answer as applicable today as it was three score years ago when this career was started. Henry Smith's success was measured, not by his material advancement but by the triumph of his mind and spirit over adversity.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MAXWELL STREET ANNALS.

All this talk about a modernized Maxwell street, with booths in the latest architectural fashion, free wheeling push carts, snappy paint jobs, etc., caused us to wonder how long this redoubtable rendezvous of hucksters and hagglers has been in existence. Although famous in Chicago lore, the street has no history to speak of. If it ever had an official chronicler who set down the names of its founders, the deeds of its principal merchants, and the vagaries of its folklore, he probably wrote in Yiddish.

So we began to ask questions.

"It was a residential street in the 1880s and early 1890s," said a former dweller in the district. "There were trees on it, and quiet families of simple people. I think the change into a market came about 1900, after 12th street was widened. This caused many merchants to move up Halsted and Jefferson streets, and thus business flowed into Maxwell street, where rents were low."

Then we remembered the Maxwell street police station, a block or two west of the market, and so we finally found Michael Killgallon, retired, oldest of all the station's veterans. [The Haymarket riot is also on his record.]

"I was detailed to Maxwell street as a plain-clothes man in 1891," said Mr. Killgallon, whose memory has not dimmed in the ripeness of old age. "The market had then been in existence four or five years. Its traders dealt chiefly in fish, meat, fruits, and vegetables. Customers came from other sections of the town in buggies and wagons—all Jewish.

"We had plenty of petty cases from the market. Customers complained about spoiled fruits, about short change, about rough treatment by 'pullers-in.' But we didn't pay much attention to them; it all seemed like a family brawl. The health department ordered us to enforce cleanup rules. . . . And it has been going on like that ever since, getting bigger, busier, noisier."

Maxwell street was named after an early Chicago physician, Dr. Philip Maxwell, who came here in 1832 as an assistant army surgeon at Fort Dearborn. When the post was abandoned in 1836 he started private practice. He must have been the Falstaff of the village, for he weighed 280 pounds.

LESSON OF THE SQUALUS.

Perhaps because we, too, have known the fear
Of what may come, the clutching dread of night,
Our hearts were cold with theirs while death hung near
As if we, too, were with them in their plight.
We shared their doubt; may we now courage learn
From quiet words that tell how they dared wait
Through endless hours in trust that could discern
The hands above that worked to thwart their fate.
Teach us this tranquil truth, that spite of all
The bell of faith may reach our depths and raise
Our hopelessness above the ocean's thrall
Until, our grief forgot, we lift our gaze
From bitter darkness to the dazzling morn

The Lingo of the Theater.

To put you out of your agony, here it is:

"The amount of money which must be taken in at the box office before there is any profit."

This and 499 other definitions of words frequently used in the talk of actors, showmen, and stagehands may be found in "Theatricana," prepared and published by Ken Carrington, veteran actor and stage director, now living in Chicago.

FLOWERS FOR THE EDITOR.

(In a letter from Racine, Wis.)

From an old Wisconsin garden,
Where through sweet recurring springs,
Come the lovely valley lilies,
Fragrant, fragile, fairy things.
Where the purple violets nestle
Beneath their heart shaped leaves,
Where the tender, thoughtful pansies
Softly speak to one who grieves.
Where the dawn lights tulip-tapers
To glow through long spring days,
And light the hearts of those who love
Wisconsin's spring sweet ways.

Tree Murder in the Suburbs.

On our street [in Riverside, Ill.] a young, healthy linden was recently doomed; the poplars in our block have long since fallen and the orioles live farther down the street, though they still come and sing to us from our apple trees. And I know a certain place where a whole row, nay, an avenue, of catalpas were laid low. Natalie Flohr.

The Magic of Moonlight.

Moonlight in the woods—and a magic spell is cast! Every tree is sharply etched, and becomes a complete entity. Black shadows alternate with pools of silver light. A little stream, slipping silently between the dark banks, is a burnished silver path. There is an indescribable aroma in the cool night air—the familiar woods scent so purified as to seem the essence of the moonlight itself. A night like this strips one of everything save a trembling, inarticulate awareness. Helene.

Chicago was called the Windy City in the '60s and '70s because there lived here in those days loud-mouthed, hot air shooters, real estate boosters mostly crooks, loud politicians, humbugs in all kinds of endeavor. Read Dickens' novel, "Martin Chuzzlewit," and you have the counterpart. J. G.

Victorian bashfulness was a shameless thing when compared to the delicacy with which radio announcers describe the gory details of a prize fight. CHARLES COLLINS.

MILK MADE SAFE BY PASTEURIZATION.

We owe to a simple expedient—pasteurization—our freedom from many communicable diseases. Epidemics of septic sore throat—so widespread some years ago—are seen but rarely. When the ailment does appear its victims usually will be found among those who use raw milk.

No longer do we encounter great numbers of little ones with bunches of infected lymph tissue on the sides of the neck or scars indicating their removal. Many now in the later decades of life will recall a childhood stay at a hospital for the extirpation of scrofulous glands. This was the affliction which Samuel Johnson—the famous dictionary maker—contracted in early youth. He related that he was touched by Queen Anne in an attempt to cure the taint. Known as the king's evil, it was thought that contact with a royal hand would bring relief. In Johnson's case the visit was futile. Subsequently he recorded that the masses festered and broke with a discharge of pus, which continued for some months.

In New York City—prior to the enforcement of pasteurization—12 per cent of all samples of milk were found to contain tubercle bacilli. At that time the death rate from the great white plague was 400 per 100,000 of population. Today, with modern sanitary regulations, the figure has dropped to 69 per 100,000. These same ratios are duplicated in most of our large communities. In the young, particularly, the decreased incidence of this infection has been conspicuous. Forty years ago 130 youngsters per 100,000 under 15 years of age succumbed to this ailment. The present rate is 12.

Bone and joint tuberculosis, with its subsequent crippling, has diminished in striking proportion. Only 12 out of 10,156 cases of all ages were recorded in 1936 in the out patient department of the New York Orthopedic hospital. A strong commentary on the advanced position which we as a nation have taken is the contrast between the population of our hospitals and those of many European countries. A stroll through the wards of institutions abroad will reveal hundreds of boys and girls who are fighting a bone disorder, which in large part had its origin in a contaminated milk supply.

But the incidence with us is so low—comparatively—that the infection is looked upon as a minor medical problem. The spine continues to be the primary seat of the trouble, with the hip joint second in importance, and the knee third. Many of us can recall the period when long months of confinement on a Bradford frame was the fate of all too many sufferers. Today curative surgical procedures are applied with far less difficulty and with a minimal loss of time and activity.

The improved conditions did not come merely by chance. Numerous factors must be taken into consideration, including the careful inspection of meat. Carcasses of cattle, swine, and poultry, badly infected with tuberculosis, are condemned and consigned to the rendering vat. In practically all of our states dairies are supervised and cows are tested for disease. Those that react—proving the presence of tubercle bacilli—are destroyed and arrangements are provided so that their owners shall not incur a serious financial loss. In one of our commonwealths in 1936 a million and a half cows were given tuberculin tests and only 2,000 were discovered to be afflicted. Promptly upon the identification of the malady the animals were removed from the herds, no more to sow these bacilli broadcast.

But we are not free from the ravages of this deadly germ. The illness for which it is responsible will remain one of our chief causes of incapacity until we learn to recognize its presence more promptly. In the meantime we can make certain that clean milk is served to young and old alike.

NOT RELATED TO INSANITY.

M. T. writes: What is pituitary disease? Could it lead to insanity? Is there a cure?

REPLY.

The pituitary is one of the ductless glands. Its secretions are important in regulating growth. Overactivity or underactivity may disturb many body functions. While the structure is attached to the lower surface of the brain it is not related to insanity. This depends upon the type of lesion and the part involved. Cysts may be removed surgically.

OPERATION NEEDED.

Mrs. B. writes: If a 51 year old woman has a fairly advanced case of glaucoma is there anything that can be done except to be fitted with glasses? Is diet of any value?

REPLY.

The trouble arises because the eyeball drains inadequately. A slight incision plus the employment of a drug to keep the pupil contracted will be helpful. It is necessary to reduce the tention [hardening] of the eleball. Neither diet nor glasses will cure.

USE HOT APPLICATIONS.

Mrs. A. N. writes: My father, 70 years old, had a double fracture of a leg two years ago. He spent three months in a hospital. He is now able to walk but there is still pain in the leg. Is there anything we can do?

REPLY.

At his age some tenderness probably will persist. Hot applications and gentle massage daily will be helpful.

X-RAY MAY HELP.

M. C. writes: How does a person get lichen planus? What is the treatment?

REPLY.

The exact cause of this annoying skin disease is not known, although an infection is thought to be responsible. Soothing ointments are used in treatment chiefly to relieve the itching. X-rays may be of value. In chronic cases the general resistance should be improved.

ON SLEEPING WITH OPEN EYES.

R. S. writes: What is the cause of a 1 year old child sleeping with his eyes partly open? I am told that I sleep that way, too. Is it anything that should be corrected?

REPLY.

This has no relation to the term "half-asleep." It is of no significance and nothing need be done.

DETECTING TUBERCULAR GERM.

M. H. writes: Can the tubercular germ be detected through the fluoroscope?

REPLY.

No. The microscope is necessary. However, the destruction wrought by the bacillus often can be seen through the fluoroscope.

AGE AND PUBLIC OFFICE.

Cleveland, O., June 1.—The millions of voters of America are being discriminated against on the age question. It is only right that the voters discriminate on the age question, on the appointment of public officials. If old age renders people incompetent in ordinary business, it also renders old people incompetent holding government positions.

No man over 60 years of age should be allowed to have his name on the ballot—for congress, senator, President, or Vice President. Congressmen, senators, President, and Vice President should not be allowed more than two terms of office. This would enable more men to share the rewards of government finance and remove from office men who cater for votes, instead of the good of the country.

The country needs men who could run the government efficiently on 2 billion dollars yearly, so that instead of the government taking 70 per cent of a person's income the government would take 30 per cent and leave 70 per cent to the individual for private business.

The voter could then expect industry to become prosperous and employ more voters. This high cost of government is a losing game and the country is deteriorating more every year. According to Mr. Haskell of the Kansas City Star the New Deal has been dug from the old Roman empire, which has been dead and gone for ages, as even then it was a failure, and is being now foisted on the American people, and is again a failure, as our public debt demonstrates.

It has been demonstrated that low taxes make prosperity, high taxes make depression. MARY MACKAY.

A SANE VIEWPOINT.

Oak Park, Ill., May 31.—It is refreshing to see your cartoons and read your editorials and news items, which give a sane point of view as to our position in these European crises, in the face of the distorted facts and hate propaganda which some other newspapers and periodicals have been presenting.

We are regular readers of THE TRIBUNE and we hope that you will continue your fight against the same sort of insidious propaganda which drew us into the world war, and against any change in our present neutrality law. LAURA KINDERMAN.

THREE CHEERS FOR LAWS OF OUR CITY.

Chicago, May 31.—First—we will have two tavern closing hours—take your choice. Open at noon or 1 and close at 1 or 2—daylight or standard time; who would enforce that law? Who could check up or our delightful taverns? The whole thing is a farce. I wish some of these lenient persons could live next door to one—they can raise plenty of hades in much shorter hours. Din, racket, and noise—cracked voice blues shouters and everything but tomcats to make the night hideous. DISGUSTED.

DEADLY ARMS SPECIAL PERMIT.

Chicago, May 31.—We read with regret in this morning's TRIBUNE of the wanton killing of an innocent young girl by an erratic, self-styled officer. Why in the world such characters are given a permit to carry arms is beyond the comprehension of any sane person.

You say the killer had a "special" permit for carrying deadly arms for duty in the Assumption church at Harrison and Central avenue.

Since when are any such "special" privileges given or necessary?

H. A. BORN.

HIGH SCHOOL VOICES.

Chicago, May 31.—Chicago high schools are a literal nest for destroying young and beautiful voices. Teachers in the schools have created choral groups and have given them fancy names like symphonic choirs or philharmonic choirs and similar names, and are using extremely difficult music which is dangerous because of the strain it creates on these young voices.

From my experience in handling voices within the last thirty-five years, I find that during the period when girls are 14 to 16 years of age, the changing voices of these youngsters should be simply trained only in the middle range because it is difficult to tell whether their voices will change to high or low ones. Musical literature is rich with songs for children of this age.

There is a very distinct change in boys' voices. The best thing to do is to stop singing for several months during this period.

But what is happening in high schools? These young voices are being used for 45 minutes every day singing oratorios, contatas, and even operas—which are a strain on matured voices. Some of the teachers are taking these 14 and 15 year old voices and stretching them above high "C," which in the musical profession is considered a crime.

Something should be done to protect these young voices from destruction. They should be given music which covers the requirements of this tender age and which every famous composer has written as songs for children.

BAGPIPES IN THE PARADE.

Chicago, May 31.—I saw the Memorial day parade in Chicago yesterday and was shocked to see the parade led by a group of men wearing military uniforms and playing a military musical instrument of a foreign country. I have in mind the Scotch highlanders and their bagpipes. I am at a loss to understand why such foreign groups are permitted to march in the most patriotic parade of the United States. Furthermore, why does the American Legion permit members of some posts to wear military uniforms of a foreign country? TRUE AMERICAN.

LINCOLN PARK'S SOUTH END.

Chicago, May 31.—I live on the north side and go to Lincoln park to get some fresh air. The south end of the park near North avenue is all cut up for autos; dust flying and no benches for people to sit on. I thought the parks were for the people. The nice space where the boys and girls played ball is all torn up for cars. E. HANSEN,

WHEN SHRUBS ARE A MENACE.

Chicago, May 31.—I note an item saying Highland Park's mayor is asking householders to remove curb shrubbery as a cause of automobile accidents. This request is seconded by Beverly Hills residents. Some action should be taken to remove shrubs from corner lots and thus help to remove one very evident cause of auto accidents. AGNES W. SCALLAN.

STORAGE CHARGES.

Chicago, May 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I rented my garage for storage July 25, 1938, and since they put their stuff in they haven't paid a cent of rent. I called them about ten times, but can't catch them in. The mother or sister answers the phone and says he'll pay, but he never does. Can I sell anything to get my rent out of it? Please advise the right thing to do. P. C.

A creditor does not merely by virtue of being in possession of goods belonging to his debtor, have any technical right to sell without legal proceedings, although the right of set-off would give him a qualified immunity if he sold without right. Hence, unless the value of the goods is small compared with the debt so that they are not likely to be reclaimed, a safer course is to proceed under the 1921 statute which gives any person who has expended labor or material on a chattel or furnished storage at the request of its owner a lien analogous to the familiar mechanics' lien on real estate. Such lien ceased at the expiration of sixty days from delivery of the goods to the owner, unless claimant files in the recorder's office a lien notice. Such lien may be foreclosed by ordinary chancery proceedings or by advertisment and sale, the first step of which is to deliver to the sheriff a certified copy of the claim for lien, indorsed with request for foreclosure. Adverse parties may, within ten days, deny the lien, in which case foreclosure in chancery must be begun within an additional ten days. If no denial, the sheriff advertises and sells.

If your principal object is to get the goods off your hands, it is simpler to ask a storage warehouse to call for them for the owner's account. The warehouse can sell for its charges without bothering you further.

TAX DELINQUENCY.

Chicago, May 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A and B own a piece of property clear of debts except a total of $800 of back taxes and penalties, assessments, and water bills. A has other clear property. B has no assets.

1. Can A be held liable for B's share of the debts?
2. Can A's clear property be tied up?
3. The building is to be condemned for lack of sewerage in property in question.
4. What would you advise A to do in order to clear himself of the building so that he will not be responsible for any of B's debts? E. A.

1. The entire property could be sold for taxes, if that is what you mean to ask.
2. Ordinarily no effort is made by tax collecting officials to subject other property to the taxes.
3. No question asked.
4. You have given us no information as to these debts. We have assumed that your questions relate to the taxes, etc., which you mention.

MANTON ADMITS $300,000 LOANS BY 2 COMPANIES

Ex-Judge on Stand; Jury May Get Case Today.

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—Former Judge Martin T. Manton, accused of taking bribes in the form of loans, stepped down from the witness stand today after admitting that he had obtained or engineered loans totaling $300,000 from representatives of Warner Brothers and the American Tobacco company while cases involving both those concerns were on appeal before him as presiding judge of the federal Circuit Court of Appeals.

Counsel for Manton rested their case soon after he left the stand, and the case probably will go to the jury tomorrow.

United States Attorney John T. Cahill drew from Manton an admission that he knew Harry Warner, president of the moving picture corporation, and that he went to see him in May, 1933, while an appeal on a case involving his company was pending in the Circuit court. He asked Warner for $25,000 as a loan and received a check for that sum drawn on the Colfax Trading corporation, of which Warner is president.

One day before the court ruled in favor of Warners in the Cinema vs. Warner case, the judge admitted he had got another $25,000 loan.

Another Loan of $250,000.

At another point of his testimony he admitted reluctantly that $250,000 was loaned to James J. Sullivan, by Lord & Thomas, the advertising corporation which represented the American Tobacco company, at a time when American Tobacco had a case pending before him. The money was delivered, he conceded, to Louis Levy of the law firm then known as Chadbourne, Stanchfield & Levy. Sullivan was the close business associate of Manton.

Earlier Manton admitted in testimony that in 1935 a total of $149,625 in cash found its way into the safe in his chambers. He made this admission under questioning about bank accounts, loans, and interwoven corporate interests.

All this money, Manton insisted, was borrowed on his personal unsecured notes. Previously it was brought out in the trial that in June, 1934, Manton made a sworn statement that he was in debt more than $500,000. In the following May, Manton admitted, he asserted in a letter regarding a loan that his net worth was more than $750,000. This indicated an increase of $1,250,000 in his net assets.

Two Sums from Breweries.

The testimony revealed that $25,000 of the $149,625 was obtained from Nat Levy of the Kings brewery, Brooklyn; $24,625 from William Bachman of the Kips Bay brewery, Brooklyn; $20,000 from Sullivan, now dead; $40,000 from the Ungerleider corporation in the sale of the Alamac hotel; $15,000 from Attorney Weingarten, identified as head of London Character shoes, and $25,000 from Robert Newman, who Manton said he understood was in the theatrical business.

ANNENBERG ACTS TO GIVE RECORDS TO GOVERNMENT

Attorneys representing M. L. Annenberg, publisher of a Philadelphia newspaper and of several racing news services, and an outspoken critic of the New Deal, conferred yesterday with United States District Attorney William J. Campbell on the government's investigation of Annenberg's income taxes. The government is to present its case to the federal grand jury on Monday. It has subpenaed more than seventy-five witnesses in addition to calling for the Annenberg companies' records.

"We were trying to figure out some way of giving the government the books and records they want without completely disrupting Mr. Annenberg's business," said Attorney Dwight P. Green of the Chicago office of Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin & Ellis, counsel for the publisher.

Meanwhile, final oral arguments were presented yesterday in the injunction hearing before Charles A. McDonald, federal master in chancery, in which James and John Flanagan, publishers of the Chicago Turf Bulletin, are seeking an order to restrain Annenberg and State Senator Daniel A. Serritella from operating what the Flanagans charge is a monopoly in the dissemination of racing news. McDonald will have thirty days in which to report his recommendations to the federal District court.

HOPE FOR EARLY END OF BRIGGS STRIKE DWINDLES

Detroit, Mich., June 2.—[Special.]—Hopes for an early settlement of a C. I. O. strike that has kept 70,000 automobile workers idle for twelve days dwindled late today when negotiations were abruptly adjourned until Monday with the disputants described as far apart.

The Briggs Manufacturing company, auto body maker, at whose plants the strike originated, announced it would not negotiate a new contract until a bargaining agent has been designated by a national labor relations board election and until the striking United Automobile Workers give up their demand for a union shop.

The company based its position on the claim of Homer Martin that his independent U. A. W. union represents a majority of Briggs' 15,000 workers. The company said it would not enter this factional dispute and that it would not give up its right to hire persons it believes best fitted to fill particular jobs. James F. Dewey, federal labor conciliator, indicated he was discouraged by the deadlock.

PRISON PHOTOS OF PENDERGAST AND HENCHMAN

Leavenworth, Kas., June 2.—[Special.]—On the order of Attorney General Frank Murphy in Washington the department of justice today broke precedent and released prison photographs of Tom Pendergast, Democratic boss of Kansas City, and his henchman, R. E. O'Malley, ousted Missouri state insurance superintendent.

The two men were brought to the federal prison here Monday to begin terms imposed after their pleas of guilty to income tax evasion. Pendergast is serving a term of fifteen months and O'Malley a sentence of a year and a day.

They were convicted of failing to report a total of about $500,000 income, most of which they received as bribes in the fraudulent settlement of an insurance rate case involving $9,500,000.

DRIVER FREEZES TO DEATH WHILE HUNDREDS PASS

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—While hundreds strolled past a dairy truck parked at a busy Brooklyn street intersection without giving it a thought until today, after it had been there for ten hours, a man was slowly freezing to death inside.

Finally Richard Radu and Harry Platantees, who had passed the truck several times, met on the sidewalk and commented it was unusual for a dairy truck to be parked so long. They walked to the back of the vehicle and opened the door. There they found a man lying on the floor.

They summoned the police, who tried to revive him. He was dead as the result of cold and suffocation. He was identified as Louis Bolter, 35 years old, of Queens. Apparently the door blew shut while he was in the truck compartment checking his stock. There was no handle on the inside.

GIRL CONFESSES KIDNAPING BABY TO HOAX 'FATHER'

Philadelphia, Pa., June 2.—[Special.]—Gerald McCrohan, 5 months old, who was kidnaped from his carriage on a busy street yesterday, was found today in the possession of a young couple.

Miss Beatrice Wood, 21 years old, was quoted by police as saying she took the baby to replace her own who died. The girl said a son was born to her last March. She is not married. She kept the news of his subsequent death from his father and when he demanded to see the boy, she stole the McCrohan baby and told him the child was their own.

Detectives traced the girl from a drugstore through recent purchases of baby food. In a park about two miles from the kidnaping scene they found the child in the arms of Frederick Bauers, 23 years old. Miss Wood was held. Bauers was freed.

GETS 1-10 YEARS FOR FAKE SALES OF POLICE JOBS

James Galvin, 54 years old, brother of Michael Galvin, slain teamsters' union czar, was sentenced yesterday by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the Criminal court to one to ten years in the penitentiary on a charge of operating a confidence game.

Galvin pleaded guilty to accepting $500 from Edmund P. Lynch, 1425 North Luna avenue, on the promise to get him a job on the police force. The payment, Lynch said, was made in the city hall in the fall of 1936. The job never materialized.

Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Bugan, who has been investigating bribe charges in connection with the recent police civil service list, said eight complainants had accused Galvin of accepting a total of $5,500 on promises to get them police jobs.

TENNESSEE WPA SCANDAL FOUND TRUE BY INQUIRY

Ten Millions Is Spent on Fishing Lakes.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—More than 10 million dollars has been poured into Tennessee by the WPA and other government agencies to make the state a paradise for fishing and hunting enthusiasts, a house committee was told today.

This use of money intended to relieve the unemployed was termed scandalous by committee members who are endeavoring to determine the justice of President Roosevelt's request for 1 billion 477 millions of dollars to operate the WPA during the coming fiscal year.

Fully sustained, in the committee's opinion, were previous charges that millions spent by the work relief organization in Tennessee for artificial lakes served to enrich real estate speculators with political affiliations.

Denied by State Officials.

These charges had been denied by Gov. Prentice Cooper and other Tennessee officials. Ernest R. Kuhne, member of the state fish and game commission, who made the accusations, was summarily discharged by the governor. Kuhne's allegations were upheld as the result of additional evidence gathered by investigators who testified today.

The committee registered mixed indignation and amusement upon learning that former Senator George L. Berry of Tennessee, beneficiary of WPA expenditures on his property at Pressmen's Home, Tenn., had complained because the WPA would not spend more money on the project.

The WPA built a dam at Pressmen's Home but army engineers reported that it was a menace to life and property. The WPA refused to improve the dam further.

Whereupon, ex-Senator Berry, famed for his attempt to collect millions from the government for marble lands flooded by a TVA lake, wrote the following letter to Deputy WPA Administrator Aubrey Williams:

"I must say that the attitude of the Works Progress administration is perfectly amazing. You in substance say that the WPA has built the dam, spent the government's money; the dam is impractical and unsafe, therefore the responsibility is upon the sponsors.

Waste and Inefficiency.

"If this is not an illustration of waste, incapacity, and utter ignorance in the conduct of the WPA, then I am more mistaken than I have ever been in anything in my life. It would seem to me that the perfectly natural thing to do . . . would be to work out a plan by which at least part of the tremendous expenditures that have been made by the federal government could be conserved, unless it is the desire to have this project stand as a monument to inefficiency and waste of the WPA."

Committee Investigator Harry S. Barger spent a full day before the committee going into detail regarding the eight Tennessee lakes created by the WPA for fishing, hunting, and boating. In almost all cases, the lakes were formed on private property and adjacent property owners are advertising to sell real estate which has leaped in value as a result.

Wins Star Role

SHIRLEY LOGAN.

Shirley Logan, daughter of Stuart Logan, investment broker, known in Hollywood as Janice Logan, has been given a starring rôle in "Undercover Doctor" soon to be filmed by Paramount studios, it was learned yesterday. Miss Logan, whose grandmother is Mrs. Frank G. Logan, art patron, studied drama at Sarah Lawrence college. She had been tested in only two minor movie rôles before her jump to stardom.

LAKE FOREST BROKER SUES FOR A DIVORCE

A. Volney Foster, investment broker, filed suit in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan yesterday for a divorce from Mrs. Margaret Baxter Foster. He charged desertion. The Fosters were married Jan. 1, 1913, at Knoxville, Tenn., and separated Jan. 1, 1938.

According to the suit, a property settlement has been arranged. It was indicated the hearing will be uncontested. The Fosters have three children, Volney William and Archibald McGhee Foster, twins, 23 years old, and George Barclay Foster, 20, a student at Harvard university.

Foster lives at 335 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest. Mrs. Foster, the former Margaret Lawson Baxter of Knoxville, Tenn., operates an exclusive women's apparel shop in Lake Forest. It was indicated the couple will share custody of the minor son, George.

Sir Philip Sassoon Dies; Trader and Art Collector

LONDON, June 3 [Saturday].—(AP)—Sir Philip Sassoon, one of Great Britain's richest men and former undersecretary for air, died today at the age of 50. His interests extended from international trade to art collections.

LYONS ATTACKS, BOLTON DEFENDS COURT COALITION

Latter Urges Nonpolitical View in Election.

The judicial election Monday is a political contest with the Republican party fighting coalition, court packing, communism, and New Dealism, Richard J. Lyons asserted last night in a radio speech on behalf of the Republican slate.

John F. Bolton, one of the nominees on the Democratic ticket, speaking at a ward organization meeting, took an opposite view, contending the election should not be considered a political one and that the independence of the judiciary can be achieved only through the success of the Democratic slate, which includes eight Republican sitting judges.

Bolton Speaks in 8th Ward.

Bolton, who is a candidate for a vacancy in the Superior court caused by the death of Judge Ross C. Hall, addressed the 8th ward organization at Liberty hall, 92d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

"The current campaign," he said, "is the first since 1921 in which it has been seriously proposed to depart from the seventy year old tradition of nonpartisan nomination and election of judges for Cook county courts. Never, in our times, have the electors chosen a Circuit or Superior court bench from any one political party, and I am wholly confident the people will vote overwhelmingly to support coalition by voting Democratic.

"The popular verdict will crush the opposition to the nonpartisan spirit and will serve for many years as a warning to those who would tamper with the freedom of the courts and the administrators of justice."

Lyons Cites Communist Aid.

Lyons, who was the Republican candidate for the United States senate last year, pointed out that the Cook county committee of the communist party, has urged defeat of the Republican ticket Monday.

"The New Deal bosses and the Democratic machine of despotism, as well as Earl Browder, the communist leader in America, are out to force the people not only to swallow the court packing plan, but also a third term for the New Deal," Lyons asserted.

"This same unholy alliance of communists and New Dealers has indorsed the candidates on the hand picked coalition judicial slate regardless of age, character, or record. Any citizen who dares oppose court packing in Washington or coalition packing by New Deal political bosses in Chicago is to be denounced as a traitor and accused of the serious crime of seeking to build up Republicanism and Americanism for 1940."

Republican Sound Truck Operator Freed by Judge

A charge of disorderly conduct against Harry Holmes, who was arrested Thursday for operating a sound truck for the Cook county Republican central committee in the loop district, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Francis Borrelli. Operation of sound trucks in the loop district is banned by Police Commissioner Allman. Holmes, owner of the truck, lives at 5524 Racine avenue.

ORDER DISCHARGE OF 3,174 ON WPA PARKS PROJECTS

Wholesale layoffs of WPA workers on Park district projects began yesterday. A total of 3,174 was ordered discharged immediately. The remaining 12,544 must be dismissed before the end of June, it was announced, unless the legislature provides the parks with more money through increased taxes.

Park officials said the retrenchment program is necessary because the district has no money with which to pay its share of the WPA projects. Workers who are not laid off will use materials already purchased. Construction and rehabilitation work in all parks will be affected.

Bills which would increase the Park district's tax levy to $10,500,000 for this year and to $11,000,000 for 1940 and 1941 are before the legislature. It was announced that if the bills passed the projects probably will be resumed.

COLLIS IS BACK IN FOREST PARK MAYOR'S CHAIR

For several weeks after his election last April Mayor Tom Collis Jr. of Forest Park was forced to conduct his official business from his milk truck. Theodore Dannenberg, commissioner of public works in charge of the town hall, chased Collis out of the mayor's office and took it over for himself. Dannenberg said he was irked because he was not appointed commissioner of health and safety. Last night Collis was back in the mayor's office and his differences with Dannenberg settled, it was learned. And tomorrow Collis' loyal constituents will present him a diamond set gold star to reaffirm their confidence in him.

On the golden anniversary of his graduation from Knox college, Dr. Andrew M. Harvey of La Grange will receive an honorary doctorate of science from his alma mater at commencement exercises in Galesburg on June 14. Dr. Harvey has been a resident of La Grange for nearly forty years. He has been medical director for Crane Farms sanitarium and a member of the board of the National Safety council.

THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1939 Trafic Toll

BLOOM TWP. HIGH BUS OVERTURNS; 27 PUPILS SHAKEN

Twenty-seven pupils of Bloom Township High school were shaken and nine were bruised yesterday when the school bus skidded and overturned at 75 West 15th street, Chicago Heights. Walter Bricks, 139 Interocean avenue, South Chicago Heights, the driver, said the brakes locked, causing the skid. Those injured were treated at St. James hospital.

No auto deaths were reported in the city or the county up to 4 p. m. yesterday. At that time the totals since Jan. 1 stood at 346 deaths in Cook county and 272 in Chicago, where 8,269 were injured in the same period.

FEEDER BUS LINE IN PETERSON AV. WILL BE OPENED

A new feeder bus line in Peterson avenue will be opened June 19, the Chicago Surface Lines announced yesterday. The route, which was ordered by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson on March 28, will run from Devon and Caldwell avenues southeast in Caldwell to Peterson. It will continue in Peterson eastward to Ridge avenue and then southeast in Ridge to Broadway.

Ten new buses for the line were purchased by the surface lines at a cost of $60,000. They are powered by gasoline engines and seat 25 passengers each. Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the council local transportation committee, said that a neighborhood inauguration ceremony would probably be held June 17 in recognition of the extension.

KENDALL COUNTY SCHOOL JOB GOES TO VANDEVEER

County Judge Arthur G. Larson of Kendall county yesterday upheld an election contest filed by Charles Vandeveer of Yorkville and declared him legally elected superintendent of the county schools.

The election was held last November. On the face of the returns the Republican nominée, Charles Clark of Plano, was the winner by 11 votes. Vandeveer, the Democrat, claimed that illegal votes had been cast. After passing on the last of the contested ballots Judge Larson ruled that 2,280 valid votes could be counted for Vandeveer and 2,272 for Clark.

Vandeveer was the incumbent at the time of the election and held the superintendent's post through the contest.

EXPERTS APPROVE ASPHALT PAVING, ASSERTS HEWITT

The city's asphalt street paving program has won the approval of all recognized asphalt experts in Chicago, Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, said yesterday. He replied to a report issued by the City club charging incompetence in the laying of the pavement since 1935.

Hewitt said that city records contain letters from the experts refuting similar charges made in a preliminary report by the City club in 1937. He explained that all asphalt work is under the supervision of Victor Nicholson, head of the asphalt testing laboratory, who has had many years of experience and is an international authority on asphalt.

Easiest Day in 4 Years for Firemen; Only 6 Blazes

Chicago's firemen had an easy time of it during the 24 hours ended at 8 a. m. yesterday. In that time there were only six fires in the city. And those, Chief Deputy Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney explained, were small fires in which only hand pumps were needed to put them out. Usually the city averages about 30 fires a day, Mullaney said. Yesterday's small number is the lowest since Aug. 6, 1935, when there were only five fires in the city.

Golfers Watch Mother Robin Bring Up Family

A mother robin has been holding the interest of many golfers at the Onwentsia club, 300 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest. Disdaining their presence, she digs for worms, then flies to a nest high in an elm tree to feed her three hungry baby robins. The nest is near the clubhouse. Another mother robin has been busy teaching three fluttering young ones to fly, according to Irvine Williams, manager of the club.

DEMOCRATS OUST KANKAKEE CHIEFS IN JUDICIAL RACE

Add to Complexities of 12th District Campaign.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A revolt in the Democratic organization of Kankakee county in which the chairman and secretary of the party committee were removed from office was disclosed yesterday in the 12th district judicial campaign.

Pay rollers in the Kankakee state hospital who have been turning in part of their salary checks, said to be 2 per cent, put up a roar that the campaigning done in the county by the Democratic leaders did not measure up to the collections. The election will be Monday.

At headquarters thirty-eight of the forty-one precinct committeemen met Saturday night and voted to oust Edward F. Gerrity as Democratic county chairman and State Representative Ben W. Alpiner as secretary. New officials elected were Walter Heydendaal as chairman, John H. Beckers, former county judge, as secretary, and Eugene Smith of Manteno as treasurer.

Leading Political Industry.

The state hospital is the leading political industry of Kankakee. The pay rollers out of whose pay envelopes a campaign fund was being gathered charged that not all the money was being used for campaign purposes. They also accused the old machine leaders of throwing some support to some of the candidates on the nonpartisan judicial ticket.

The Democratic judicial ticket for the district, consisting of Will, Kankakee, and Iroquoir counties, is deemed more or less on crutches. It is headed by Judge Edwin L. Wilson, of Joliet, whose injunctions protecting slot machines and lawbreaking saloons roused the ire of Will county and Joliet officials.

Four Decline to Run.

Four Democrats refused to run on the ticket with Wilson. The slot machine and saloon court edicts given by Wilson have made him the central issue in the campaign.

In Kankakee county, little active campaigning for the Wilson ticket has been reported, and a grievance of the pay rollers was that although the ticket seems dead in Kankakee, they had been contributing chunks of their pay for a campaign that is not very visible. It all adds to the complexities of the campaign, in which eleven candidates on four tickets with party labels are running for three Circuit judgeships.

Meanwhile Will county was stirred by accusations that slot machine raketeeers are planning an invasion of floaters from Cook county into precincts near the county line Monday. The charges were made by A. F. Schupp, Republican county chairman.

Estate of $540,000 Left by Pabst Sales Official

An estate valued at $540,000 is disposed of in the will of Fay E. Solfisburg, Pabst Sales corporation executive, who died May 20. The will was filed in Probate court at Geneva yesterday. The widow, Mrs. Marie Solfisburg, and the mother and two sisters are to share the estate.

Gets 20 Days in Jail

PATIENCE COURTNEY.

Miss Patience Courtney, 24 years old, was sentenced yesterday to twenty days in the county jail by Judge Thomas Green in Safety court. She was convicted of driving while intoxicated. Her driving license was confiscated for one year.

Neighbors testified that Miss Courtney backed her car into four parked machines near her home at 4241 Kenmore avenue on May 24. Then she drove up over a curb and scattered a group of children. When neighbors, led by Allen Metreger, 4236 Kenmore, ran out to stop her, witnesses said, she told them to "keep their brats off the curb."

Judge Green sentenced Peter Martikonis, 3405 South Union avenue, to ninety days in the Bridewell and suspended his driving license for a year for leaving the scene of an accident. Frank Johnson, who gave his address as the Copling Home for Men, Halsted and Altgeld streets, got thirty days in the county jail and one year's license suspension for driving while intoxicated. A sentence of ten days in jail and a year's license suspension for leaving the scene of an accident was imposed on Bronislaw Dykiel, 4928 South Wolcott avenue.

BARE DICTOGRAPH RECORD IN MILK QUIZ AT CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., June 2.—(AP)—Chairman Joe B. Bates [D., Ky.] of the house subcommittee investigating the Washington milk situation, said today he had turned over to United States Attorney David A. Pine a transcript of alleged conversations between Whiting Faulkner, postmaster at Martinsburg, W. Va., and B. B. Derrick, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers association.

The conversations were picked up by voice recording machines placed in Derrick's office by city police assisting in the milk inquiry. Derrick testified before the committee recently that Faulkner had offered to "influence" the committee for a $1,000 fee. Faulkner denied he made any improper offers.

The milk inquiry was ordered after midwestern representatives complained a monopoly existed on the local market in favor of producers who are members of the Maryland-Virginia association.

U.S. PROTESTS AIR RAID ON MISSION BY JAP BOMBERS

Property of Methodists Wrecked in Attack.

PEIPING, China, June 2.—(AP)—The American embassy today made representations to Japanese authorities against bombing of the American Methodist Episcopal mission at Futien, near Foochow, May 25 and 26. The mission's residence and dormitory, quarantine station, and girls' high school were wrecked.

Other representations were made Thursday against the fifth Japanese aerial bombardment of the American Southern Baptist mission at Chengchow, Honan province, on May 26. No foreign casualties were reported in any of the incidents.

Hunt Britons Held by Japs.

Two British officials started out from Peiping today to hunt for two colleagues believed to be prisoners of the Japanese military. British authorities say they have definite information that Lieut. Col. C. R. Spear, military attaché, is under arrest at Kalgan and has been since May 26.

They believe that Lieut. John Cooper, who left Peiping May 28 to investigate Spear's detention, also is being held. Cooper, a British language student, had a Japanese pass into the Kalgan area. Japanese disclaim knowledge of their whereabouts.

Examination of Maps.

Those starting out today were Brigade Major Delamain of the British forces at Tientsin, and L. H. Lamb, acting counselor to the British embassy here. Spear had been en route from Chungking, temporary capital of the Chinese government, and British thought he was being held while Japanese examined maps in his possession.

It was revealed today that Japanese military authorities in Peiping were informed as early as May 24 that Spear was expected here and that he carried proper credentials.

CASSIDY TO ASK RETURN OF FELON TO STATE ASYLUM

Attorney General John E. Cassidy said yesterday he would appeal to the Illinois Supreme court in an effort to return Ben Cutler, 27 years old, to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Menard. A final order discharging Cutler from the hospital was entered Wednesday by Judge Harry M. Fisher.

Cutler, who has a long record of arrests, was transferred to the hospital last Oct. 19 from the Bridewell where he was serving a year's sentence for receiving stolen property. At the time of his arrest he was a fugitive from the Dixon state hospital for feeble minded.

Judge Fisher held that he was transferred without a court order and freed him on bail last January in habeas corpus proceedings. On Wednesday the judge entered the final discharge order over the protests of Assistant Attorney General George Lavin. Cutler is living in Louisville, Ky.

Lake Forest Garden Show Notes.

The dramatic and lovely garden vistas at Centaurs, Mrs. Alfred Hamill's estate, and the fine, beautifully placed sculpture. . . . Mrs. James Douglas' border garden, with peonies and iris rioting at the edges of the spreading green lawn, and her white garden overlooking the lake. . . . Mrs. Leverett Thompson's gardens, each a small garden room. . . . Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed's handsome tennis court with its fine landscaping. . . . Mrs. William McCormick Blair's topiary swans. . . . Mrs. Donald McLennan's formal gardens. . . . AND the dinner tables in the Kent Clow house—Mrs. Howard Linn's enchanting "Spring Lamb for Eight," as pastoral as only a sophisticated taste can make it. Also the dining room done by Mrs. Dexter Cummings and Mrs. T. Philip Switt, using for a point of departure exquisite Chinese screens of antique pale blue wall paper.

Small Comfort

Mrs. Lawrence Williams, in charge of the Lake Forest Garden club show, has been worrying for fear it would rain today or Sunday. Her small son wanted to be comforting.

"At least if it does it will lay the dust, mummy," he said.

Adventures of a Country Visitor.

The funniest story of the week, originally told by Mrs. Paul Moyer, was the true one by the young man who, visiting in a lovely country house, admired the wall paper in his room. He was told it was 200 years old and much treasured. That night he was kept awake by a buzzing fly. In an attempt to catch it without turning on the light he knocked over an ink bottle and, unaware there was ink on his hands, swatted the fly several times, leaving large hand prints in ink on the antique wall paper. When he saw the damage in the morning light he quietly packed his bag and left without saying good-by. When he arrived home he told his mother he had been unable to face his hostess, and she insisted he go call on her and apologize.

He finally screwed up his courage, arrived at the house, gave his name to the butler, and was told to wait. As he waited he moved his chair, heard a squeaking cry, and discovered he had put the chair down on his hostess' Pekinese. It lay near his feet, apparently dead. The young man fled again.

Urban Album.

Four Leaf Clover for Luck.

John D. Richardson II., the young advertising expert whose new business venture is crossing raccoons with kangaroos in order to grow college boy coats with pockets, found a four leaf clover for the first time in his life last Wednesday morning. He picked it just outside his door and wondered what his good luck would be. That noon he developed a temperature, that evening he was sent to St. Luke's hospital by his doctor, and he's still there.

Betty Armour to Be Bride of Hollins Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

THIS, the first week-end in June, will be remembered long by Lake Foresters, for it is to be one of the gayest of the summer. Either of the two events that are taking place would be of sufficient importance to arouse interest in the fashionable north shore village and the combination is creating what is certain to be one of the busiest week-ends in years.

Miss Betty Armour, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Armour, is being married at 4 o'clock this afternoon to Gerald Vanderbilt Hollins Jr., and, although it is small home wedding, it is an outstanding one, with numerous out of town relatives and friends here for it.

The Lake Forest Garden club chose today and tomorrow upon which to hold their annual flower show, and that will attract thousands to the village on the two days.

The show will be held on the property of Mr. and Mrs. Kent S. Clow at 1105 North Sheridan road, from 10 until 5 both days.

Farther north on Sheridan road, really in Lake Bluff instead of Lake Forest, the Lester Armours live, and it is there that their daughter will be married and where the wedding reception will be given. More are invited to the reception than to the ceremony, which will be witnessed only by relatives and intimate friends.

Gardens Will Be Open to Visitors.

In addition to the flower and horticultural displays in the Clows' house and garage, the gardens of Mrs. Clyde M. Carr, Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr., Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill, Mrs. Donald R. McLennan, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, and Mrs. Leverett Thompson will be open to those holding flower show tickets. The price of admission is one dollar each; children fifty cents. Tickets may be obtained at the gate.

Mrs. Lawrence Williams and Mrs. A Norman Into are co-chairmen of the show committee. Both women urge those who attend the show and who plan to take the garden walk to wear low heels, not only for their own comfort but to protect the gardens.

The marriage of Miss Armour and the young New Yorker, who lives in Chicago now, will be very much like that of her mother and father which took place in New Orleans on July 6, 1918. It, too, was a home ceremony, a smaller one, however, for Leola Stanton had only one attendant, her sister, Mrs. Charles W. Wells, who is here for today's wedding. Philip D. Armour III. was his brother's best man and there were no ushers at that wedding twenty-one years ago.

Childhood Friends in Wedding Party.

Miss Armour will be attended by her cousin's bride, Mrs. Philip D. Armour IV., and by six childhood friends: Miss Mary Gardner, Miss Mary Adams, Mrs. Carleton Ellis Jr. of Toledo [Anne Winston], Miss Betty Keith, Miss Elizabeth Cushing of New York, and Miss Kay Goodman. Miss Goodman will be the honor maid.

Robert Livingston Hollins of New York will be his cousin's best man, and ushering will be John Hollins,

Miss Chadwick Is Bride

Intimate friends in Chicago of Mrs. Charles Harrington Chadwick were notified yesterday of her marriage on Thursday in Baltimore to Leray Berdeau of New York, London, and Buenos Aires. The wedding was a quiet church ceremony at 6 o'clock in the evening. The bride chose Baltimore as the place for the wedding because of a sentimental attachment she has for the city. It was there that Dr. Walter E. Dandy, the famous brain surgeon of John Hopkins, performed a delicate operation and saved her life six or seven years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Berdeau went to New York yesterday and are sailing today in the Rex for her new home, Villa Aujourd'hui, at Cap d'Antibes on the French Riviera. She also has a home, Villa Today, at Palm Beach, and an apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive, which she just has rented for three years. She and Mr. Berdeau expect to spend several weeks in Chicago next fall.

Mr. Berdeau, who is an engineer, and his bride met in Hongkong twenty years ago before she was married to Mr. Chadwick. That marriage took place in 1923. Mr. Chadwick died in January, 1937. As Miss Audrey Quinn she had become active in the United Charities of Chicago and she has maintained that interest. Her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Quinn, lives in Chicago.

Mr. Berdeau was married once before, to a Chilean. The marriage was ended by divorce about a year ago. He is a pilot and also a polo player with a string of ponies, among them Miss Argentina, a blue ribbon winner in South America. His great-great-grandfather came to this country as an officer on Lafayette's staff.

The Chorus of the D'Oyly Carte Opera company.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Gilbert and Sullivan's amusingly fantastic treatment of the "boy meets girl" motif is delightful as seen and heard anew through the medium of sound and color cameras. And it's still practically the same as it was written.

"The Mikado," one time most beloved of musical extravaganzas, has retained amazing popularity through the years. Schools and clubs are forever "giving it," and if it doesn't draw an immense and admiring crowd to the Palace in its new dress I'll be surprised.

This production was made in England. With the exception of Kenny Baker—who does a sparkling piece of work as Nanki-Poo—the picture is played and sung by the well known D'Oyly Carte Opera company, which for so many years has been associated with the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas. Martyn Green, the English favorite, is seen in the rôle of Ko-Ko.

The gently satirical story of the Mikado's son who, ordered to marry a mustached Amazon of his papa's court, runs away from home, becomes a strolling minstrel, has a romance with Yum-Yum, ward of the tailor—who is made lord high executioner—and weds his love after many quietly mad complications have been ironed out, is presented with taste, humor, and skill.

Male players are able. Women are likewise—and some of them beautiful.

The technicolor is exquisite, sets and staging proper, and the familiar music charmingly sung. [Kenny really will agreeably surprise you in a rôle so widely different from the ones he usually draws.]

To me, "The Mikado" seems ideal summer fare. Both entertaining and restful.

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Comeback.

Hollywood, Cal., June 2.—"From here, on a clear day, you can see Catalina," he said, just as earnestly as the boast is made by all Hollywood people who live on a hilltop or in a valley, or behind a pole. . . . Seeing Catalina on a clear day is almost a profession in this town, and it is part and parcel of the spiel of every real estate agent.

So this young fellow told me very earnestly that he could see Catalina although what is more important is that Lew Ayres now can see a new success ahead of him on a clear day, or even on a cloudy day. . . . For he is the rarest of all performers, a cinema Comeback, and you can spell that in capital letters.

They had him down and counted out, but he thought they were clowning and so he got up again and started punching. . . . Then they flattened him again, and again he got up, shaking his head like a groggy fighter and lasted out the round.

And then, just when he had pulled through the worst of the beating, they hauled off and hit him a Sunday punch right on the chin and people out here who were sensitive turned their heads away. . . . When they looked back Ayres again had climbed to his feet, so Hollywood decided they couldn't stop him, and now he's a Comeback.

No star ever blazed upward with such dazzling pyrotechnic effects as did Lew Ayres. . . . In his second picture he played the lead opposite Greta Garbo in her last silent picture, "The Kiss." . . . In his third picture he became internationally noted. . . . That was "All Quiet on the Western Front."

The Minneapolis youngster had gotten off to a flying start and the industry called him the greatest screen find of the century. . . . That was in 1929-'30.

From a lead with Garbo Ayres was reduced to working at the smaller studios. . . . Instead of appearing leisurely on a set at 9 a. m. he had to arrive at 7. . . . Instead of knocking off at 5 p. m. he worked in "quickies" that kept a company working far into the night.

The 1929 toast of the town was having his mail sent care of the Hotel Eight-Ball and it appeared that he was behind it for good. . . . On top of that came the bustup with Ginger Rogers because weather experts and residents of the Hotel Eight-Ball are of one mind that it never rains but it pours.

Almost ten years later, to the day, than his first great success Ayres got his chance in "Holiday" with Katharine Hepburn. . . . He didn't go to the preview went instead from one night club to another, waiting for the preview crowds to drift in with their reports.

His eyes belied his pretended nonchalance that night because I ran into him at the Trocadero and deliberately danced past his table to rave about his performance. . . . His eyes were bright and eager, and the ashtray on his table was crowded with cigaret stubs. . . . "Honest," he said. . . . A while later he got up and ducked out of the place, because he'd heard what he'd been waiting to hear.

Then for three months nothing happened, and I guess it was at that stage that the youngster really started wondering whether there was any percentage in dragging yourself off the canvas to walk into another haymaker.

Twelve weeks are eighty-four days and eighty-four days and nights without an offer can be awfully discouraging in this town. . . . So he sat in his house on Lookout mountain and on clear days he could see Catalina, but he couldn't see much else. . . . He sat near the phone and each jingle of it was a sudden promise . . . that never materialized.

Ayres' house has a lot of gadgets. . . . He has a funny looking little thingamajig that tells the velocity of the wind and in what direction it is blowing. . . . He didn't need it to tell him which way his personal winds were blowing during the three months following "Holiday," but I guess a guy has to occupy his mind some way when he's waiting for a telephone call from a studio.

He has other gadgets in his house, an uncompleted collection of miniature wooden trains, a clock that shows the time in all the capitals of the world. . . . You'll always find clocks in the house of a fellow who isn't working, and prison wardens tell me that "lifers" always have a collection of watches. . . . Those who have the least stake in time are most solicitous about it.

Twelve taunting weeks, eighty-four sneering days, and then on the eighty-fifth day the calendar got tired of the one-sided game. . . . The phone rang. . . . M.-G.-M. wanted him for the "Young Dr. Kildare" series that was to win him a new lease on movie life. . . . Finally they gave him a vacation, thirty days. . . . For some unexplained reason Ayres rushed to Europe. . . . He wanted to see Spain, but it was impossible to get a visa, so he toured the Balkans, Poland, Germany, and France.

In each country he rehearsed with the citizens for air raids. . . . It was a curious vacation, but guys who have been kicked around get into the habit of doing things a bit out of the ordinary, and I suppose Hollywood had been a series of air raids to Lew.

Things now have perked up. . . . Lew sits in his house on Lookout mountain, off Laurel canyon, and on a clear day he can see Catalina. . . . The clock which used to tell him the time in every city in Europe has run down and he doesn't need his wind velocity gadget to tell him which way the wind is blowing.

Through the Looking Glass

Any woman who weighs more than a hundred and fifteen pounds and who allows herself to be seen anywhere except on the beach or in the actual country in shorts or tight slacks ought to be a good subject for the student of our civilization.

The Memorial day week-end in the city was made memorable not so much by the parade or the lovely weather as by the initial summer appearance of all the fat ladies—and why is it always the fat ones?—on the streets in their brief, tight costumes.

By all the rules it's the wearers of the costumes, the women who are making such spectacles of themselves, who should do the suffering. But they don't. It's the onlookers who are nauseated by the unesthetic sights viewed from their windows and front porches.

Entirely aside from the fact that it's just plain bad manners to dress so inappropriately and conspicuously in town, it is this unsightliness that gets us down. When women can permit themselves to look so ludicrous—and be so self-deceived that they think it's attractive or chic or just like the Lido or something—the standards of taste and what constitutes beauty are revealed as being awfully, awfully low.

A bra and shorts combine make a trying costume even for a Venus. And that goes for slacks, too. In the country or on the beach they're sane attire, because we want sun and freedom. But for city streets they're a vulgar choice, and the more imperfect the figure the greater the vulgarity.

The Housewife

If you want your dog's skin and coat to be glossy and well groomed use an all-year-round liquid treatment, a volatile oil that is not greasy nor messy. When sprayed on the coat of a dog it seeps along the hair to the skin. The result will be a glossy coat and freedom from "doggy" odors.

A bottle of this liquid and an atomizer for applying it come in a box and are not expensive. E. W.

SYNOPSIS.

Jeff Hunter, an American mining engineer, awaits execution in a Mexican jail by order of Pancho Banderas, rebel leader. A peon friend helps him escape to Texas. Jeff meets Joan Raleigh, lost in the vastness of her feudal estate, and assists her home. He meets her brothers, Bill and Phil, and Phil's wife, Mary Lou. When they learn Jeff went to college with their cousin, Raeburn, he is invited to be their guest. An old feud against the Raleighs is being renewed under the leadership of Butler Lane, suspected of poisoning their aunt, his wife, and forging her will. Banderas, routed from Mexico, has joined Lane. Jeff offers to try to make peace with the better element, and with Jim Williams, starts for the ranch of Carl Nielsen. They are pursued and fired on by Banderas and his men, but manage to reach the Nielsen ranch. Banderas and his men appear. Jeff disarms them. Nielsen is shocked by the outlaws. The feud has prevented a romance between beautiful Olga Nielsen and Bill Raleigh. Next morning Nielsen leaves with Jeff for a conference with Phil Raleigh. Joan and Phil are missing—kidnaped in their own plane and made the prisoners of Banderas. Jeff, Jim Williams and Raeburn trail Lane Butler to the ranch of his ally, Rannigan. When Butler leaves Jeff forces Rannigan to lead them to the kidnaper's hideout. But Banderas has moved Joan and Phil into deeper hiding, after Phil had agreed to Butler's demands for fear of what might happen to Joan. Phil tries to buy their escape from Banderas. Jeff, Rae and Jim Williams kidnap Butler from his hotel and force him to arrange for the release of Joan and Phil. Meanwhile Banderas agrees to ransom terms with Phil. One of the gangsters is suspicious.

INSTALMENT XLII.

CLOSE TO A RESCUE.

Jeff and his party ate breakfast at the Rannigan place. They were just finishing when Bill Raleigh arrived with half a dozen men and five extra horses. Nielsen and one of his sons were in the group. They had been sworn in as deputies by the ostensible leader of the posse, the sheriff of River Bend county. Six of his men Bill had left at the C N ranch in charge of the prisoners he had rounded up during the night.

Without delay the posse took the same trail over which Rannigan had guided Jeff, Rae, and old Jim a few hours earlier. The party reached the first camp, the one where the airplane had landed with Phil and Joan. Nielsen and Williams quartered over the ground trying to pick up the tracks made by the horses that had carried the prisoners to the second camp.

There were several cow and game trails in evidence. Down one of these Jeff rode for a few hundred yards in the hope of finding a boggy place where hoof prints would be visible. His luck was good. He came to a muddy spot which showed the tracks of several horses. As he was raising his voice to call old Jim he stopped abruptly, the shout stifled in his throat. For he could hear the sound of a horse cantering down the trail toward him.

At once Jeff slipped from the trail to the cover of a huisache. A rider came round the bend and pulled the horse up in its stride, for Hunter had stepped out and was covering him with a sawed-off shotgun.

"Don't move," Jeff ordered. "Keep your hands on the reins."

He stepped closer. The man was Sowder. "I won't make any trouble," the cowboy said.

"See you don't. Slip down from that horse with your hands in the air. . . . That's right. Turn your back to me."

Jeff disarmed the dismounted man. "Expecting anybody else along this trail?" he asked.

"No," Sowder said sourly. "What's eating you, fellow? I'm riding our own range."

"Move ahead of me holding to the bridle," Jeff commanded.

"Where did you round up this?" he asked, with a nod at Sowder.

"On the trail. He didn't know it, but he came here to guide us to our friends."

From the path where Williams and Nielsen were reading signs Bill Raleigh stepped. He stared at the cowboy and looked at his friends inquiringly.

"Jeff collected him on one of these trails," Rae explained. "He must have just ridden in from the place where Phil and Joan are cached."

"No," Sowder denied. Even as he spoke his startled gaze fastened on Lane standing between two armed guards.

Bill whirled on Lane savagely. "Tell him to spill it right damned now," he cried.

Lane obliged. "I've decided to release our guests," he told the Rannigan rider. "It seems best for all of us to be reasonable. And the camp is no place for Miss Raleigh."

"We told you so all the time . . . Fidler and Rannigan and me. But you were hell bent on having it yore way. I hope you're satisfied."

"He's so well satisfied, Mr. Sowder, that he insists on paying you in full all he promised for your services." Jeff said promptly. "Any objections?"

Sowder looked from one to another suspiciously. "First off, if I'm guiding this expedition, I'd like for to know where I'm at. I wasn't in on this kidnaping. Didn't know a thing about it till I reached camp and found yore friends there. Right out in meeting I said I didn't like it. None of us fellows who live here did. If I take you to where Lane's men are holding Miss Raleigh and her brother am I buying myself a ticket to the penitentiary?"

Rae drew Jeff and Bill to one side and consulted with them briefly, after which he called to Sowder to join them.

"We can't promise you immunity because the district attorney may not see it our way," he said. "But if you want to stand trial we'll do our best for you and try to get you in as a state's witness. If you want to light out for the border we'll see you get a chance as soon as we've rescued our friends."

"Me for Mexico," Sowder decided promptly. "I'll take you up on that. Let's go. The sooner the quicker. I'm scared of what that greaser Banderas might do if he gets a chance."

So were the other three. It had been weighing on them ever since they had heard of the kidnaping.

"Pancho is not alone with the Raleighs, is he?" Jeff asked quickly.

"No, sir. There are two other Mexicans and a fellow they call Whitey, one of Lane's men." They were moving to their horses as Sowder spoke. "Whitey and Banderas don't get along good. The other two greasers don't amount to a hill of beans."

The posse followed Sowder along the trail through the dripping mesquite. Bill was at his heels urging him to go faster. Now they were close to a rescue at last and he did not find it easy to wait.

Ever since he had ridden into the Nielsen ranch things had broken better for him. Olga had been still shy and withdrawn, but he could see that her eyes were kind. She no longer disapproved of him.

Soon now, he hoped, his brother and sister would be safe. A car was to be waiting for them at the Rannigan place to run them to the C N for a midday dinner. If Joan was very tired and worn out she was to spend the night with the Nielsens, and Bill had been included in the invitation.

Before they reached the second camp, while there was still a thick fringe of brush between them and the open clearing, Rae and Jeff deployed the party in order to approach the outlaws from a wide front. Watches had been checked, and at exactly 9:47 the members of the posse broke into the open from the mesquite.

Jeff's swift glance swept the camp ground. Two fires were still burning, though the wood had fallen into the coals and only the ends were left unburned. Nobody was in sight. His eyes caught and held to a figure flung out face down on the sand near one of the fires. He raced forward, gun in hand, his heart beating a wild alarm.

The sprawled figure was that of a man. He stopped, turned the body, and stared into the face.

As Banderas straddled toward the fire Joan was struck by his startling resemblance in bodily structure to some prehistoric man not far removed from the ape. The powerful short bowed legs, the thick neck and great weight of the heavy sloping shoulders, the big hands matted behind with coarse hair, and the extreme length of the corded arms, all contributed to this impression.

Except to slip his right hand into the coat pocket Whitey did not move. His narrowed eyes fastened on the huge Mexican. Something bulged against the lining of the pocket and pushed the cloth forward.

It seemed to Joan that a heavy cold hand clutched at her heart and stopped it.

Business Girls Miss Romance; What to Do?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

What's worrying so many business girls today is that, after the day's work is done, they trudge wearily home with no evening date in prospect to take the ache from their tired hearts and put sparkle in their eyes. What's the use of spending every extra penny they can spare on weekly trips to the beauty parlor or on fine clothes if they do not attract men to escort them on the happy road to romance?

The only advantage to be gained from their efforts is to look the part they must in order to hold their jobs. That, it seems, is the most important thing of all. But how they wish they could "chuck" their independence for a husband, and home, and babies.

So often these serious minded girls [they are serious minded, or they would have learned long ago that being too serious about the little things that count is not the way to make men's hearts beat quickly] meet a man they are strongly attracted to and pin their hopes to his fleeting interest. When he does not "follow through" on his innocent love making remarks, these girls often draw into their shells and do not make any effort to step out with other men who might prove interesting enough to marry, if given half the chance.

The following is a quotation from a letter written by Jane. "I went to a party and met a man who told me he liked me very much. After a few brief weeks of romance he said I shouldn't take what he said to me seriously. I have loved him for a year now, although I no longer see him and can't get him out of my mind. As a result I do not care to go out with any one, and could not if I wanted to, for I cannot meet the type of men I would like to meet."

To which we say, Jane, that you had better get over your broken heart before it breaks your life into so many tiny pieces that you cannot pick them up and put them together again.

As you are not the type of girl to whom men flock readily, you must go where you can meet men. Have you no interests aside from your work? What about going to social affairs put on by the various clubs and organizations in your vicinity?

What about interesting yourself in the kind of sports men like, and where you would meet men? What about inveigling a more "successful" girl friend into getting you a date?

Cinema Stars Share Some of Beauty Tricks

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Gladys George, Broadway and screen star, is one of the few blondes who escape with a single shampoo a week. Miss George's wave preserving hints are: Sleep with a net hood on the head each night [caps slide off]; put wave clips on ridges and curlers on ends of hair before taking shower or bath; steam head while clips and curlers are on; wear two rubber caps in swimming; brush hair frequently, but never when it's damp; use a fine toothed baby comb frequently during day to catch lint and dust and train wave in place.

All the "little girl" fashions require what Priscilla Lane calls a military school carriage. Her pre-breakfast exercises strengthen the spine and keep it straight.

She stands erect with hands clasped behind head, bends over forward as far as possible and returns to position. She repeats several times, then transfers hands to hips. She alternately bends forward, backward, to left, to right, as far as possible, repeating a number of times.

The bride has two other brothers, Stanton and Vernon, and a baby sister, Leola. They all will be at the wedding, which is to be solemnized on a porch that has been converted into a small chapel for the ceremony. The Rev. Father William J. Finn of New York, who baptized Betty twenty years ago, will officiate. Mr. Hollins and his bride will take only a week's trip, for they will be back in Lake Forest by next Saturday for the marriage of Miss Goodman and Mr. King. After that Mr. and Mrs. Hollins will go away again for three weeks before making their home in Chicago.

Other Interesting Weddings Today.

There will be several other interesting weddings today. John Addison O'Brien and Miss Kay Bulger will be married at 4:30 oclock in St. Francis Xavier church, Wilmette, with a small reception following at the Winnetka home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Bulger. Miss Jane Bulger will be her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Janet Davis, Miss Betty Crilly, Miss Frances Price, and Miss Martha O'Brien of Louisville, Ky., a former classmate of the bride at the Sacred Heart Convent at Noroton-on-the-Sound, Conn.

Douglas Bard, son of the Roy Bards, will be the ringbearer. Hayes O'Brien will be his brother's best man. They are sons of the Michael J. O'Briens of Highland Park.

Ensign Janney Weds Ethel Wanner Today.

In Honolulu this afternoon Ensign Frederick Emery Janney of Winnetka is marrying Miss Ethel Wanner, and in South Dartmouth, Mass., Carol Wilson Alton of Evanston will marry Miss Karin Stetson of that town.

None of Mr. Janney's family will be in Honolulu for his marriage to the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karrick Pelouze Collins of La Jolla, Cal. The ceremony will take place in St. Andrew's church, with a reception following at the Halekulani, a hotel that is popular with Honolulu residents. Mr. Janney and his bride will stay on the island until his ship leaves for San Francisco to spend the week of July 7 at the fair. Then the young officer and his bride will start housekeeping in or near San Diego, Cal., where he will be stationed.

Miss Stetson, daughter of Mrs. Frank Eliot Stetson, and the late Dr. Stetson, and Mr. Alton, son of Mrs. Henry Winston Slaughter of Dartmouth and of W. Carol Wilson Alton of Pasadena, will be married in Grace Episcopal church, with a reception following at Tabitha inn, Fairhaven. The only Chicagoan among the attendants will be Edward N. Twerdahl Jr. of Evanston. After a two weeks' wedding trip Mr. Alton and his bride will be at home in Evanston.

In Pelham Manor, N. Y., this afternoon Miss Betty Ann Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine S. Smith of Pelham Manor, formerly of Winnetka, will become the bride of Arthur Fenton Hetherington Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Hetherington of Bound Brook, N. J.

In Greenwich, Conn., this afternoon Miss Doriane Woolley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mott Woolley of New York, formerly of Chicago, will become the bride of John G. McCullough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hall Park McCullough of New York and North Bennington, Vt.

The bride's grandmother, aunt, and cousin, Mrs. Mary E. Mann, Mrs. Herbert E. Hyde, and Sally Hyde, have gone east for the wedding.

Reveal Engagement of Cynthia Cleveland.

The engagement of Miss Cynthia Cleveland to Graham Fairbank was announced yesterday by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Cleveland, at a small tea at their home in Scott street. Mr. Fairbank is a son of Mrs. Dexter Fairbank of Pine Grove avenue. Miss Cleveland, who made her debut in the autumn of 1937, attended the Girls' Latin school and Pine Manor; her fiancé is a graduate of the Berkshire school and the University of Chicago.

"Come to a picnic and farm frolic given by Farmer Walter and his wife, Elizabeth, at Green Pastures, Sunday. Luncheon under the trees at 1 o'clock. Come dressed in clothes appropriate to your favorite sport." The Walter Paepckes will be the hosts at their farm in Sandwich.

WELL? THIS IS A SURPRISE- WHY DIDN'T YOU LET ME KNOW?
I DIDN'T START OUT TO SEE YOU, LILLUMS- I'M ENROUTE TO AFRICA AN' PLACES!
AFRICA, OF ALL PLACES? WHAT ARE YOU RUNNING AWAY FROM?
AWAY FROM IT ALL - NOBODY SEEMS TO UNDERSTAND ME IN COVINA ANY MORE!
HAROLD! HOW COULD YOU BE SUCH A DUMB BUNNY? YOUR MOTHER AND FATHER ARE SURELY FRANTIC BY THIS TIME-YOU'RE TURNING AROUND AND DRIVING BACK TO COVINA AS FAST AS YOU CAN BECAUSE I WANT YOU TO-WILL YOU BE BACK SOON, LI'L BUG?

Tension Can Be Lessened by Skilled Care

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Suppose your little girl [I know one like this] is deluged with attention, never let alone a moment, taken to doctors constantly for this and that, and carted around to admiring relatives and friends.

Suppose your son is unable to shine in his school work, and has no interest in making the football or baseball team, and perhaps isn't built for either physically. And suppose his father is ambitious for him and prods him constantly.

Do a little supposing about just these two situations of the many unfavorable ones that might exist. Can't you see that either a surface or underlying nervousness might result?

Which brings us to the fourth in our series of articles on the nervous child. But to refresh your memory, let us start our talk about the nervous child by summing up the four ways in which we should set about effective cures of his condition.

[a] Correct or start correcting any physical difficulty.

[c] Manage him wisely.

[d] Change any circumstances in his life that create tension or unhappy emotion.

Since the first and the second were covered yesterday and the two days before, let us look at the third point: Manage your nervous child wisely.

Many a nervous child has a nervous or emotionally overwrought, or hot tempered, or severe mother or father. If a mother or father has what our young familiars inelegantly call the "jitters," the children are going to get a bad reaction from it, which may recreate nervousness in them.

Likewise, the woman who is chronically keyed up, or the one who flies at her "small one" with hot words or spankings, or the parent who is habitually cold and harsh will be apt to produce either an inner or an outer tension in her child.

The nervous child, whatever the cause of his nervousness, must be restored mentally and emotionally. To this end his parents must first try to know their child; find out what he is like in nature and in his abilities and tastes.

Next, they must figure out what sort of handling this child of theirs should have. And third, they must make it their business to give it to him—to learn how to handle him in accord with his nature.

You must feel not only love but real interest in your child as a person to accomplish this. You must acquire tact and patience. You must do what you can about companionship for him. And supply what you can of the right playthings and art and craft materials.

We have booklets on "Tact" and "Patience" and "Obedience." Each one requires a stamped, addressed envelope. Address your request to Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

New, Efficient Food Mixer Is Hand Worked

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

NEW AND EFFICIENT FOOD MIXER: The woman who hasn't room for or can't afford an electric mixer will be happy over this well constructed and smoothly operating hand mixer. Its mechanism is inclosed compactly, and the three types of blade snap in and out with one twist of the wrist.

The egg whip is scientifically made to incorporate the most air in the least time. The cream whipper blade does its work from the bottom, so that air is not beaten in, and the cream will stand up all day long. Persons who like rich whipped cream, and not what they call "a lot of fluff," will like this feature.

There's another attachment, too, a beater designed to give power rather than speed. Its use is in mixing batters for waffles and cakes, for creaming processes necessary in making cakes and frostings, and for beating many kinds of candy. It operates with ease and doesn't tire the person who's doing the beating.

BETTER HOMEMADE ICE CREAMS are being made from new freezing mix which you get from the milkman. It makes a creamy, rich, full-flavored vanilla cream which calls for more. If you want other flavors, add chocolate or crushed fruit.

PREPARED POPPY FILLING: Poppy seed cakes, rolls, and pastries are more easily made with seed already ground and cooked. It comes in No. 1 tins, ready to be used "as is" or to be incorporated into the cook's favorite filling.

CANNED BABY FOODS are sold in such variety these days that feeding the infant what he should have at the proper age in months is no longer a problem to mothers. Cereals, fruits, vegetables [singly and in combination], and soups, prepared scientifically from the best of ingredients, come ready to be warmed and served.

Liver soup with barley and wheat germ is an example of the efforts expended by manufacturers to include in such products the elements which a baby needs for growth and good health. Many of the fruits and vegetables have been homogenized to remove all coarse fibers and make the foods easily digestible.

And evaporated milk now is being irradiated with vitamin D, so that baby may take a part of his sunshine through his stomach.

STAINLESS STEEL SERVING FORK: This is wonderful for spearing olives and pickles in a jar, for it picks them up, and when you want it to do so, pushes them off onto your plate. All you do is press against the ejector on the handle. Comes with colored handles to harmonize with other kitchen equipment, and has many uses other than those mentioned here.

Cable Stitch Is Novel Feature of Knitted Sweater

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Knitting needles still are busy clicking, and every member of the family must have at least one knitted sweater. This cable stitch model for the young miss from 10 to 12 years of age is knitted in a soft white wool of the two ply variety. Long sleeves are gaining in popularity, and the high round neck still is holding its own. A new touch is the turnover tie at the front.

For instructions in knitting the cable stitch sweater for the 10 to 12 year old girl, No. X-275, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Benefit Card Party.

Mrs. John L. Kellogg and Mrs. John Denby Allen will be hostesses at a card party for the benefit of the Mrs. Frank J. Lewis milk fund for the tuberculous poor this afternoon at Mrs. Kellogg's home, 2952 Lake Shore drive.

Fashion Expert Has Some Finds for Career Girl

BY RHEA SEEGER.

We have found some week-end specials for career girls who want style and snap at merciful prices.

Flattering straw cartwheels, priced around $3, have everything . . . long ribbed streamers, a shallow but becoming crown, and a wide brim. The straw is smooth but coarse weave. The chalk whites are running the colors, red, navy, or sun tan gold, and the leghorns a good race for popularity. These are just what you need for daytime sheers and cottons.

Also new are the good looking dotted cotton play suits priced under $5. . . . These are another gingham girl idea. . . . The cotton is cool and smooth, the dots almost pin size and you can choose from either red or blue backgrounds. The set includes a waistcoat style top and snappy pleated and flared shorts. The third piece is a brim cap looking for all the world like a glorified version of the sun bonnet. All three items are liberally trimmed with fine narrow white rickrack braid.

Super cool summer-time nightgowns come in printed thin linen and these boast amazingly low price marks. Delft blue or pink dots are cheerfully spattered over white backgrounds. The skirts are cut with a flare, the bodice tops are mere nothings trimmed with dainty scalloped edges or with fagoting. All white affairs come in the same sheer linen with the same sort of trim and cut.

Slick blouse jackets to go with extra skirts are available. These are fitted in at the waistline, hip length, and with tailored details and short cool sleeves. They practically walk out of the shops and sell for about two dollars. White, pink, delft blue, yellow, green, raspberry, and a few navys are made of airy cool novelty cotton stuff that looks like semi-rough linen. The buttons are the same shade as the blouses, the necklines are high and gracefully curved. Worn with a separate skirt, they complete a distinctive street or office ensemble at small cost.

Equestrian Group.

Members of the Town and Country Equestrian association and their guests will take a 15 mile ride through the Hinsdale and La Grange Forest preserves tomorrow. The riders will assemble at 10 o'clock at the Oak Brook Polo club stables.

Sun-Back Frock and Bolero

WOMAN'S AND MISS' SUN FROCK.

There'll be plenty of tennis, golf, and beach parties on your summer program, and for these you will need suitable and comfortable clothes. One of the smartest schemes is a sun-back dress with an accompanying bolero that will spruce up the frock for appearances on the street. Furthermore, with the jacket the frock may be worn to business, for shopping, and to informal social functions. And all the time you will be blissfully cool!

The dress has a square décolletage in the back and a heart shaped neckline in front. The waistline is darted in for snug fit, and the skirt is widely flared for action on the tennis court. There are twin pockets on the skirt if you want them.

The bolero is a collared model designed for waist length. It has puffed sleeves. The illustration at the upper right shows how attractive a boldly patterned and bordered print would be for this topper in contrast to a plain colored or faintly patterned dress.

All types of wash silks, cottons, and linens would be appropriate.

Style No. 2625 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material for the dress; 1⅞ yards of 39 inch for the jacket, with ¾ yard of contrasting.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

"The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	Pass	Pass	2 hearts
Pass	3 diamonds	Pass	3 spades
Pass	4 diamonds	Pass	6 clubs
Pass	6 diamonds	Double	6 spades
Double	7 clubs	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

"I sat South. My cue bid of two hearts over the weak opening of one heart forced my partner to keep the bidding open until a game was reached. My hand seemed to have slam possibilities if I could find support for either of my two suits and distributional possibilities in my partner's hand even slightly similar to my own. Obviously he could show me nothing more than playing tricks.

"The reasons for my jump switch from spades to six clubs were as follows: I could locate nothing of any value to my hand at that time by a bid of four no trump [diamonds being the lowest ranking suit bid until that time, I could not accurately place the diamond ace], and five no trump would have been inaccurate. A five club bid, under the apparent circumstances, would have terminated the bidding. The proper place for the contract, from a playing standpoint, is six clubs. However, my partner went to six diamonds, thinking that my club bid might possibly be another cue bid in an attempt to reach a seven diamond contract [if I had diamond support and was cue bidding for that reason]. The remainder of the bidding was an attempt at reaching the best suit fit. The diamond ace opened from West's hand automatically gave us the contract. Aside from the criticisms which I have mentioned, how would you have bid my hand under the circumstances of West's opening?—Mrs. G. S. G., St. Louis, Mo."

From the tone of my correspondent's note, it seems that she is not quite satisfied with her own bidding in this hand. If that is the case, she deserves immediate reassurance. As South, her bidding was flawless. Bid by bid, she followed the course that undoubtedly would be taken by every master.

I cannot say nearly as much for North's bidding. I grant that North was in somewhat of a spot over South's three spade bid and that, perhaps, his four diamond rebid was as good a way out as any. But there was no reason or excuse for interpreting the six club bid as anything but an honest suit-showing bid which offered to North a choice between spades and clubs. As South, my correspondent, points out, a five club bid over four diamonds would not truly have represented the strength of the South hand and would have run the grave risk of being passed out by North with many holdings that would make a small slam a laydown.

The result of the "pushed into" grand slam contract was, of course, highly satisfactory to North-South, but in this connection I might say that West, for his crime of opening the diamond ace, should have been at least lightly spattered with boiling oil.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., June 2.—Marquette university's track team tonight won a race against the weather man and with it the fourteenth annual Central collegiate championship. By their victory Coach Conrad Jennings' Hilltoppers regained the Knute K. Rockne memorial challenge trophy which they had not held since 1932.

The victors scored 45 1-3 points this afternoon and tonight in their own stadium. Nine and one-half of those points were collected seconds before a cloudburst made the track a brook. Those valuable firsts were scored by the Hilltopper one mile relay team and by Ed Burke, colored high jumping star, who earned a tie with Ted Leonas of Notre Dame. Balance was the basis of Marquette's success, for out of the sixteen events they scored only three firsts in addition to Burke's tie.

Notre Dame Third.

Second place went to Indiana's Hoosiers, who rolled up 36 points, a half more than the third place finisher and defending champion, Notre Dame, and one point more than the thirty-five submitted by Wisconsin. Michigan State was fifth with 23 points.

Two meet records were established during the day's battle among 32 teams from 11 states. Bill Faymonville, Notre Dame weight star, supplied one in the discus throw and Milt Padway, Wisconsin's vaulting star, contributed the other. In addition Charles Fenske, former Badger star, lowered the recognized American record for the 1,000 yard run in an exhibition spin.

Mehl Wins by Three Yards.

The throng of 7,000 didn't have to wait long for excitement for the first track event of the evening brought together Walter Mehl, Wisconsin's Big Ten mile champion, and Capt. Greg Rice of Notre Dame. Mehl first contented himself with third position, a yard in front of the smaller Rice. They ran shoulder to shoulder going into the third lap, after taking the lead. Rice took a two yard margin entering the final lap, but Mehl caught him in the back stretch, and increased his lead to the finish, winning by three yards. The time was 4:13.3.

Fenske put on a one man show in the exhibition 1,000 yard run. Paced by two Badger freshmen, Fenske scampered around in 2 minutes, 9.3 seconds, thereby bettering the recognized American mark of 2:09.7, made by Elroy Robinson at Fresno, Cal., in May, 1937.

Three Events Won in Trials.

Three of the field events were decided on the basis of performances made during preliminaries. The mark of 49 feet 4¼ inches by Archie Harrasi of Indiana gave the colored Hoosier victory in the shot put. Ernest Bremer of Michigan State saw his javelin throw of 187 feet hold up through the final competition, and the record performance of Faymonville, whose discus pitch of 162 feet 9 inches broke the old mark of 156 feet 11⅝ inches, set in last year's meet by Hugh Wolf of Texas, stood up.

Norman Holmes, colored runner from Florida A. & M., had to be content with a first and a second in the sprints. After he had taken the 100 yard dash in a close finish with Joe Graf of Lawrence, Holmes ran

Dedicate $600,000 Rockne Memorial Fieldhouse Today

Notre Dame, Ind., June 2.—[Special.]—The $600,000 Rockne Memorial fieldhouse on the campus of the University of Notre Dame will be dedicated tomorrow afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

Knute Rockne.

Speakers will include Arch Ward, sports editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who will be master of ceremonies; Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten conference commissioner; the Rev. John F. O'Hara, C. S. C., president of Notre Dame; Charles E. [Gus] Dorais, University of Detroit athletic director; Frank E. Hering, Notre Dame's first football coach and now a trustee of the university, and Elmer F. Layden, successor of the late Knute Rockne as Notre Dame's athletic director and head football coach.

Dorais, who captained the 1912 football team, will introduce Rockne's track and football teammates of 1910, 1911, 1912, and 1913. Rockne captained the football team in 1913. Teammates who have indicated they will be present include William J. Cook of Los Angeles, Cal.; Luke L. Kelly of Boston, Mass.; Chester M. McGrath, St. Joseph, Mich.; William A. Kelleher, Lorain, O.; Alvin Berger, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Walter A. Clinnen, Chicago; Allen H. [Mal] Elward, Purdue football coach; Raymond J. Eichenlaub, Columbus, O.; Fred W. Gushurst, Denver, Colo.; Albert G. Feeney, Indianapolis, Ind., and Joseph B. Pliska, Chicago.

The Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, C. S. C., vice president of the university and a monogram winner in football in 1915, will bless the building just before the program starts.

Mrs. Bonnie Skiles Rockne, the four Rockne children, Miss Florence Rockne, a sister from Chicago, and the Most Rev. John F. Noll, D. D bishop of Fort Wayne, Ind., will be on the speakers' platform.

The half hour program will be broadcast over station W-G-N.

Pick U. S. and British Polo Teams Today

Westbury, N. Y., June 2.—[Special.]—Extensive workouts for ponies represented the limit of today's preparation for the international polo matches between Great Britain and the United States at Meadowbrook, which open Sunday.

The lineups of both teams will be announced tomorrow morning, officials said. At the same time, it developed that there still is a slight doubt about the American star, Cecil Smith, being able to play. He was injured in the last practice match Wednesday when his pony fell with him. The doubt consists solely, however, of awaiting final permission to play from his physician, Dr. Robert Mellen of Westbury.

Will Ride Today.

Smith has been confined to his home here since the fall, in which he suffered a slight concussion. He has taken no exercise, but continues to show every sign that the concussion has left no after effects. The ten goal Texan plans to ride tomorrow morning for the first time since the fall, and it will be decided then whether or not he can play.

If there was any real doubt of his playing, it was believed, the defense committee would have ordered at least a practice game today for an American team lined up without him. Most people feel that such a team would include Stewart Iglehart at No. 3 with Tommy Hitchcock moving up to Smith's No. 2 place.

Officials Are Named.

It was announced today that Col. Vivian Lockett, a member of the British selection committee and back on the British team which defeated the United States here in 1914, will be referee sitting in the stand. Col. Lockett inspected the grounds today and discussed the handling of the games with Devereux Milburn and Robert E. Strawbridge Jr. of the American defense committee and Lord Cowdray, nonplaying captain of the British. On the field as umpires during the matches will be Earle W. Hopping and William Post II.

PROBABLE MAJOR LEAGUE PITCHERS IN TODAY'S GAMES

New York, June 2.—(AP)—Probable pitchers in the major leagues tomorrow, and their season's records:

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Philadelphia at St. Louis [2]—Ross [1-4] and Caster [3-4] vs. Gill [0-4] and Mills [0-2].

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Cincinnati at Boston—Derringer [6-1] vs. Turner [1-5].
St. Louis at New York—Warneke [6-2] vs. Gumbert [5-2].

BLADE, PADDLE REGATTA IS FOR CANOEISTS, TOO

The canoeists will have their day in the first annual Blade and Paddle regatta on the Chicago river Sunday, June 11. Three of the twelve events on the two hour program starting at 2 o'clock will involve this type of boat. The regatta is sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in coöperation with the Lincoln Park Boat club and the Chicago park district.

The war canoe race—the craft is fifty feet long—will involve twenty paddlers, ten to each boat. One of them will be manned by sailors from the Lincoln Park Boat club, the other by men from the Columbia and South Shore Canoe clubs.

Expect Ten in Cruising Race.

The war canoe race matches craft of the type formerly used by the Indians in warfare on rivers in this part of the country. It has a capacity of twenty men, but because in racing each man needs room to swing his paddle, ten men crews are used. All three canoe races will be over a half mile course.

At least ten boats are expected to compete in the cruising canoe class. This type of boat is 16 to 17 feet long. Some are canvas covered while others are of wood construction, the average weight being sixty pounds. The contestants will start abreast, presenting a pretty picture as the starter's gun booms. This is an every man for himself race as each boat is limited to one paddler.

Peanut Races Are Listed.

The racing canoe, called "peanut" boat by water sportsmen, is no place for the amateur. It requires expert handling as the canoe is inclined to tip unless the stroke is even. The boat weighs 45 pounds, is 16 feet long, canvas covered, and the bow is decked over to protect the occupant from spray coming over the bow as the paddler's stroke increases.

This event will attract eight or ten. A half mile in a "peanut" can be negotiated by a good paddler in four and a half minutes. Each man has a double bladed paddle eight feet long, which he alternately strokes on each side of his canoe.

Shell Race Main Event.

The regatta's main event is the eight oared shell race between eight crews composed of boys from four of the city high schools for the Chicago river interscholastic championship. Both senior and junior crews will compete for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE trophy to the winner in each division and which must be won three times for permanent possession. There also will be four oared and single oared shell races involving members of the various boat clubs in the city. Also on the program are a kayak race and parade, and a Sea Scout cutter race.

The winner of the senior shell race also will be rewarded by being entered in the Central States Amateur association's regatta in Quincy, Ill., later in the summer.

LOUIS SHADOWS NOVA'S VICTORY OVER MAX BAER

"Quit!" Says Wife

NEW YORK, June 2.—[Special.]—While Max Baer wouldn't commit himself definitly on retirement from the ring today, his wife was begging him to do so. Mrs. Baer, almost in tears as she looked over the battered face of the once handsome Max, said:

"I have asked Max to quit fighting for keeps. In his game fight with Lou Nova he showed he had a heart as big as himself. That is what counts—the impression you leave."

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 2.—Lou Nova may have been born four years too late or, perhaps, four years too soon. For at 24 years of age he is a contemporary of Joe Louis, champion of the world, one of the hardest punchers in the history of pugilism.

Last night Lou Nova gave Max Baer a brutal beating. He stopped him in the eleventh round of their 15 round fight in Yankee stadium. And this morning, except for the ominous shadow of the champion blanketing his future, Nova would be hailed as the greatest heavyweight prospect since the man he whipped last night left his father's butcher shop in Livermore, Cal., to seek boxing fame.

Might Be Better to Wait.

Joe Louis has become the fight fan's yardstick, just as the last generation contrasted others with Jack Dempsey. Louis has rushed through the heavyweight ranks in five years, marking up a series of knockout conquests. Primo Carnera, Baer, Jack Sharkey, Max Schmeling, and Jim Braddock, all who had held the heavyweight championship since Gene Tunney retired, have been knocked out by the Brown Bomber. That record dwarfs Nova's victory over Baer.

When Lou Nova was winning the national amateur heavyweight title in 1935, Louis already was prepared to establish his claim to fame by a six round knockout of Carnera in the same ring in which Nova whipped Baer last night.

If Nova gets his wish and meets the champion this fall, he may be rushing his big opportunity. Two years from now, if Louis should be inactive for several months, ring rusty, and softened by luxury and soft living, the odds would not be prohibitive.

New York Apathetic.

We hope this is underestimating Nova's possibilities. He is the most intelligent, modest, and likable lad to climb into the heavyweight picture in recent years. He was underestimated until his five weeks' training at Nyack, where he determinedly followed his daily routine and convinced many he would whip Baer.

Whether or not Baer will decide to fight again, it is evident New York doesn't wish to see him. Few did last night, for only 16,738 paid admission. Net receipts were $69,349.57. Each principal received $22,517.25. The fight might as well have been held in Madison Square Garden and the promotion now stands to Mike Jacobs' debit. Moreover, Uncle Mike may have difficulty catching up with the Louis-Galento bout June 28. Contracts will be signed tomorrow.

Great Britain to Bid for 1944 Olympic Games

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 2.—As officials began to arrive today for the International Olympic association conference next week, it was announced that Great Britain would seek the 1944 Olympic games in London. British athletic officials said Detroit, Mich., also will enter the race to hold the games.

Taps.

The strangest feeling comes over me
When I hear "Taps" being blown.
It recalls to mind the friends I had
Over whose graves poppies have grown.

There was Don, the boy from Nebraska
Who joined up with the flying corps;
In a plane he was a wizard on wings,
With courage like none I'd seen before.

There was Jack, who ran away from home;
His mother wouldn't give her consent.
It was one day at Verdun dodging dum-dums
That his young life was suddenly spent.

There were countless other poor creatures,
Who that day in mud and rain
Were mowed down by machine gun bullets
As a reaper would mow his grain.

The sound of "Taps" makes me shudder,
And I've so often wondered why.
Do you suppose it could be possible
That I haven't the courage to die?

NIGHTMARE OVER, CUBS EYE FUTURE AND WHITEHILL

Veteran Southpaw Faces Dodgers Today.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 2.—Earl Whitehill will pitch against the Dodgers tomorrow afternoon, and on Sunday in the first Cub double-header of the year Bill Lee and Dizzy Dean will pitch against the Phillies, tail end team in the National league, which has shown no cellar proclivities in competition with the Chicagoans.

Being bright, spirited, and ambitious men, always pointing toward the future, the Cubs looked optimistically on what Whitehill is going to do tomorrow to keep the Dodgers from supplanting the Cubs in the first division. During this serene day not a Cub allowed his mind to go back to last night's and this morning's fourteen inning Cub-Dodger game, which brought Brooklyn a 3 to 2 victory. Or maybe only a few hundred times each of the Cubs recalled the encounter, but not enough to really drive anybody stark mad.

Great from Brooklyn View.

It was a great game from the Brooklyn viewpoint or even from an unprejudiced viewpoint. But the 3 hour and 38 minute flood lighted affair was a painful experience to those interested in seeing Chicago win. Any Cub could have used the same hours in bed having a bad dream simply by eating mince pie with rarebit dressing and catsup just before retiring. And think of the taxicab fares saved in traveling from New York headquarters to Brooklyn, not to mention the wear and tear on the Cubs' won and lost percentage.

Personally the only Cubs we felt sorry for at the end of the fourteen inning night match were Charley Root and, in a lesser degree, Claude Passeau. Root yielded one hit in 6⅔ innings of wonderful relief work and that one hit, a triple, led to Gene Moore's victory theft of home while Catcher Bob Garbark, to all appearances, was trying on a boxing glove some one had brought from the Yankee stadium [where a prize fight last night drew about half as many folks as there were at the ball game].

Triple Play a Dilly.

Root pitched brilliantly though he had to watch Cub threat after threat fade out. The triple play which the Dodgers executed in the twelfth inning was enough to wilt a less hardy soul than ol' Charley. The play was possible through use of the intentional grounding of the ball by an infielder. The trick has come into more general use with each season recently. Yet two smart veteran Cub infielders, Bill Herman and Stan Hack, were chumped and panicked by the maneuver. Jim Gleeson, who bunted the ball, alone should have been out. Herman was somewhat whipsawed, but Hack simply was a brainstorm victim.

YANKEES SEND JOE GALLAGHER TO NEWARK CLUB

Cleveland, O., June 2.—[Special.]—Manager Joe McCarthy today released Joe Gallagher, big right handed outfielder, to the Yankees' Newark farm. At the same time, the New York manager ordered Pitcher Marius Russo to leave the Bears' camp and join the Yanks here tomorrow.

Gallagher took the notice of his release hard. "I'm not going to report to Newark," he declared emphatically. "I would have gone to Kansas City. But now I'm going home to Buffalo to rest. I'm fed up on baseball."

Russo, who went south with the Yanks this spring, was with Newark last year and chalked up a record of seventeen victories against eight defeats. He is a left hander and has been pitching well with the Bears this year.

With his pitching staff a bit crippled and with a surplus of outfielders, McCarthy feels that he can afford to ship Gallagher back to the minors. Joe had batted .244 in fourteen games and had driven nine runs across the plate.

bats after Lee seemingly was mired in his fifth straight defeat, shaved a three run Washington lead down to a tie, and then let go with an eighth inning blast that permanently flattened the Senators, 7 to 5.

The club house victory chanting hardly got under way before Manager James Dykes yelled for silence. The athletes quieted down and the boss informed them that John Whitehead, his problem boy of long standing, was no longer a member of the troupe. Whitehead will join the St. Louis Browns and as compensation the Sox will receive the services of Pitcher Johnny Marcum, a sort of big league nomad.

From Star to Problem Child.

Whitehead came to the Sox from the Dallas club in the spring of 1935 and immediately blossomed into a pitching wizard. He captured his first eight starts but slipped back in a hurry and never again revealed the form of his first few months as a big league freshman. He refused to keep himself in physical trim despite several fines and one suspension. He hasn't won a game this season, except the Monty Stratton benefit battle with the Cubs.

Marcum, who was brought into the American league by Connie Mack, went from Philadelphia to Boston's Red Sox but developed arm trouble. In hopes that a minor league stay would bring him back to form the Boston club sent Marcum to Buffalo last season. He was recalled before the race ended and during last winter was traded to the Browns for whom he won two while losing five this season. He will be 30 years old next September.

By the work he turned out yesterday Lee appeared to be two different fellows. In the first four innings he was distressed by eight hits, among these a Buddy Lewis homer which hung up two of the three runs scored in the fourth, giving the Senators a 5 to 2 edge. But the other Lee

JUVENILE KING, QUEEN TO MATCH SPEED AT CRETE

Rapid Way, Sassy Mate Entered in Handicap.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Rapid Way, current king of the juvenile colts at Lincoln Fields, and Sassy Mate, queen of the fillies, will risk their prestige this afternoon in the $2,500 Joliet handicap, which will draw a field of ten 2 year olds to the post. In the afternoon's co-feature the $2,500 Steger handicap, Manie O'Hara will try for her second stake victory of the meeting against eleven other older horses.

Sassy Mate, winner of last Saturday's $2,500 Dearborn handicap for fillies, will carry top weight of 121 pounds. Rapid Way, which beat a field of colts in the $2,500 Chicago Heights handicap on the Memorial day program, will carry 119 pounds. Among the other speedy youngsters in the overnight entries are W. F. Morgan's Downy Pillow, winner of the Debutante stakes at Churchill Downs, and Drury Lane, the only horse Mrs. P. A. B. Widener has sent to the post thus far in the meeting. Drury Lane won an allowance event last Friday.

John Marsch's King's Blue has been allotted top weight of 115 pounds in the Steger. In addition to Manie O'Hara, his opposition will include Smart Crack, Montsin, and Easy Mon.

Regains Jocky Lead.

Jockey Ernest Hanke drove E. E. Fogelson's Strident up in the last sixteenth to beat Clyde Troutt's Rough Diamond by half a length in the Graemere Hotel purse, which headed yesterday's program. Rough Diamond was only a nose ahead of the Lewin stable's Buttermilk, these two having put on a spirited stretch drive of their own until Strident came up to take it away from both.

Strident's victory in this mile and a sixteenth event marked another success for Bob McGarvey, who trains for E. E. Fogelson, W. F. Morgan, and Miss H. W. Bingham. Earlier in the meeting McGarvey had sent Rapid Way to a stake victory and Majority Vote to a first place in a claiming race. Strident, Smart Crack, Majority Vote, and Downy Pillow also have earned third places.

J. E. Copenhaver took the training honors for the day by saddling three winners—Shasta Plucky, Dunlin Lady, and Sky Breeze. He had won with Shasta Plucky last Monday also.

By his energetic ride on Strident, Hanke regained the jockey lead, with nine winners, breaking a tie which Warren Yarberry had precipitated by scoring with Rude Awakening earlier in the afternoon.

Ottoman Still Consistent.

The consistent Ottoman, a 6 year old mare which had scored five victories, two seconds, and a third in her last eight starts, got away from the betters and went to the post at better than 6 to 1 odds in yesterday's first race. All of these recent performances had been on fast tracks Many in the crowd were sorry that they'd doubted her ability to run in the mud when she came home in front once more and paid off at $14.40, $6.60, and $5.

After losing ground for the first half mile of the 6 furlong run, Ottoman came up fast in the stretch, caught Lifelike in the closing strides, and beat her by a neck. Blaufuss was third.

FLORIDA SENATE KILLS BILL FOR RACING INQUIRY

Tallahassee, Fla., June 2. — [Special.]—The state senate today killed a bill to hold a two year investigation of Florida racing. A close vote yesterday gave authority for the inquiry, but it was canceled. The vote was 16 to 15, but the deciding vote of Senator A. L. Wilson of Quincy, Fla., was ruled illegal because Wilson was not present when the roll was called. It required eight hours for the senate to vote, 12 to 15 ,to cancel the record of Wilson's vote.

Senator E. R. Graham of Miami, who has charged graft and corruption in horse and dog racing, asserted that Gov. Fred P. Cone influenced the reversal.

GEHRIG ADMITS PLANNING TRIP TO MAYO CLINIC

Cleveland, O., June 2.—[Special.]—After having issued a denial that he had been planning a trip to the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., for an examination, Lou Gehrig today admitted that he had been considering the trip. New York specialists have told Gehrig that a rigid diet on which he went last summer had run him down. He had some gall bladder trouble.

It seems quite safe to say that Gehrig will not play another game until Sept. 1.

Tigers Defeat Red Sox, 8-5, to Even Series

Detroit, Mich., June 2.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers were outhit by the Boston Red Sox 14 to 13 and left fourteen runners stranded on the bases but still managed to triumph today, 8 to 5, to even the series.

Alton Benton, Detroit right hander, pitched until one man was out in the ninth and got credit for his first victory of the season. Tommy Bridges came in to quell a threatening Boston uprising.

Rigney Draws Venezuelan in Senators' Final

John Rigney, who has been having trouble getting his pitches past the batters, will operate for the White Sox in the final game with Washington today. The Senators will start Señor Alejandra Carrasquel, the right handed delegate from Venezuela. Today's battle gets under way at 2 o'clock.

Ted Lyons and Bill Dietrich have been advised to be ready for work tomorrow afternoon. Manager Dykes intends to start them in the doubleheader with the Athletics.

Marquette Wins Central Track Meet

Rice Wins Two Mile.

Beaudry's first place was soon joined by another Marquette victory, scored by Bob Shurilla, who leaped 23 feet 3 inches to outdo the afternoon high of 23 feet ¾ inch, made by Riley Best of Wisconsin, who took second place.

The crowd cheered Padway when he soared over the pole vault bar at 13 feet 11⅞ inches to top the meet record of 13 feet 9¼ inches established in 1937 by Bill Hawthorne of Michigan Normal and Al Haller of Wisconsin.

Rice added five points to Notre Dame's total with a victory in the two mile run, finishing 50 yards in front of Gilbert Dodds of Ashland, O., college. Roy Cochran, Indiana sophomore, after winning the 220 yard low hurdles, came back to run anchor on the Hoosiers' winning team in the 880 yard relay. Summaries:

NOTRE DAME NINE TO CLOSE SEASON WITH SPARTANS

Notre Dame, Ind., June 2.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's baseball team will face Michigan State here tomorrow in the annual commencement game. Rex Ellis will pitch for the Irish. He defeated Iowa, 1 to 0, on one hit in his last start, ending an eleven game Hawkeye winning streak.

Notre Dame has won eleven games and has lost five to date. The Irish have avenged four of their defeats and will have a chance to even the score with Michigan State for a 14 to 9 trimming received at East Lansing a month ago.

then appeared and he functioned so perfectly that only three of the enemy hit safely during the five concluding innings.

Sox Knock Out Haynes.

The decisive eighth opened with Luke Appling scratching a hit to Lewis and Mike Kreevich drawing a pass. This pair of happenings brought on the dismissal of the 21 year old Joe Haynes and his successor, Pete Appleton, came within a hair's breadth of choking off the budding rally. Marv Owen tried to sacrifice but forced Appling at third. Hank Steinbacher batted for Tresh and forced Owen. Lee stood around long enough to get a base filling pass and Ollie Bejma did the rest. He plunked a single into left, Kreevich and Steinbacher scoring.

Besides furnishing the pitching that stopped the Senators cold after the fourth, Lee also did some beneficial service with his bat. Joe Kuhel hit his season's fourth homer in the first inning to keep the game tied. Lee produced a single to tie it again in the second. He singled again in the fifth when with the help of a single by Rip Radcliff, the Sox climbed to within one of a tie. And in the seventh when the knotting run finally was captured, Gerald Walker came through with a single in the wake of a similar smash by Bejma.

Senators Score on Three Hits.

The enemy run in the first inning was the product of three hits off Lee's southpawing. Case opened with a fly to center, Estalella singled in the same direction and Lewis fanned. Wright and Gelbert also singled to center, the latter's hit sending Estalella home and Wright to third. Lee shook himself free on Bluege's roller to Bejma. Kuhel retrieved this run for the Sox in the same inning by hitting his season's fourth homer into the right field pavilion.

Lee's unhappy experiences in the second consisted of a pass, two singles and an error, but he managed to limit the damage to one run. Ferrell drew the pass with one out and hiked to third on Haynes' single. Case drew a hit on a low fly to short center, Ferrell scoring. Owen's fumble of Estalella's roller filled the bases, but the next two men popped out. The Sox tied it again in their half when, after two were out, Owen and Tresh walked and the former was driven in by Lee's single to right.

It wasn't all Lee's fault when the Senators broke the tie by scoring three runs in the fourth. He was merely unfortunate enough to have a homer exploded in his face at an inopportune moment. The first symptom of trouble was a pass to Ferrell, who was bunted to second by Haynes. Case whipped a single into center, but Ferrell was satisfied to stop at third until Estalella's single could drive him home. Then Lewis took advantage of a three and two pitch by slapping the ball into the seats in right, Estalella preceding him across the plate.

Lee Starts Two Run Rally.

Lee took the initiative in the fifth when the Sox whittled two runs off the enemy lead. He led off with his second single and the third hit yielded by Haynes. Lewis helped by booting Bejma's grounder. Kuhel's infield out moved the runners into scoring position for Walker, but the ex-Tiger fanned. Then Radcliff came through with a single into right center, Lee and Bejma galloping across the plate.

Bejma, Walker, and Gelbert took care of the little matter involving the tying run in the seventh. After Lee had been thrown out, Bejma singled to left. He set forth on a steal of second and Ferrell's throw beat him to the bag, but Gelbert performed his bit by dropping the ball, thus forcing Umpire Quinn to reverse his decision. Kuhel sent a long fly to Case, Bejma taking third, and scoring on Walker's line single over short.

Lee Finishes Strong.

After his wabbly exhibition for four innings, Lee gave first signs of steadying when he permitted only three batters to face him in the fifth. In the sixth there was a single, but after two were gone. There was another single in the seventh, also after two were out. In the eighth nobody reached base.

But Lee didn't get through the ninth quite as easily. With one out Estalella walked. Lewis popped to Appling for the second out, and Wright singled to right. Gelbert ended it with a fly to Kreevich.

U. S. INTERVENES IN COLUMBIA GAS CASE BEFORE SEC

Washington, D. C., June 2.—(AP)—Attorney General Murphy has received permission from the Securities commission to intervene in the SEC hearing on a propcsed partial plan of integration for the Columbia Gas and Electric corporation.

The full commission is to hear argument next Monday on the plan filed by the corporation under the utility holding company act. This act, administered by the SEC, requires utility holding companies to limit their subsidiary operating companies to a geographically contiguous area.

The petition said the attorney general's interest in the integration plan arose from anti-trust actions against Columbia Gas and Electric corporation and Columbia Oil and Gasoline corporation, which date back to March 6, 1935.

SAVES CAR FARE.

Investors' Guide: Can you tell me the dates when interest is payable on some of my securities? Those I have in mind are these: [1] Liggett & Myers Tobacco company 7 per cent debentures, due 1944, and [2] American Tobacco company 4 per cent debentures, due 1951.

I'm on my vacation and will be for another couple of weeks. Until I go back to work I won't have access to my file showing these dates and in the meantime I want to be sure I won't be missing any payment. Offhand I can't keep them straight. What's more, the car fare to the safety deposit vault, where I keep these securities and a memorandum on this, would cost more than the postage does through your department.—D. P. K.

Answer: Interest dates on your debentures are: [1] April and Oct. 1, and [2] Feb. and Aug. 1.

INSURANCE IN FORCE.

Investors' Guide: I want to know the total amount of insurance the Metropolitan Life Insurance company of New York has in force.—G. P.

FISCAL YEAR CHANGED.

Investors' Guide: The Magnavox Co., Ltd., has changed its fiscal year, 1 hear. When does its year now begin?—M. W. C.

Answer: The fiscal year of Magnavox Co., Ltd., now begins March 1 and ends the last day of February. Prior to its recent change the company's year was the same as the calendar year.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

Game Birds Promoted.

June 2, 1939.

THE Tribune Du Page county farm again will make its contribution to conservation and help increase the game bird population this season by hatching out a number of different kinds of game bird eggs. A start on this program was made this week when a fussy old white hen was given the job of incubating fourteen pheasant eggs. This hen has a little coop in a fenced-in area in a quiet, secluded corner of the farm.

There are several hatching coops in this grassy spot, all of which will be in use during the next few weeks. Other hens are scheduled to get Bob White quail and Hungarian partridge eggs. After the eggs hatch the chicks are left with the hens for several weeks.

Quail Got Same Start.

Two pairs of bob white quail were the first to take care of themselves they are released in the farm woods and thickets to feed on insects and other natural food. The covey of quail which wintered successfully on the farm had its start from birds which were hatched out under setting hens in the game bird corner. [We have heard some of these Bob Whites whistling nearly every time we have visited the farm this spring.]

The old white hen had quite an experience. She was one of the few setting hens on the farm available for the pheasant eggs. The flockmaster decided to move her from the poultry yard to her new quarters after dark, so he picked her off her nest after the sun had set, took her by automobile to the game bird yard and put her on the pheasant eggs, hoping she'd be satisfied with her new home. When we peeked in the little hatching coop two days ago to see how this bird was behaving she was sitting quietly on the eggs.

Barn Swallow Nest.

Two pairs of barn swallows which built mud nests in the big sheep barn had anything but a quiet time this week. One pair built a nest in the north end of the barn, right over the spot where the men operate the big electric sheep shearing machine. Wednesday was sheep shearing day. Three men were working in the barn, the machine was going full blast, and the ewes were complaining noisily about having their hair cut. But all the noise didn't seem to bother the persistent swallows which are determined to raise a family in the barn, noise or no noise.

Both pairs of barn swallows have eggs in their nests. We checked on one of the nests, we the could reach with a hand by standing on a box. By thrusting one finger into the nest we gingerly counted four eggs. The flockmaster is hoping that both pairs of birds will have a successful hatching season, because the beautiful barn swallows are efficient insect destroyers.

BUSINESS PLAN TO REVISE TAXES UP TO CONGRESS

Urges Flat Levy on Company Profits.

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—The United States Chamber of Commerce today presented to congress a program for tax revision calling for elimination of the undistributed profits tax and imposition of a flat rate of 15 per cent tax on corporation profits.

Ellsworth C. Alvord.

The proposals were laid before the house ways and means committee by Ellsworth C. Alvord, vice chairman of the chamber's committee on federal finance.

One of the proposals in the program would provide a specific credit of $2,000 on the corporation income tax to lighten the load of small concerns.

Present Tax Variable.

Under the present federal tax law a 12½ per cent tax is levied on the income of small corporations, the rate increasing to 16 per cent up to a maximum net income of $25,000. The undistributed profits tax is applicable to corporations with net income of more than $25,000 a year. They pay a tax of 16½ per cent on their income if all their profits are paid out in dividends and a rate of 19 per cent if all profits are retained in the corporate treasury. In cases where only part of the earnings are paid out to stockholders the tax rate varies between 16½ per cent and 19 per cent.

Congress is now studying plans for revision of the corporation income tax, seeking to make adjustments that would stimulate business enterprise. One proposal would eliminate the undistributed profits and impose a flat 22 per cent tax rate on corporation earnings. Another calls for a flat tax of 18 per cent.

Other Proposals in Program.

The chamber's tax suggestions contained a number of other proposals which were presented by Alvord as follows:

[1] Provision for a carry-over of net business losses for three years.

[2] Simplification of the individual capital gains provision, eliminating distinction between assets held 18 and 24 months and substituting a shorter holding period.

[3] Treatment of long term capital gains and losses of corporations as ordinary gains and losses.

[4] An annual declaration of capital stock value, beginning with the current year.

[6] Elimination of double taxation by exempting all inter-corporate dividends from tax, and excluding corporate dividends from individual normal tax.

[7] Remedying a few of the existing defects in the so-called technical or administrative provisions of the present law.

Long Range Reforms Urged.

The chamber presented other suggestions for a "long range program" of tax reform. The most important of these was the suggestion that a formula be set up which would remain in force for a period of ten years. It protested against repeated changes in the taxing system as being unsettling to business.

The chamber further asked for simplification of the tax statutes and reduction in individual surtaxes to encourage investment and initiative. Other points listed were a request for a substantial reduction in the tax rate on capital gains and a material cut in the "confiscatory rates of the present estate tax law.

Outright repeal of the capital stock-excess profits tax was asked as soon as the government's revenue requirements permit such a step. It also demanded the removal of "inequalities" now existing in the excise tax system.

Here's Fine Market Guide; But What Is Third of a Dip?

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—There are men in Wall street who look at charts and figures and remark that business is better than stock prices indicate. Among these is an analyst who points out that odd lot traders generally trail main market movements, buying on balance for the first third of each dip, and not starting to sell on balance until the movement is in its last third. Thus they are selling until the next upswing is a third gone. Since odd lot traders switched to the bear side two and a half weeks ago and are still on it, he deduces that the present advance still has some time to go.

Rock Island Reduces Time of Golden State Limited

The running time of the Golden State Limited between Chicago and Los Angeles will be reduced an hour, effective, June 11, W. J. Leahy, passenger trafic manager of the Rock Island, announced yesterday. Departure time will remain at 10:15 a. m., central time, but the Golden State will arrive at 7:25 p. m. on the third day out instead of at 8:30 p. m. Leahy said minor adjustments will be made in the schedule of the Californian.

Roosevelt Very Pleased Over Business Chat

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 2.—President Roosevelt today was described by Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins as "very pleased" over last night's White House conference with eight industrial leaders. At a press conference, called to discuss the White House meeting, Hopkins indicated the President wishes to hold similar gatherings in the future.

The business leaders did not share the President's satisfaction. At the Mayflower hotel, where the National Business Advisory council, of which the eight industrialists are members, ended a two day meeting, the Roosevelt conference was regarded as a flop.

The business men had hoped that the President might be moved to adopt the council's five point program for the amendment of the Wagner labor relations act as an aid to business. The program was carried to the White House by the eight industrialists.

Several Changes Sought.

The program would enlarge the nation labor relations board from three to five members with two representing each of labor and business and the fifth the public; permit employers to discuss collective bargaining and unionism with employés; allow the board to mediate as well as adjudicate labor controversies; permit employers to ask for employé elections for collective bargaining, and define the rules of evidence under which the board would operate.

The industrialists were given no encouragement on their program. Nor did the President more than nod to their characterization of modification of the labor act as one of the major problems of the day.

There was some discussion of foreign trade, taxation, and investment capital, but for the most part of the evening the talking was done by the President, along the line of other conferences with the leaders of the nation's business—that the New Deal program is the best thing for business and that he is the friend of business and not its enemy.

On Same Old Merry-Go-Round.

"It was the same old verse, the same old tune, and we're still on the same old merry-go-round," said the leader. "And it doesn't look like he's going to let business off."

At his conference Hopkins admitted that the business men carried the labor act modification program to the White House, but said nothing about the President's reception of the program.

Mr. Roosevelt could not be asked about his reaction because he canceled his semi-weekly press conference. He was then suffering from the head cold which kept him from eating with the industrialists, although he had invited them to dinner. The conference was held in his study after Hopkins presided at the dinner in the state dining room.

STORES' SALES IN WEEK 8 PCT. ABOVE YEAR AGO

Department store sales throughout the nation in the week ended May 27 were 8 per cent above a year ago, the Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday. Sales in the four weeks ended May 27 were also 8 per cent ahead of 1938.

In the 7th federal reserve district, which includes Chicago, the weekly gain was 9.6 per cent. For Chicago alone it was only 2.8 per cent. Detroit led cities in the 7th district, recording an increase of 25.3 per cent over 1938.

Largest reserve area gain for the week was made by the Atlanta district, where it amounted to 18 per cent. The Minneapolis district, with a decline of 11 per cent, had the most unfavorable showing. Sales in New York were up 6 per cent.

Business Bits

Appointment of H. C. Murphy as assistant vice president in charge of operation was announced yesterday by Edward Flynn, executive vice president of the Burlington railroad. He succeeds Fred G. Gurley, who recently resigned from the Burlington to become vice president of the Santa Fe railroad. Murphy was born in Canton, Ill., in 1892. He studied civil and mechanical engineering at Iowa State. He entered the employ of the Burlington in 1914 in the engineering department at Chicago. He has been with the road since then except for two years when he was an aviator with the United States army during the war. He is married and has three children.

William C. Tringham has been elected a director of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company, to succeed the late Harold P. Childs. Tringham is secretary and treasurer of the company.

W. J. Caverley was elected a director of Associated Telephone and Telegraph company at the annual meeting of the stockholders, succeeding Theodore Gary.

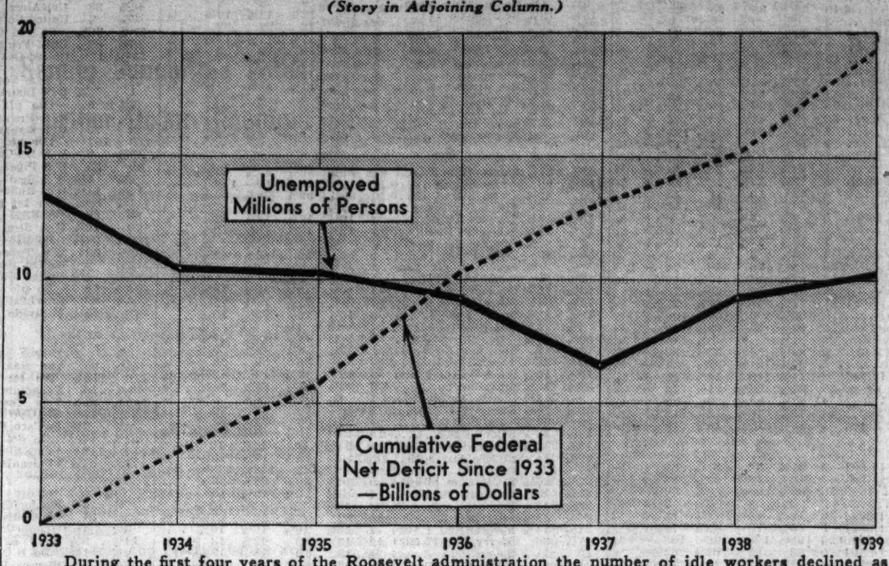
Jobs Decline as Federal Debt Grows

(Story in Adjoining Column.)



During the first four years of the Roosevelt administration the number of idle workers declined as the federal debt rose. Two years ago, however, the trend reversed. Since 1937 the further rise in the federal debt has been paralleled by a steady rise in the number of jobless workers. This chart is based on figures compiled by the national industrial conference board.

Illinois House Amends Bill to Control Trucks

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 2.—The house of representatives today, with no expression of opposition, amended and advanced to third reading a bill to revolutionize the regulation of for-hire trucks on the streets and highways of Illinois. The bill will be called for passage next week. Control of intra-state motor carriers would be removed from the Illinois commerce commission and placed in the department of public works. Under an amendment adopted today, there would no longer be any attempt, heretofore mainly futile, to fix rates.

Route Privileges Removed.

Common carriers, that is those operating on an assigned route and offering their services to the public, would no longer have exclusive privileges on such routes. Contract carriers, that is those operating under continuing bilateral agreements between shippers and haulers, would be issued permits upon applications that would not disclose the terms of these agreements.

In addition to repealing present truck regulations, admittedly unenforced and unenforcable, there are other provisions of the bill as it is to be called for passage.

Other Provisions of Bill.

Owners of for-hire trucks would be required to carry liability insurance or to furnish proof of financial responsibility; vehicles must be tested for safety twice a year with the state honoring city tests like Chicago's; names and addresses of owners must be painted on vehicles as is now required of Chicago owners by city ordinance; a driver could remain at the wheel a maximum of twelve hours and remain on duty a maximum of fifteen hours in any twenty-four.

ASK SHIP RATE TO AID EXPORT OF U. S. AIRCRAFT

San Francisco, Cal., June 2.—(AP)—Steamship companies were asked today to reduce rates for carrying airplanes because "Italy and Germany have made serious inroads into the United States aircraft markets in Latin America."

Walter E. Perkins, executive secretary of the Aircraft Manufacturers association, said ship freight rates for German and Italian planes were more than 50 per cent under those paid by California aircraft manufacturers.

Perkins quoted a report of the Civil Aeronautics authority showing Chile's 1938 aircraft imports from Germany and Italy were 54 times those from the United States and that Peru paid $1,000,000 for Italian planes and parts contrasted with $6,162 for those of American manufacture.

Start $350,000 Iced Tea Advertising Campaign

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—A $350,000 advertising campaign for iced tea has been started by the Tea Bureau, Inc., Stanley Holt of William Esty & Co., Inc., which handles the account, announced today. The program calls for space in forty-eight newspapers, two Sunday magazines, four national magazines, and 2,300 billboards.

Westinghouse Restores Pay Cut of 10 Pct. to Employes

New York, June 2.—(AP)—Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company informed 8,700 salaried employés today that their salaries, cut 10 per cent a year ago, have been restored, effective yesterday. This restoration does not affect the pay of those receiving $125 or less a month, because such salaries were restored last January.

General Motors Gets Big Submarine Engine Order

Cleveland, O., June 2.—(AP)—The Diesel engine division of General Motors corporation announced today it had signed contracts with the navy department for $2,500,000 worth of new submarine propelling equipment. The order called for manufacture of twelve main motors and auxiliary propelling apparatus.

PASS BILL CREATING UNDERSECRETARY JOB IN COMMERCE BUREAU

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—The house today passed and sent to the White House a bill to create the position of undersecretary of commerce at an annual salary of $10,000.

Edward J. Noble.

Edward J. Noble, who left the chairmanship of the civil aeronautics authority to become assistant to Secretary Harry Hopkins, is understood to be slated for the undersecretaryship.

The measure, a senate bill, was approved by a voice vote after several Republicans praised Noble's appointment to the commerce department as an offset to what was termed the "ill-advised" appointment of Hopkins.

Representative Gifford [R., Mass.] was one of those who praised Noble, and asserted that Hopkins' appointment was "ill advised" and the "worst" made by President Roosevelt.

Representative Wadsworth [R., New York] opposed the bill on the ground the position was "unnecessary."

"The difference as I see it," Wadsworth said, "is that an assistant secretary may not wear spats, whereas an undersecretary would."

REFUTE CARGILL EXPLANATION OF CORN DEALINGS

An explanation of deals made by Cargill, Inc., in the September, 1937, corn market "squeeze" was refuted yesterday by Hayes Miller of the Cargill concern.

John H. MacMillan Jr., president of Cargill, had previously testified at the Commondities Exchange administration hearings that Cargill did not want corn delivered on its September contracts, because the grain was "pickaxe" or "junk" corn.

Miller admitted yesterday under cross-examination by Howard Ellis, the exchange's attorney, that the corn was damaged after delivery to Cargill by excessive handling in shipment. Records were produced to show that the corn was of excellent quality when it came into Cargill's hands.

A request for records which must come from Minneapolis delayed the ending of the hearing until Monday.

New Financing This Week Is 94 Per Cent New Money

New York, June 2.—(AP)—New security issues offered to the public this week totaled $18,481,428, Poor's Publishing company reported today. The amount was 94 per cent new money [not refunding] and consisted almost entirely of municipal financing. Comparisons follow:

Canadian Bond Financing Sets 5 Year May Record

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—New Canadian bond financing for May totaled $148,753,411, exclusive of government treasury bills, the largest May figure in five years, a survey showed today. For the first five months this year financing totaled $282,748,259, excluding $260,000,000 treasury bills, of which $183,692,100 was for refunding and $99,056,159 was for new money. This compared with $281,640,523 in the 1938 period and $310,379,551 in five months of 1937.

Toledo Banks Will Cut Savings Interest Rate

Toledo, O., June 2.—[Special.]—The Toledo Trust company and the Commerce Guardian bank announced today that effective July 1 they will reduce interest rates to 1 per cent on savings deposits up to $10,000 and ½ of 1 per cent on deposits above that amount. They are now paying 2 per cent. Ohio Citizens Trust company will continue to pay 2 per cent on savings up to $2,500, but will pay only 1 per cent on deposits in excess of that amount.

Paper Concern Gives Chicago New Industry

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago is to have another big industry which when fully developed will employ approximately 500 persons and represent a total investment in land, buildings and equipment of about $3,500,000.

The Waterway Board and Paper company, a new corporation, yesterday purchased from the International Paper company of New York, the former plant of the Waterway Paper Products company, occupying a twelve acre site at the southeast corner of South Kedzie avenue and West 32d street.

According to Dwight S. Bobb of Bobb, Spoerri, Bourland & Harris, attorney for the seller, the purchasing corporation will manufacture box board, cartons, folding boxes, and paper specialties.

Machinery Will Be New.

The development program calls for four paper machines having a total capacity of about 600 tons per day. This development, it was said, will take place as fast as available tonnages are sold.

All machinery will be new and of the most modern design, enabling large economies and low cost production, Bobb said.

"Chicago is considered an ideal center for this sort of industry because of the abundance of raw materials accumulated here for this process and a market amply sufficient to consume the product, thereby eliminating the necessity of costly freight rates to and from the mill," Bobb said.

The original plant, erected in 1921, was designed by the late Frank D. Chase, Chicago engineer and architect. It was then operated by the Waterway Paper Products company, controled by Emanuel M. Mendelson and his brother, D. M. Mendelson.

Rail and Water Facilities.

The plant, which has both rail and water facilities, at that time manufactured only newsprint. Several years later it was purchased by the International Paper company of New York. The buyer dismantled the plant in 1933 and it has been standing idle ever since.

The new owner, the Waterway Board and Paper company, will confine its activities to paper products and will not make newsprint.

Alfred B. Geiger, president of the Hall Printing company, is chairman of the board of the Waterway Board and Paper company. Emanuel M. Mendelson is president, and his brother, D. H. Mendelson, is secretary and treasurer.

COUNCIL GROUP REPORTS TODAY ON SLUM BILLS

A report by the subcommittee of the housing committee of the Chicago city council on the public service building corporation bills, now pending at Springfield, will be made this morning at ten o'clock in room 302 of the city hall.

The meeting will be presided over by Representative Arthur W. Sprague, chairman of the subcommittee of the revenue committee of the house of representatives, and Senator Richard J. Daley, chairman of the subcommittee of the revenue committee of the senate. Proponents and opponents of the bills will be heard.

The public service building corporation bills would enable private capital to enter depreciated areas and build modern housing. Sponsored by the Chicago Building Congress they would clear away the common handicap of all housing projects, inability to acquire a site.

Strike and Holiday Cut Week's Output of Autos

Detroit, Mich., June 2.—(AP)—Production of automobiles and trucks this week was estimated at 32,445 units today by Ward's Automotive Reports. It attributed the decrease from the previous week's production of 67,740 to the Memorial day holiday and to the shutdown of Chrysler plants because of the strike in the Briggs Manufacturing company. Output a year ago was 32,980 cars and trucks, Ward's said the current week was the first this year in which production dropped below year ago figures.

U. S. SPENDING LOSES PUNCH AS JOB PROVIDER

Employment Drops as Debt Soars.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The federal government's program of borrowing and spending has lost effectiveness as a reducer of unemployment. This is shown by a perusal of figures recently compiled by the national industrial conference board.

These figures reveal that unemployment is actually increasing as the federal debt grows. This situation has existed for two years, but it either has not been recognized or it has been ignored by the Roosevelt administration. President Roosevelt in a speech to the Retailers National Forum in Washington May 22 insisted that the government must continue its spending in excess of income to provide jobs for workers.

Spends to Provide Jobs.

"Today," he said, "in order to provide customers for business, your government uses government capital to provide jobs, to prevent farm prices from collapsing and to build up purchasing power when private capital fails to do it." He added that "the people who run the three branches of our government do not have the moral right to gamble with the well-being of 130 million Americans."

According to a tabulation of federal deficits and unemployment prepared by the national industrial conference board, the administration's biggest gamble—that of attempting the experiment of spending billions of borrowed dollars in the hope of restoring prosperity—is actually having the opposite effect. The board's figures were published three days before President Roosevelt's address to the retailers.

Reversed Two Years Ago.

For four years—from 1933 to 1937—the number of unemployed in the United States declined while the federal debt rose, the board's tabulation shows. About two years ago however, the trend changed abruptly. The downward trend of unemployment was reversed. For the last two years the rise of the national debt has been paralleled by rising figures on unemployment.

The number of idle two years ago was approximately 7,400,000, compared with 10,600,000 in 1935. Since then the number has risen to about 10,300,000, or almost the figure of four years ago. The board's estimates on unemployment represent yearly averages of monthly figures and are computed by fiscal years ending June 30 in order to make them comparable with the figures on federal deficits for the fiscal years. The 1939 figure represents the average for the nine months ending March 31, 1939.

Federal Debt Soars.

During the two year period of 1937-1939 while the ranks of the idle have swollen the federal debt has increased approximately five billion 300 million dollars, using the budget estimate of Jan 5, 1939, as the basis for computing the deficit for the year ending June 30, 1939.

Taking the last four years as a whole the net effect of the administration's borrowing and spending program has been almost nil as a force for reducing the number of unemployed. The estimated number of idle now is almost where it was in 1935, despite an increase of thirteen billion dollars in the federal debt during those four years.

Egg Prices Again Reach Five Year Low Marks

Cash egg prices again fell to the lowest levels since July, 1934, on a decline of ¾ cent a dozen yesterday. The markdown was recorded for all grades. Continued liberal receipts were responsible for the break. Futures were easier. November butter erased an early decline to finish unchanged in dull trading.

Eastern Air Lines' May Trafic 37 Pct. Above 1938

A total of 19,271 revenue passengers was carried by Eastern Air Lines last month, Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, president, announced yesterday. This was a gain of 37 per cent over a year ago. Revenue passenger miles flown last month totaled 7,780,160, or an increase of 37 per cent.

FORMER OFFICE BOY GETS HIGH ARMOUR POST

George A. Eastwood, who started as an office boy, yesterday was designated executive vice president of Armour & Co. by the board of directors This is a new position.

Eastwood has been a vice president of the Chicago packing company since 1929. He started with Armour in 1897 as an office boy at the Albany, N. Y. branch.

In 1909 Eastwood was made chief clerk in the general eastern branch office at New Haven. Two years later he was sent to Philadelphia, where he was assistant superintendent.

In 1917 Eastwood was called to Chicago as assistant manager of the canned food department. He became manager of that department in 1922 Since 1928 he has had charge of the company's major by-product enterprises.

STANDARD GAS SERVICING UNIT'S STATUS CHANGED

New arrangements covering expert supervisory and technical services for utility companies operating within the billion dollar Standard Gas and Electric company system were announced yesterday.

William J. Hagenah, president of the Public Utility Engineering and Service company, said the Securities and Exchange commission has approved the company's petition to operate as the Standard Gas service unit under provisions of the public utility holding company act of 1935.

With enactment of the public utility holding company act of 1935 it became a mutual organization, and its $400,000 of stock held by the parent company was sold to the operating companies. The engineering unit is now returning to its status as a subsidiary of Standard Gas. It will continue to base its fees on actual cost, Hagenah said. The operating companies which bought its stock in 1935 at $4 a share will sell it back to the parent company at the same price. The engineering unit's capitalization will then be reduced to $250,000.

COAL AND ORE LOADINGS LIFT FREIGHT TRAFIC

Revenue freight loadings in the week ended May 27 made a larger than seasonal increase over the preceeding week, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. A further upturn in coal and ore shipments was largely responsible for the gain.

Total loadings for last week amounted to 627,674 cars, up 11,708 cars, or 1.9 per cent, from the loadings of the preceeding week. Loadings were ahead of the like 1938 week by 65,598 cars, or 11.7 per cent, but were below the 1937 week by 162,829 cars, or 20.6 per cent.

Loadings of various commodities compared as follows:

More than Triples 1938 Figure.

Net earnings of the Chicago Yellow Cab Company, Inc., were more than tripled in the first quarter, compared with a year ago, the company disclosed yesterday in an interim report to stockholders. Net income for the three months ended with March was $46,045, equal to 15 cents a share, compared with $12,139 in the comparable 1938 period, or 4 cents a share.

Cities Service company, with widespread utility and petroleum operations, had March quarter net earnings of $2,559,508, against $3,364,228 a year ago. Empire Gas and Fuel company, a subsidiary, announced net income for the three months fell to $468,321, from $1,312,312 last year.

Two Utilities Earn Less.

The United Gas corporation, with natural gas properties in the south and southwest, announced net income of $2,314,507 for the March quarter, compared with $2,398,150 a year ago. For twelve months ended with March net income was $5,306,872, against $9,262,945 twelve months earlier. The company is controled by the Electric Power and Light corporation.

American Power and Light company reported net income of $2,600,117 for three months ended April 30, equal to 6 cents a share on common stock, against $3,016,347 a year ago, or 20 cents a share. For twelve months ended with April net income was $9,017,712, equal to $5.60 a share on $6 preferred stock, against $11,170,658 in the preceding twelve months, or 50 cents a share on the common stock.

Distillery Firm Earns More.

Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Ltd., Canadian and American liquor company, reported consolidated net profits of $950,385 for the April quarter. This was equal to 43 cents a share and compared with $830,882 a year ago, or 36 cents a share.

Operations were less profitable for the nine months ended April 30, however. Net earnings for the period were $5,199,151, equal to $2.62 a share, against $5,968,289 a year ago, or $3.09 a share.

The Hupp Motor Car company reduced its net loss for the March quarter to $194,229, from $290,496 in the comparable 1938 period.

Chicago Gas Rate Hearing Postponed Until June 26

The gas rate hearing in progress for more than a month before Ewing Simpson, examiner for the federal power commission, was continued yesterday until June 26. Natural gas piped from Texas eventually is consumed in Chicago after being mixed with manufactured gas. The Illinois commission is attempting to force the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company to reduce its rates.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 2—The stock market closed irregularly higher today. Gains were mostly fractional. Early in the session the list posted gains ranging up to more than a point, but failure of the rally to attract concerted buying caused prices to slip from their tops.

Trading was quiet. Only 397,040 shares changed hands, compared to 598,540 yesterday. In all, 634 issues were traded, of which 271 advanced, 176 declined and 187 closed unchanged.

Contributing largely to the better feeling in Wall street, according to most observers, was the hope that the new series of conferences between President Roosevelt and business men would this time lead to some form of business "appeasement." A section of the financial district, however, was reported to be highly skeptical.

Representative industrial shares gave a good account of themselves in the forenoon but met resistance later. Among the leaders were U. S. Rubber, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and Anaconda. Gains ranged to about a point.

Merchandising issues turned in a strong performance. Carrier shares closed mixed in a narrow range.

Aviations and oils were irregular. Chemicals showed gains. Heavy machinery issues also made up some ground.

New York Bonds.

New York, June 2.—(AP)—Low yield bonds, the type known as "top grade," made the best showing in a generally higher market today. Institutional and other buyers entered a fair number of bids in the corporate low yield division.

United States government issues recorded another upturn in response to yesterday's treasury announcement that the June financing operation could be a straight refunding affair and involve no "new money." Against a few minor dips the federal list showed many gains running to a top 15-32ds, many to record highs. Closing prices were around the best of the day.

Speculative bonds also had an improved following and the finish saw a generous sprinkling of gains of fractions to a point or more in the rail and miscellaneous groups.

Chicago Stocks.

Zenith Radio attracted interest on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday with an advance of a point to 18¾, on a turnover of 1,950 shares. Commonwealth Edison relinquished its place as volume leader, but continued in demand with sales totaling 1,750 shares. The stock reached a new 1939 high at 28⅜, but slipped back to close unchanged at 28¼. A few transactions in American Public Service preferred sent its price up 3½ points to 83½.

Bank Stocks.

Trading in Chicago bank stocks was moderate yesterday, but the market maintained a firm undertone. Advances of $1 to $2 a share were recorded in the bid prices of Chicago Title, City National, Continental Illinois, and First National shares.

EXPERTS LOWER PREDICTIONS ON WHEAT HARVEST

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$ .77⅞	$ .78	$ .76⅝
Corn	.51	.51½	.57⅛
Oats	.33⅜	.33⅞	.26⅝
Rye	.53¾	.53⅞	.56⅝
Soy beans	.90¼	.90¾	.85

Prospects on June 1 were for an American wheat crop of 700,000,000 bushels, it is estimated by Chicago statisticians, or about equal to the actual domestic disappearance of that grain during the two preceding crop years.

A winter wheat crop of 516,000,000 bushels is forecast by the Chicago experts from the condition prevailing during the last week in May. This is 28,000,000 bushels under the department of agriculture's May 1 estimate. The spring wheat crop is placed at 184,000,000 bushels. No estimate was made on the spring seeded grain last month. The aggregate wheat crop in 1938 was 931,000,000 bushels.

Nat C. Murray made the highest estimate on the 1939 wheat crop. Mrs. E. H. Miller's forecast was lowest.

Rye, Oat Crops Smaller.

Smaller crops of rye and oats than were harvested last year are expected this season as the result of unfavorable weather conditions recently.

Indicated yields of wheat, rye, and oats as estimated by Chicago statisticians compare as follows [in millions of bushels.]:

The estimates on the domestic grain crops issued yesterday were about in line with the expectations of brokers, and had relatively little effect on the markets.

Wheat Belt Gets More Rain.

Good rains fell late Thursday and yesterday over the larger part of the American winter and spring wheat belts. The favorable weather conditions for all crops led to fairly general selling of futures.

Although the day's low prices on wheat were not maintained, losses on the Chicago Board of Trade were ⅝ to ½ cent a bushel. Kansas City and Minneapolis declined about ¼ cent, and Winnipeg was ⅜ to 1⅛ cents lower.

Corn and other grains followed the action of wheat. Corn closed ⅛ to ¼ cent lower. Oats declined ½ cent and rye was ⅜ to ⅝ cent lower.

TRADE VOLUME HOLDS UP WELL, SURVEY SHOWS

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—Despite loss of one business day [Memorial day], both retail and wholesale trade volume this week held close to the level of the preceding week, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today. Increase over the volume of the corresponding week a year ago averaged 6 to 12 per cent in the retail section. All trade movement, according to the credit agency's weekly review, continued to show a trend toward improvement. Higher temperatures in most parts of the country accelerated demand for seasonal goods, giving wholesalers a heavier run of orders than they have known in weeks. Wholesale prices, it was reported, have strengthened.

British Air Lines Increase Passenger and Mail Trafic

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—Passenger and mail trafic on British air lines increased considerably during the first quarter of this year, the department of commerce reported today. Official figures issued by the Imperial Airways, Ltd., show that in the January-March period 6,250 passengers were carried on European routes, compared with 4,700 in the corresponding quarter of 1938. The record for mail carried shows an even larger expansion, the figure for the first quarter of 1939 being 258,750 pounds, against 125,000 pounds in the first three months of last year.

Stock Exchange Members Collateral Borrowings Dip

New York, June 2.—(AP)—The New York Stock exchange today reported collateral borrowings by members as of May 31 totaled $545,975,979, a decrease of $1,467,196 from the April 29 total. Face amount of government securities pledged as collateral included in the general total was $44,367,600, compared with $28,056,200 a month earlier. Low point for brokers' loans since 1929 was $241,599,943 on Aug. 1, 1932. The high record was $8,549,383,979 on Oct. 1, 1929.

CHARGE POLITICS LEAD TO SOUTH'S RAIL CUT PLEA

Washington, D. C., June 2.—(AP)—A Chicago lawyer charged today that "politics" gave rise to the south's petition for reduced railroad freight rates on shipments of southern origin.

Luther M. Walter, representing Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin, and Michigan, told the interstate commerce commission settlement of the south's rate complaint would "destroy a platform of political candidates for many years to come." J. Van Dyke Norman of Louisville, Ky., counsel for the Southeastern Governors' conference, denied vigorously that his group had used "any political influence" in pressing the rate petition. He declared neither he nor his clients had sponsored any of the legislation before congress to wipe out differentials.

The full commission sat in for two days of attorneys' arguments over a proposed report in which Commissioner William E. Lee upheld principal parts of a petition for lower north bound rates on shipments from southern freight territory.

Walter, who closed the north's argument, declared the record of the southern case did not provide adequate information for the commission to reach a decision.

SET RAIL RATE HEARING.

Oral argument will be heard June 13 on the application of the Rock Island lines for a reduction in freight rates on sand and gravel shipments in Illinois, the Illinois commerce commission anuonced. The road proposes to reduce the rate from $1.11 a ton to 97 cents a ton on shipments between Chillicothe, Springfield, Decatur, and intermediate points.

Senate Committee Votes Further Dollar Rigging.

Senator Adams [D., Colo.] asked if Frank referred to the General Motors corporation.

"I mean General Motors, General Electric, U. S. Steel, and others," Frank replied. He said they were able to finance their own plants and other capital needs.

Draper Indorses Mead Bill.

Draper indorses the Mead bill, adding that the new powers he proposed for the reserve banks would provide additional credit facilities for small business.

Draper said the reserve banks are restricted in making capital loans to corporations for a five year period. This could be changed, he said, by legislation that would permit the segregation of such loans from other assets of the banks.

The renewal of the President's monetary powers, it was indicated, may play a vital part in the new inflationary program. The measure extends the President's power to further devalue the dollar to 50 per cent of its former gold value. He already has cut it to 59.06 per cent of its former value. It also extends the life of the 2 billion dollar stabilization fund. Recent congressional demands have been made to use the fund to help promote economic recovery.

Authority to Debase Silver.

The measure also renews the President's authority to reduce the silver dollar to the same extent that the gold dollar is debased and the authority to fix the ratio between gold and silver as he may determine. It gives authority to the President for the unlimited coinage of gold and silver; the power to issue silver certificates against the 2½ billion ounces of silver now in the treasury, and the power to reduce the weights of subsidiary coins.

There is at present about 6.6 billion dollars of currency of all kinds in circulation. Under the President's dictatorial powers he could at any time increase the amount of currency in circulation to an estimated 16.2 billion dollars.

By devaluing the gold dollar to 50 per cent of its old value the President could make a "profit" of 2 billion 700 million dollars on the gold supply, which is now close to 16 billion dollars.

Approve Bill, 5 to 4.

The senate subcommittee considering the bill rejected by a vote of 5 to 4 a motion to strike from the measure the clause extending until June 30, 1940, the President's authority to devalue the dollar. The subcommittee then reported the bill favorably without a record vote to the full committee which is expected to approve it next week. The bill has passed the house.

Senators voting to strike the devaluation clause were Carter Glass [D., Va.], chairman of the committee; Alva B. Adams [D., Colo.], John G. Townsend [R., Del.], and Robert A. Taft [R., O.].

Of the 5 votes against the motion to strike the clause, only one, that of Senator Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], the Democratic leader, was cast personally. Barkley held the proxies of Senators Miller and James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.]. Senator Miller whose switch in position made possible the favorable report, recently was called to the White House for a conference with the President.

Consider 80 Cent Minimum for World Wheat Price

OTTAWA, Ont., June 2.—(AP)—Trade Minister W. D. Euler today announced a subcommittee of the world wheat committee was considering an international wheat agreement providing for a basic minimum world price equal to 80 cents a bushel for No. 3 northern wheat at Fort William, Ont. The committee is to meet again July 7, Euler said. He indicated the Canadian delegation to the London meetings was agreeable to the proposed price.

New York Bank Clearings Decline in Holiday Week

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—The New York Clearing House association announced bank clearings for the week ended today, which included the Memorial day holiday, fell to $2,881,869,141, from $3,099,017,546 in the preceding week. Average net demand deposits increased $81,459,000; average time deposits decreased $5,633,000.

BUSINESS BOOKS

"America's Balance Sheet," by Henry H. Heimann. [National Association of Credit Men, New York.]

Henry H. Heimann, executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men, has been writing for national business magazines on American economic life. His light, conversational observations on government, business, labor, credit, and natural resources during the last six years have been collected into this volume.

In his essay "Stop! Look! Listen!" he discloses that he preceded Congressman Bruce Barton with the suggestion that congress declare a holiday on new laws and repeal some of the "uneconomic" ones cluttering the books.

Discussing the unbalanced federal budget he warns that no nation can continue long adding deficits into a staggering debt. He suggests that the budget be balanced and a surplus of at least a billion dollars annually for debt retirement be set aside for sound fiscal policy.

100,000 See 8,000 R. O. T. C. Cadets Parade in Loop—Faint Tappings Heard from Sunken British Submarine

Young patriots of Chicago—8,000 strong—drawn up before the Grant park bandshell yesterday, when R. O. T. C. units from 27 high schools stood at attention while colors awarded by The Tribune were presented to best trained units. Later more than 100,000 watched the parade of 8,000 cadets through the loop in the biggest R. O. T. C. event in the United States. The demonstration is sponsored each year by the board of education and The Chicago Tribune.
